MEXICAN SCRAMBLED EGGS.

When you are tired of plain scrambled eggs try them as they are cooked in Mexico. Roast a dozen fresh green peppers a few minutes, peel, remove the seeds and chop, when they should be boiled in a very little water until tender, and season well with butter. Beat six or eight eggs, add with salt to the peppers and fry all for a moment in hot butter.

RHUBARB GINGER.

Wash but do not peel the rhubarb. The pink skin gives it a pretty color. Measure the rhubarb and allow as much sugar as you have fruit. To four pounds each sugar and rhubarb allow the juice of two lemons and the yellow rinds, cut thin, with an eighth of a pound of green ginger root cut in thin slices. Cook until thick as marmalade.

QUICK BROWN BREAD.

Two cups graham flour, one cup sour milk, one-half cup molasses, two tablespoonfuls sugar, pinch of salt, one teaspoonful soda in two tablespoonfuls warm water, three-fourths cup raisins chopped and floured. Bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven. Excellent.

BISQUE MERINGUES.

Beat the whites of two eggs dry; gradually beat in half a cup of sugar and one-fourth a cup of almonds chopped in ovals the size of a tablespoon on inch boards covered with paper. Let cook three-fourths of an hour in a very moderate oven. Increase the heat near the end of the cooking. Remove from the papers and invert, then return to the oven to dry off the under side. Put two ovals together with fruit jelly or with whipped cream between.

COTTAGE CHEESE FROM SWEET MILK.

For each quart of milk take one junket tablet. Crush and dissolve the tablets in a few tablespoonfuls of cold water. Let the milk be of a temperature between 85 degrees and 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Stir in the tablets and let the mixture remain in a warm place until firmly thickened. Turn into a cheesecloth bag and hang up to drain. When the whey is largely drained off, put the bag of curd under pressure to remain several hours or overnight. Add about a teaspoonful of salt to a pint of curd, less rather than more, also thick, heavy cream as is convenient to make of a good consistency. Shape into balls or mold in empty baking powder boxes or a brick ice cream mold.

FRIED PEPPERS WITH CHEESE.

The Mexicans serve their cheese in combination with peppers. For this the fresh green chillies are preferred. Choose fine large ones, blister in a very hot oven and peel off the outer skin. Cut each one down one side so that it may be spread out flat, and wrap it around a slice of strong cheese. Fry in good sweet lard. Prepare a sauce as for Spanish omelet, but with the addition of some flour and water to thicken and a clove of garlic if liked. Pour the sauce over the fried peppers and cheese, and the dish is ready for the table.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 8, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

ENGLISH WOMEN'S FEET.

Their Increase in Size Revealed by the Modish Short Skirts.

London—The short skirts now in vogue in London are making one fact quite evident; that Englishwomen's feet are larger than they were the last time short skirts were in fashion.

A reporter watched a number of his countrywomen at smart tea shops and in fashionable thoroughfares and was convinced that this was the case, so he went to various shoe stores for confirmation, and there he learned the truth, that the Englishwomen is taking far larger sizes in shoes than in former days.

Substantial fives and sixes are required in place of the twos and threes which used to be worn. Indeed one shoe dealer informed the reporter that in the last ten years the lowest size in women's shoes had risen from a two and a half to a five ,that is from a 9½ inch shoe to a 10 inch shoe.

In proportion as sizes have increased heels have grown higher, till now it is not an uncommon sight to see a tall Englishwoman adding to her stature by 3 1-2 inch heels, on which she totters along.

The feet of American women are not getting larger, say English shoe dealers. In fact it is for American sales that the small sizes are kept in some of the larger shops.

CURED HER KIDNEYS

Mrs. John Pettigrew, of Central Economy N.S., was practically helpless from rheumatism.

She could not stoop, and her limbs ached so that it was torture for her to be up and around the house.

As Mrs. Pettigrew put it, "I was all crippled up. I saw Gin Pills advertised and sent for some, and after taking only two boxes, am a different woman. Gin Pills are the only thing that helped me, and I cannot say too much for them."

If you have that dreadful pain in the back— if you are tortured with rheumatism—get Gin Pills at once.

A Legend of February.

Here is the pretty legend which tells why February has only twenty-eight or twenty-nine days. Long ago, they say, February was a gambler, and he was so unlucky that he soon lost all his money. Like other gamblers, he tried to recover it, and he said to his companions that if they would lend him some money he would give them as security one of his days. January and March, who were naturally associated with him more often than any of the other months, accepted his offer, and as poor February soon lost the money which he had borrowed each of them acquired one of his days. That is why January and March have each thirty-one days and February has only twenty-eight in ordinary and twenty-nine in leap years.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

owe their singular effectiveness in curing Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica to their power of stimulating and strengthening the kidneys. They enable these organs to thoroughly filter from the blood the uric acid (the product of waste matter) which gets into the joints and muscles and causes these painful diseases. Over half a century of constant use has proved conclusively that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills strengthen weak kidneys and

Toy Spaniel an Old Breed.

The English toy spaniel is undoubtedly one of the oldest and most popular breeds of pet dogs known. As far back as the days of Charles the Martyr this breed was much prized by the ladies of the court. In the narrative of the execution of Mary, Queen of Scots, indorsed in Lord Burghley's hand and forwarded to the court, it was recorded that one of the executioners found her little pet (a spaniel of practically the same type as those afterward known in the reign of Charle II.), which had crept under the folds of her garments to be near her, and which would not be [illegible] away.—From Bit and Spur.

Maidens Sold by Auction.

A singular custom obtains to this day in some of the towns on the lower Rhine—namely, that of "selling" maidens at public auction. For nearly four centuries on Easter Monday—auction day—the town crier or clerk of St. Goar has called all the young people together and to the highest bidder sold the privilege of dancing with the chosen girl and her only during the entire year. The fees are put into the public poor box.

Wellington's Coolness.

The Duke of Wellington was one day sitting at his library table when the door opened and without any announcement in stalked a figure of singularly ill omen.

"Who are you?" asked the duke in his short and dry manner, looking up without the slightest change of countenance upon the intruder.

"I am Apollyon. I am sent here to kill you."

"Kill me? Very odd."

"I am Apollyon and must put you to death."

"I am not told the day or the hour, but I must do my mission."

"Very inconvenient; very busy; great many letters to write. Call again or write me word. I'll be ready for you."

The duke then went on with his correspondence. The maniac, appalled probably by the stern, immovable old gentleman, backed out of the room and in half an hour was in an asylum.

FRIEND OF KINGS.

Sir Ernest Cassel, Once a Poor Boy Now Entertains Royalty.

Sir Ernest Cassel, one of the late King Edward's hosts at Biarritz, has had a career full of romance, the romance full of the self-made man. It seems like a fairy tale that the unknown lad of the '70s should have been the friend and counsellor of the King of England and the German Emperor.

It is rumored that he is one of the six men who move in the mysterious background of the Government of England, says the Gentlewoman. He has been the builder of his own fortune. Money has grown under his hands, and banks and railways have made his vast riches.

One of the most dramatic moments in his career was a Boer war incident. The British Government stood in need of a big sum at short notice. It was obtained by Sir Ernest in three hours. Luck seems not to attend him on the turf, although he once won the Two Thousand.

Much has been written on Brook House, his Park Lane residence, but there has been scant mention of the Turkish baths which occupy part of the ground floor, nor of the marvellous range of kitchens. There are six of these, with marble floors and walls, and they include pastry kitchens, grilling, roasting and boiling kitchens, a vegetable kitchen and a room for fruit and flowers.

HELPLESS LITTLE BABIES.

This is the highest praise a medicine can get. And we give you the guarantee of a Government analyst that this medicine is absolutely safe. No other medicine intended for young children give mothers such a guarantee. Mrs. Robt. Mieth, Hotham, Ont., says: "I cannot tell you how much good Baby's Own Tablets have done my baby. I am sorry I did not know of them earlier." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Spring Parable.

The wind is blowing,
The sower is sowing,
The seed is flowing;
The sun is shining;
The clouds inclining
Their silver lining.

This is the seed-time,
The hope-time, the heed time;
Soon comes the need-time.

Laughing or weeping,
Waking or sleeping,
'Tis worth the knowing
That God is keeping
For future reaping
The sower's sowing.

The Deacon's Philosophy.

I remember when a boy
How I used to just enjoy
Riding with old Deacon Hill
When he used to drive to the mill.
Skittish nag the deacon druv,
For he had a kind of love
For a good, free-actin' colt;
And he'd keep an easy holt
On the reins and when she'd shy
He'd just drawl, so kind of dry,
"There, there, colt! Now, now, no tearin'!
No use cuttin' up and rarin'.
Just keep right down in the road.
No use fretting at the load.
Steady pull's not half so wearin'.
There, there, colt! Now, now, no tearin'!"

Years ago that boyhood day;
Colt and deacon's passed away.
I ain't young's I used to be,
By a good deal, no sirree!
Coltish then, I must allow,
Well broke into harness now,
'Cept when things go wrong, then I
Want to rip and tear and shy.
Then inside me kind of still,
Seem to hear old Deacon Hill:
'There, there, boy! Now, now, no tearin'!
No use cuttin' up and rarin'.
Just keep cool and peg away
Do the best you can each day;
Just keep patient and forbearin'.
There, there, boy! Now, now, no tearin'!"

New Field for American Engineers.

Russia is becoming interested in hydro-electric power plants, and is examining into the matter of electrifying suburban divisions of its State railroads. An investigation is being made of our high-tension transmission systems, and, says the Scientific American, it is probable that a new field will be opened for American engineers.

An Elevated for Tokyo.

A scheme for the construction of an elevated electric railway at Tokio is at present under consideration. It is proposed that there shall be two lines, one running from the east to the west of the city, and the other from the north to the south. The cost of construction of the projected lines is estimated at $12,000,000.

LEARN TO SWIM.

Summer is marred by the number of drowning accidents which occur. Year after year young men and women, bright and full of promise, are swept into an eddy or upset from a canoe. Many of these accidents might be prevented if swimming was an art more generally acquired.

BACK-WEARY MEN

The Helping Hand of Dr. Hamilton's Pills Will Cure in a Few Weeks.

"Foundry work compels men to work in the winter in very cold shops," writes Tunis T. Bolter, a well known mechanic in Hamilton. "I contracted a very severe cold a few months ago which settled in my back and kidneys. I suffered constant pain, and in bending over my work and in heavy lifting, the pain at times was excruciating. My digestion got all out of order, doubtless because the kidneys didn't work right. My wife had used Dr. Hamilton's Pills as a family medicine and I took her advice and started them also. To my great delight a few doses helped me so much it was proof I was using a true remedy. Natural action of the kidneys was brought about, burning and aching ceased, and the back-lameness gradually disappeared. I no longer fear my work. I feel strong and robust, and with such a remedy as Dr. Hamilton's Pills at hand I will probably never again be sick. I advise every working man to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

No other medicine will regulate the system and maintain health like Dr. Hamilton's Pills—beware of the dealer who tries to induce you to take something else on which he makes more profit. Sold in yellow boxes 25c. Prepared by the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

Travelled as Merchandise.

A novel charge of fraud has been before the Italian courts recently. A dealer had four cases of liqueur which he was sending, or rather taking, from Naples to Milan. To save part of his railway fare he stowed himself in another packing case, which was carried as merchandise.

At an intermediate station the man desired some fresh air and took a stroll on the platform. Then he was discovered and prosecuted. In default of a fine a term of imprisonment was passed. The enterprising dealer, it may be assumed, had a fight over the decision, and it has been reversed on appeal.—From the London Globe.

"CHRIST CRUCIFIED."

Now ere I slept, my prayer had been that I might see my way
To do the will of Christ, our Lord and Master, day by day;
And with this prayer upon my lips, I knew not that I dreamed,
But suddenly the world of night a pandemonium seemed.
From forest, and from slaughter house, from bull ring, and from stall,
There rose an anguished cry of pain, a loud, appealing call;
An man—the dumb beasts next of kin—with gun, and whip, and knife,
Went pleasure-seeking through the earth, blood-bent on taking life.
From trap, and cage, and house, and zoo, and street, that awful strain
Of tortured creatures rose and swelled the orchestra of pain.
And then methought the gentle Christ appeared to me and spoke:
"I called you, but ye answered not"—and in my fear I woke.

Again I slept. I seemed to climb a hard, ascending track;
And just behind me labored one whose patient face was black.
I pitied him; but hour by hour he gained upon the path;
He stood beside me, stood upright—and then I turned in wrath.
"Go back!" I cried. "What right have you to walk beside me here?
For you are black, and I am white."
I paused, struck dumb with fear.
For lo! the black men was not there, but Christ stood in his place;
And oh! the pain, the pain, the pain, that looked from that dear face.

Then next I heard the roar of mills; and moving through the noise,
Like phantoms in an underworld, were little girls and boys.
Their backs were bent, their brows were pale, their eyes were sad and old.
But by the labor of their hands greed added added gold to gold.
Again the Presence and the Voice:
Behold the crimes I see,
As ye have done it unto these, so have ye done to me."

Now when I woke, the air was rife with that sweet, rhythmic din,
Which tells the world that Christ has come to save mankind from sin.
And through the open door of church and temple passed a throng,
To worship Him with bended knee, with sermon, and with song.
But over all I heard the cry of hunted, mangled things;
Those creatures which are part of God, though they have hoofs and wings.

I saw in mill, and mine, and shop, the little slaves of greed;
I heard the strife of race with race, all sprung from one God-seed.
And then I bowed by head in shame, and in contrition cried—
"Lo, after nineteen hundred years, Christ is Crucified."

HOUSES IN A CIRCLE.

A Buenos Ayres Architect's New Idea in Building.

Buenos Ayres has an architect in Prof. Pierre Roveda who has devised a special plan for building whole districts of houses for the workingman. Instead of erecting the houses on the ordinary square block Prof. Roveda has used a circle, which has a diameter of from 100 to 130 yards.

This circle of ground is divided into ninety-nine radial lots converging to a centre. The circle is concentrically divided to form an interior avenue—four yards broad—to allow communication with the centre of the circle. Each avenue leads to external sidewalks and to longitudinal and transverse streets.

In the centre of the circle is a plot of forty yards in diameter where children may be lift to themselves without their parents' care, in charge of a specially designated person. In this garden a playroom, a school, a hospital, a fire station and an administration room are to be found.

Naturally this circular plot of ground leaves four corners. In each of these four corners the professor proposes to build four chalets, such as grocery shops, dairies, haberdasheries and the like, which are intended to be carried on in a co-operative way. In each of the ninety-nine radial plots a workingman's house is to be erected on the English plan. Prof. Roveda arguer for his circular arrangement that it will give continuous sunshine at all hours of the day and plenty of light and air.—From the Chicago Tribune.

Who Shall Do the Proposing?

(Chicago Sunday Tribune).

There has been much discussion of late over the comparative value of the old method of the man as the wooer and the newer one of woman as pursuer in affairs of the heart. And after the cloud of talk has blown over its silver lining apparently bears on its shiny surface the conclusion, "it all depends." This is a serious question and one worthy of settlement now and for all time. The average woman has about as little use for a timid man as the average man has for a forward woman, but one of the standing family jokes to be perpetrated at regular intervals by all husbands until the end of time is "when my wife proposed to me, etc., etc." So, perhaps he might enjoy the real sensation. Or perhaps he might not consider an appeal, "please be mine," from bewitching femininity in the light of forwardness.

But all feminines are not bewitching, and more's the pity, only the other class need pursue. It were better for man to cling to the past, or he may find a peck of trouble a mere trifle. And what if two timid ones chanced to get together? Horrors, what a tragedy! Of course, the phonograph ever may be relied upon as an emergency friend. A curtained corner, behind which rests the hidden voice. Suddenly there falls upon the parlor air in dulcet (or bass, as preferred) tones "Do you love me?" Both answer in unison, if desire, thereby eliminating any embarrassment to be felt in being the first to speak. Or mayhap this ancient fable may be of assistance:

Mary and John had been sweethearts for many years. Mary had waited long for John to set his sighs to words, but persistently John's vocal cords refused to work. John came to call one evening and wrote upon the stone mantelpiece:

"If it wasn't for hope a heart would break."

When Mary entered and read she spunked up.

"It it wasn't for bashfulness a fool would speak," she wrote beneath.

She emulated John's grammar and she broke the meter, but John spoke.

And always there's the model of Priscilla and the other John.
