To a Chance Acquaintance

Farewell! I lightly touch your hand and go,
Yet strangely moved, as one whose heart is stirred
By some sweet melody once only heard,
And ever after haunting. Even so [flow
Some face amongst the crowds which ebb and
Through city streets, a stranger's look or word
Speaks of love missed, or haply loved deferred
To some new life beyond the life we know.
Ah! shall we find each other when we start
On that long journey? Will the bonds unseen
That drew us here, bind us there heart to heart?
Our lives just touched; but Fate struck sheer between,
The way dividing—so we smile and part;
Farewell! God keep you, friend that might have been.

By an amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act in the legislature motorists may now travel a maximum rate of 15 miles an hour on city streets and 20 miles in the country. The old speed regulations, which have caused an outburst of indignation, among motor car owners called for a maximum rate of 10 miles in the city and 15 miles in the country.

Store window advertising has a distinct value and a place in the management of great stores. But this form must be suplemented with newspaper display. There never has been a great business established without the aid of newspaper advertising and the greatest in the world has rested on that foundation. Nevertheless, study the windows and you will be repaid even if some who are passing by think you are from green pastures.

It always affords us the greatest pleasure to note the success that attends the efforts of our ambitious young men who are making a name for themselves in the world. Another former Jarvis boy has certainly won honors for himself in the person of Palmer Thompson and a brother of Miss Lillie Thompson of town. In a letter received from him from Cambridge in part says: "I have won a $2,000 fellowship for next year. It is given me to travel in Africa and East Indies, studying and collecting the plants of those countries. It is the biggest thing of its kind Harvard has ever given. I expect to leave in late summer for Europe where I will spend a little time, then go to Africa and stay until Christmas; then on to Java and East Indies and stay till the following summer. Of course these plans may be changed depending on the steamship lines and climate, etc."

In sentencing a youth for burglary recently Judge Fawcett, of Brooklyn, declared that of the 2,700 boys before him for sentence in a period of five years, not one of them attended Sunday School. The Sunday schools are doing a great work for the young people, but the question arises why were these 2,700 boys not attendants at Sunday school. The parents of these youthful criminals must have been lax in their duty, but then, perhaps more efforts on the part of the Sunday school officials might have brought them into the fold.

The Simcoe Reformer of last week says: "John Garvey of Cavuga, aged 90 years, together with his daughter, Mrs. B. There is nothing that call attention and draws people to a town equal to a good newspaper. In order for a man to make a good newspaper he must have the patronage of the people among whom he lives If he has halfway support it stands to reason that he must make a poorer paper, and in doing this every man in the town and surrounding country has to bear a part of the loss. For this reason, if for no other, the man who tries to make a good newspaper should have the support of his town people, all of whom reap fully as much benefit from its effort as he does himself.

Everyone is cordially invited.

This summer we should see that the common house fly is not given a chance to carry disease. It is claimed that this little insect is responsible for a great many cases of contagious diseases, and to prevent infection the authorities should take every precaution. It is certain that the housewives will co-operate with the authorities in trying to get rid of this great pest, as there is nothing more annoying than to have flies "tickling" you when attempting to work or nothing more disagreeable than to have the little insects getting in your food.

There is no such disguise as that of the eyes. If we want to get an impression of a person's face we have to look at the eyes. You will find this in any railway carriage or public conveyance. You are interested in a face; you fix your eyes on the opposite eyes. If the eyes meet both fall; the eyes drop apologetically, for the enquiry is too intimate. The two people know well enough though neither may be artists, that you cannot get an impression of the face by looking at the chin, or the forehead, or the nose; you must look stright at the eyes the window of the soul—and the face becomes a recognizable unit. The best disguise—as burglars and children knows—is the mask that covers the eyes only.

Man has done wonders since he came before the public. He has navigated the ocean, he has penetrated the mysterties of the stray heavens, he has harnessed the lightning and made it pull street cars and light the great cities of the world But he can't find a spool of red thread in his wife's work basket; he can't discover her pocket in a dress hanging in a closet; he can't hang out clothes and get them on the line the right side up. He cannot hold clothespins in his mouth while he is doing it, either. He cannot be polite to somebody he hates He cannot sit in a rocking chair without barging the rockers into the baseboards. He cannot put the tidy on the sofa pillow right side out He cannot sew on a button. In short, he cannot do a hundred things that women do almost instinctively.

Hot Cross Buns

Good Friday breakfast would be incomplete without the hot cross buns which have been associated with it for generations. Following is a recipe for making the buns. Beat up a sponge of one cup of scalded milk, one egg beaten with a tablespoon of sugar, quarter of a cup of yeast, a saltspoonfull of salt, and two cups of flour. Beat well, and let stand in a warm place over night. In the morning add flour to make a stiff dough, and knead for fifteen minutes. Let it rise until light. then work in quarter of a cup of softened butter, half a cup of currants, and a saltspoon of cinnamon. Let rise in the bowl then take out, shape into buns, let rise, and bake in moderate oven Make a deep cut in the form of a cross just before they are put into the oven. Glaze with white of egg beaten stiff with powdered sugar. Sometimes a bit of citron is placed in the centre of each burn.

Leap Year Ball

About fifty couples were present at the first Leap Year Ball given in the Music Hall, Thursday evening. The Kindree Orchestra furnished the music and did credit to themselves as well as giving entire satisfaction to the youth and beauty and all who participated in the mazy whirl. Misses Ruby Sharp and Bell Mitchell, together with other young ladies of town, deserve all kinds of credit for the manner in which the ball was conducted as it was indeed a successful and pleasureable affair. The lunch was also tempting and toothsome, and nothing was left undone to give one and all a most enjoyable evening. J. S. Burwash tendered a vote of thanks to the young ladies for their untiring efforts which was endorsed by all with a hearty clap of the hands, while some of the young men almost yelled themselves hoarse. Just before old Sol made his appearance the assembly broke up, each and every one feeling that this ball will go on record as one of the best ever given in Jarvis.

In Loving Memory

Another head shall rule—shall undertake
The work of him, whom God has called away.
Another's heart must bear, without a break,
The constant prayerful strain of every day.

Another's hand must take the Bread of Life
And feed the hungry souls who meet him there.
Another's word will quiet the varied strife
Oft too, will bid the faithful 'come to prayer'

Another's feet will tread the well known paths
That led to homes where joy or sorrow come,
At morn, or noon—in evening's aftermath
Will guide, will lead with gentle unsought fame.

Such surely was the priest and friend whom
Has called to rest so early in life's day! [God
Forget him not! Think of a true record
"The service of one, faithful all the way."
