Baby's Death Hastened

Hagersville, Oct. 17.—The infant child of Samuel Ponessa, 35 years old, an Italian laborer, died here, and the authorities of Haldimand county believe the death was at least hastened by punishment inflicted by the male parent, who is now in Cayuga jail. Dr. Holmes, who conducted the autopsy to-day by order of Coroner Robert Macdonald, found it is claimed, the body of a poorly nourished child, and will testify at the inquest that the end was at least hastened by punishment inflicted just before death resulted. While the evidence taken thus far at the inquest has not disclosed the circumstances attending the death of the little one, the authorities say the wife of the prisoner sought refuge at the home of Mrs. Ristin, a neighbor, where she went with her little child in her arms at 6.30 Saturday evening. At the house, it is alleged, the little one died, and the mother it is claimed attributed the death to punishment inflicted by the father, who, she said, claimed that he could not sleep by the continued crying of the child. The authorities allege a strap was used on the infant, and that the body bore the marks at the time of the post mortem examination. The Ponessa family live in the Italian quarter at the west end of the town. Ponessa is employed at the stone quarries. The family consisted of the parents and two children. The dead child was but eight months old. Since the arrest of her husband Mrs Ponessa has denied that the child was ill-treated, and has defended him against any accusations that had been made.

Turkeys Scarce for Thanksgiving

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—The Dominion Government, which proclaimed Thanksgiving on the 31st of this month, is now at work trying to save the holiday from disappointment by reason of the extinction of the necessary Thanksgiving turkey Dr. Charles Higgins, Dominion biologist, states that the high price of turkeys is not the result of a combine, but is due to a grert mortality among turkeys all over Canada, caused by a parasitic and contagious disease commonly known as "blackhead." The disease which manifests itself by black spots on the comb, is raging throughout the Dominion. The only efficient remedy so far discovered is to starve the bird for 48 hours and then administer a diluted solution of muriate acid, a teaspoonful of acid to a quart of water. Dr. Higgins, however, is at work upon some plan by which the disease may be stamped out or contagion prevented. The disease is reported from every province of the Dominion.

Talk Dollars and Cents

Retail catalogue houses have won many farmers to their list of customers because they talk dollars and cents all the time. They have also combined with this talk misrepresentation of the country merchant's prices. To neutralize this the country merchant must talk dollars and cents to the farmer, and whenever he thinks it is necessary show in plain figures where his goods of equal quality are lower in price than lines sold by retail catalogue houses. Also where for the same money he gives better quality and better satisfaction than the catalogue house. Some farmers can be appealed to on the ground that they ought to spend their dollars at home. It helps the town and the growth of the town increases the value of their farms. But those farmers are few. Dollars and cents is the argument for most of them. Whether this argument is made in printer's ink, whether in personal conversation, or both, is for the merchant to decide. Enough has developed to teach all of us that from now on this mail-order competition must be met on the dollars and cents basis, and with plenty of advertising of some kind or other.
