Murray-Allan

A quiet and pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's R.C. church Toronto, on Tuesday morning, Aug. 30th. The contracting parties were Miss Annie Allan, of Toronto and Mr. J. J. Murray, ex-Reeve and one of Cayuga's prominent business men. The Very Rev. Dean Hand celebrated the Nuptial Mass. The bride was tastefully costumed in a champagne satin de chene with Persian trimmings and large picture hat with plumes. Her attendant, Miss Agnes Hartnett, (cousin) of Hamilton, formerly of Cayuga, was attired in a French blue satin de chene, persian trimmings and dainty picture hat. The bridegroom was supported by Mr. Joseph Allen, brother of the bride.

Shortly after the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Murray left for a short trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, returning to their home in Cayuga on Wednesday evening. The bride's travelling suit was a combination of grey and black, neatly designed. A pretty clotche turban completed her apparel. The bride is a sister of Miss Elsie Allan, of Toronto, who during the past year superintended the care of Mr. Murray's household and kindly looked after his three young children.

Death of David Kitchen

Mr. David Kitchen, for nearly 40 years a resident of Waterford, died suddenly on Friday, Sept. 2nd. He complained of not feeling well on Wednesday night, but was better Thursday About 11 p.m. the same night he had a stroke and died in a few hours.

Mr. Kitchen lived in Bealton before coming here. He married Elizabeth Honey, at that time a resident of Boston. He was born in Windham, learned the trade of blacksmith at Lutesville and afterwards went into business for himself at Bealton. For over 30 years he conducted a blacksmith shop in this place, and became well acquainted with the people of the village and surrounding country.

Those left to mourn their loss are his widow, five sons and two daughters.

St. Paul's Church.

The Rev. H. J. Leake, Nanticoke, conducted the services on Sunday and preached two excellent sermons.

Sunday, 25th inst., will be the anniversary of the Consecration of St. Paul's church and will be fittingly observed with special services.

The young people of the congregation are to hold a social meeting in the school room, on Wednesday evening, 28th inst.

Grand Concert

Howard Russell and Eddie Pigott will appear in the Music Hall, Jarvis, Wednesday evening, Oct. 5th.

Mrs. T. E. Morrow returned home from her trip to the West last week.

Joseph Hartwell of Madison, Ohio is spending a few days with his brothers in town.

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving services in the Anglican churches of Nanticoke and Cheapside were held last Sunday. The Rev. Canon Belt, M.A., Jarvis, officiated. Large congregations attended all the services which were very hearrily rendered. The offertories were for Missions and will practically complete the raising of the two apportionments Foreign and Home Missions. The offertory at Nanticoke was over $70.
