New Butter Factory

Canvas is Being Made to Form Joint Stock Company

Purpose Amalgamating Two Present Factories and Starting Factory in the Village.

An effort is being put forward to amalgamate the two butter factories adjoining this village and form a joint stock company, erecting a factory in Jarvis for the purpose of handling whole milk, sweet cream and the manufacture of butter. The surrounding community is now being canvassed and we understand that the promoters are meeting with good success.

This is a move in the right direction and should prove beneficial to milk producers in this section. The amalgamation would largely reduce the hauling expenses as fewer wagons would be required on the road to bring the product to the factory. Help it along!

March Rod and Gun

"Camping Out Along The C. P. R," is a title of a splendidly illustrated story by F. V. Williams in the March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada. Bonnycastle Dale tells of his experience with snakes and eagles in various parts of Canada in this issue. In addition to these two stories there are six others of equal interest by such well known Nature writers as George R. Belton, Harry M. Moore, Harry W. Laughy and E. T. Martin. The fire arms permit law is dealt with editorially and in a strong appeal to the sportsman by Ira Lieghley entitled "An Undigested and Indigestable Law." This issue contains the final trapping department until the autumn and will be read with interest along with the other departments of guns and fishing which are up to their usual high standard. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

A Layman's Letter

Dear Friends of Jarvis and Vicinity:

As you know that a thing worth while is worthy of support and if worth while should be supported actively, I wonder if too many of you are not in the same position that I found my self in, a few years ago.

I was "brought up" in the Sunday School but felt, when I reached the magnificent age of eighteen, that I was too wise to be tied up definitely to the Church. So I cut loose from my mooring and drifted with the tide. I thought well of the Church as a whole, felt somehow that it was necessary and a fine thing to have in the world, but did not feel that my active support or interest was necessary or even especially welcome.

Gradually, and after quite a few years, from somewhere it began to dawn upon me that here was an institution that was vital, vital to the continued welfare of the world; that I was taking no part, not even financial, in its support.

Naturally I then began to feel the necessity of doing my bit, I started by attending Church services more regularly. The result of this attendance was that I became convinced that I was being helped as well as feeling that I was at last doing some little thing myself. As time went on I began voluntarily to grow more interested and took the final step and joined the Church.

Surely there are many of you who have been or are in a somewhat similar position and state of mind. I feel that perhaps you only need something of my own experience to bring you forward in more active support of this most worth while institution.

Our Churches have a growing and live membership of broad minded, forward looking people. They have a splendid organization in all departments, a real and efficient financial system. They have interests so varied as to hold the attention and support of each and all of us.

With a finely equipped plant and spiritual leaders whom any man can be proud to know and who meet you on your own basis, the Church beckons you and asks that you enter more earnestly into its work. Your influence upon others is more than you realize. You can not be the loser, and my word for it you will be much the gainer by closer relationship. Come on in—it is a man's duty to do it!

Cordially yours,
A LAYMAN.

Trees

Over thirty years ago I saw a young man trimming trees along the side of the road. Now that man is old and he points with pride to those trees, and he is justified in feeling proud of his work, for the trees are nice and large.

How many of the boys and young men are trimming the trees by the roadside to-day? I saw where someone, I don't know who, trimmed some trees along the road north of Vareney. I woule like to thank that person for the good work he has done and ask him to finish that job. Well begun is half done—and hope he may live thirty or forty years to see the noble work he has done. But there are trees along almost all roads that need trimming, and if every farmer would trim along his own farm—it would not take long—how nice it would look. You will see clusters, cut all down level with the ground but one or two. A good time to cut is now when the frost is in, but the best time to kill a tree is when it is in leaf. I saw a motto once displayed: "Do it now!" I think it a good motto.

I think every person should plan to plant one tree every year. I plant some every year. But few men know how to plant a tree. They dig a small hole and put a tree in it, but this is not planting trees. You want your ground dug up for some distance on each side of the roots to give the roots room to grow, then have the tops smaller than the roots. One man had some old apple stumps blown out with dynamite. When he saw how it loosened up the soil he had all the holes blown. It pays well to blow holes for planting trees, but one should have fresh dirt to fill holes where old apple trees are blown out.

T. BUTCHER,
Nanticoke.

Skating Arena To Be Cayuga War Memorial

It appears now to be decided the soldiers' memorial in Cayuga will take the form of a handsome skating arena, with memorial front and brass tablet, upon which will be inscribed the names of the soldiers from Cayuga who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War. It was thought at first that the needed rink should be built by a joint stock company and the memorial take some different form, but at an enthusiastic public meeting last week it was decided that by combining forces better results would be secured. The canvassers are meeting with good success. In two days $4,000 was subscribed and the bal. appears to be in sight.
