There is no need to exhort the men and women of this community to be steadfast in their loyalty to the Empire while the war lasts. No doubt, however, many thought they were giving once for all when they contributed to the relief funds last winter. But the needs are becoming more pressing with the passing of the days. With thousands of wounded Canadians, — there is more need for bandages than there was last winter when we had no soldiers at the front. As our fighting forces increase there is more need for army supplies such as women can make, and the work of the ladies at home is appreciated by the men. One lad said he would sooner have one pair of socks from his home town than five pairs from the supply tent. The women at home contrive to knit something into the socks that no machine can do, and that something is sympathy and devotion. The ladies, at all events in this community, will do their best to live up to their splendid record.

THE FAILURE OF AMERICA

By W. A. WILLISON.
Special Correspondent of The Daily News in Great Britain.

London, April 25.—American cables tell us of the peace movement which pro-Germans are prosecuting in the United States. We have seen little American comment. Mr. Theodore Roosevelt has bitterly condemned the activity of the pacifists. Men of great worth have joined him in his denunciation. But it is hard to feel that the heart of the United States cares. The failure of that tremendous democracy has been one of the striking facts of the war. We have seen the sham of Hague conventions exposed. We have found the nation of Lincoln silent upon the outrage of Belgium. No protest met the violation of that little nation's neutrality. Instead we saw in The New York Times an interview with Andrew Carnegie glorifying peace, glorifying Hague conventions, gloryfying democracy, glorifying the pacific influence of America in the councils of the nations.

It is such men as Andrew Carnegie, publicists, world actors, who have made the United States almost an object of contempt. We do not mind that Lincoln's nation stands aside when civilization is at stake. We do not mind their shipping protests. But they have glorified themselves in the search of abstract peace and proclaimed the wonder of their democracy, the miracle of their heritage, until now their failure even to protest against the violation of the articles to which under Roosevelt's hand and seal they signed at The Hague, they stand forth as idlers in the sun, boasters in words —slow in action. They have betrayed civilization in the tender nursing of neutrality. They have feared to do justice in the face of the foreign vote.

Some of their writers questioned the truth of Belgian atrocities. They refused to believe the German policy of frightfulness. And Germany has gone with her piracy on the high seas. She has bombarded defenceless coast towns. She has dropped bombs upon harmless villages. She has tortured British prisoners. On land, on water, in the air she has proved her policy of frightfulness. America must believe. The facts prove the adoption of a deliberate policy of terrorization. It is perhaps no concern of the United States that men have fallen victims, to that policy, but it is the mothers, the wives, the maids, the babies whom they have seen sacrificed without protest that shames them in their silence.

These are matters of the past. But there is a sugestion for the future. It is that the United States should mediate between the warring nations for peace. This war will stop when the Allies determine that it shall stop. No proGerman sentiment should be tolerated from the United States pacificists. They have failed to make good their peaceful professions. Let us be rid of their pious hypocrisy in the future. Let us realize that the very failure of the States to throw the weight of their might in the balance to preserve peace in Europe proves the sham of international peace contentions. They have argued for a concert of the powers so fortified that aggressive nations would not dare to disturb the peace of Europe. The United States with other first-class powers was to police Europe and the world.

America has failed to support these arguments. Mr. Wilson—that Wilson who had the courage to oppose the Panama Canal Tolls Bill and teach the nation decency—has failed in this greater issue. Nothing was expected of Bryan. The shipping protests to Britain, the Ship Purchase Bill, the birthday felicitations to the Kaiser, stand out in mighty contrast to the failure to protest the violation of Belgium, the piracy on the high seas, the Falaba murder, the war on mothers and babies. Let us hear less from the United States until the real men of the nation have purged her of hypocrites, cowards and spineless visionaries. Let us make our own peace.

YOUTH IS DROWNED.

Cecil Murphy Loses Life in Pond—Companion Barely Escapes.

Simcoe, Ont., May 10—Cecil Murphy, a 16 year old youth, lost his life by drowning yesterday afternoon about 5.30 o'clock. A few minutes before the boy, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Murphy, of Simcoe, and his brother-in-law, George Reid, while strolling along Brook's Pond observed an old scow, and entering it, they pushed out a distance west of the L. E. & N. bridge. The boat began to fill, and the occupants jumped. Reid swam back to the bridge, reaching it with great difficulty. Young Murphy swam south toward the shore, 125 feet away, he then stopped and turned back and sank. Cecil Gautley, a young man nearby, sprang in and tried to swim to his assistance. He is an expert swimmer but the extremely cold water made it impossible, and to save his own life he had to turn back. Boats were procured but it was quite 7 o'clock before the body was taken from the water.
