A man who claims to be an agent for "The Country Gentleman," "The Ladies' Home Journal," and other similar publications, is soliciting subscriptions in the Southern Counties. It is claimed he is an impostor. We advise "Record" readers not to be caught if he calls on them.

While returning from Hamilton by automobile the other evening, Mr. J. S. Burwash met with a rather severe accident. The car struck a depression on the highway near Hagersville and Mr. Burwash was thrown up against the top and sustained severe scalp wounds. After having his injuries attended to Mr. Burwash was able to continue on his way homeward.

Mr. J. W. Norman's change of advertisement will appear in our next issue. In the meantime call and see the lines of footwear he is offering. A choice line of Oxfords for men has been put in stock and the prices are extremely reasonable. Full lines of Children's Sandals and Patent Leather Slippers on display. Also Ladies' Strap Slippers and Oxfords. An inspection of these goods is solicited.

On Thursday last the Jarvis Baseball Team met their first reverse of the season at Rainham Centre, taking the small end of a 8 to 7 score. Jarvis has a good team but more consistent practice is absolutely necessary if they are to win the League bunting. Get together boys and keep up practice and then we will have no more reports like the above to chronicle. Practice until perfection is attained and then keep in shape.

Low Contemptable Thievery

There are thieves and there are thieves. Some thieves are lower than others. Some when they desire to steal will pick upon the safe of some rich company or corporation, while others are low enough to steal coppers from a child. The latter may be classed very low indeed, but they are in a kingly class compared to a species that we were informed about this week. We refer to the class who are making it a point to steal the flowers that are placed on the graves in our local cemeteries by those who have lost loved ones who have been called to a better land, and who make it a practice of planting flowers every spring on the last resting place of their departed friends and relatives. It seems increditable that there is anyone in Jarvis who is so debased, so low in character and so void of conscience who would do this. But there are those here who do this. Potted plants have been taken to the cemeteries and transfered to the soil which covers the mortal remains of loved ones. In a day or so these have been taken away by those despictable ghouls. While we hope the guilty perpertrators may be captured in their despoiling act we do not know of any punishment which would fit the crime. A pretty accurate idea of the ones who are guilty is entertained and a watch is being kept upon them and it certainly will not be well for them if they are caught in their dastardly work.

A CREDIT TO JARVIS

A. H. Langraf's Leather Goods Store is One of the Finest in Southern Ontario --- An Asset to Our Town

We are most thorough believers in the renovating of business premises. A good example of this is to be seen in the store of Mr. A. A. Langraf of Jarvis. The exterior has been re-painted and its white paint adds a pleasing effect to our main street. But it is on the interior that the greatest improvement is apparent. The front part is devoted entirely to boots and shoes, occupying a space of 20 ft. by 24 ft. Two store windows give ample room for display of the season's latest styles in footwear and other leather necessities. A handsome silent salesman has been placed in the store department, which is the work of Mr. Albert Booth, of this town. The workmanship is A-1 and equals that of any we have ever seen. A full line of boots, shoes, slippers, etc. is carried in stock by the proprietor, and while the merchandise is the best procurable, the prices charged are the very lowest possible. At the rear of the boot and shoe department is located the harness section, where those desirous of any thing in horse furnishings can have their needs supplied at right prices. There is no occasion for to go out of Jarvis for any thing in the leather goods lines. You are invited to call and see for yourself the most modern shoe store in Haldimand County.

THE NEWS OF 37 YEARS AGO

The following items are taken from THE JARVIS RECORD of June 10th, 1885:

Three or four new pressmakers have located in Jarvis.

Our new barber is now in St. Thomas visiting his wife and mamma.

There are but one or two empty dwellings in Jarvis and they are engaged.

Wm. Wilson has gone to housekeeping and will look as happy as a lark over it too.

A long stretch of new sidewalk has been laid down on the south side of Talbot street east.

Harry Firth, harnessmaker, has moved his household effects to Jarvis.

The Scott Act will be voted on in the County of Haldimand on the 16th of July next.

Charley Livingstone of Nanticoke, has gone to Sarnia on a visit. It is rumored that Charlie has gone there to look for a wife.

The Port Dover correspondent of the Norfolk Reformer calls the Salvation Army bellowing "Yahooes." Oh, the brute.

C. G. Allen, grocer, of this village, will leave Jarvis for the "old country" next Thursday, where he intends spending a month or two for his health.

Dr. Bennett, late of St. Catharines has formed a partnership with Dr. Howell, of this village. The new firm will be known as Howell & Bennett.

The Nelles' Corners and Hagersville base ball clubs competed for the Thompson-Baxter Trophy at Cayuga on Saturday last when the Nelles' Corners won by 12 runs. The score stood 30 to 18.

Great excitement prevails in Townsend over the discovery of the remains of a young lady which were found in a swamp just east of Bloomsburg one day last week. The body was evidently placed where it was found sometime during last winter, and is decayed beyond recognition. Everybody is of the same opinion that she has been murdered and placed there by some unknown prson.

Jarvis, June 18th, 1885

A nice heavy rain visited this section on Monday, which was greatly needed.

The crops in this vicinity are looking splendid, and farmers are all in the best of spirits.

The "Sals," as the boys calls them, continue to make an unearthly noise on our streets each night.

Mrs. N. L. Alderson, of Merrill, Wis. is visiting her parents and numerous other relatives in this town and vicinity.

A collision took place between Robt. Rodgers and M. H. Furlong one night last week on the north end of Main-st. when both buggies were badly wrecked.

As the morning express on the Air-Line was going east on Monday morning it struck one of Henry Hotson's cattle, near Nelles' Corners, killing it instantly.

We notice friend Yocom is still making things lively in the pump business. He put in three new pumps last Tuesday, and orders are pouring in thick and fast.

It was long after midnight, and the minutes were clicking by like hours. 'I love a graceful elm-tree,' she remarked. 'How I wish I were an elm-tree!' he responded quickly. 'I wish you were, too.' 'Why do you?' he inquired. 'Because,' she replied, 'trees leave once a year at least.'

Waiter (to cook): 'George, the agent at No. 3 says as his potatoes ain't good—says there all got black eyes on em.' George (real name Patrick): 'Bedad, thin it's no fault o'mine. The spalpeens must have been foightin' after I put them in the pot.'

James Bradshaw, who has just completed an apprenticeship of three years at the printing business at this office, left here last Monday to accept a "sit" on the Parkdale Times. Jim is a straight forward, honest, industrious young man, and deserves to prosper wherever he goes.

Anyone who noticed that jeweller and painter from Selkirk here on Sunday night last would not think that they had a couple of girl at Selkirk waiting anxiously for them to return. But instead of returning as they promised to do they stopped here until after one o'clock Monday morning, sitting up with a couple of Jarvis lassies. Oh, the wretches! Their Selkirk girls ought to choke them.

Report of Jarvis and South Walpole S. S. Convention

The convention was held in Cheapside Methodist church, May 23rd, 1922.

The morning session was opened by Rev. R. F. Mercer leading the Devotional period. The business part was conducted by the president, Mr. J. B. MacKenzie. In his opening remarks the President seemed to set the keynote for the day by alluding to the tendency of the people to drift from the churches, the Sunday schools and the examples of our forefathers.

Mr. O. H. McDonald addressed us upon the "Importance of Child Life."

"Child life is more important than adult life" said the speaker, "because the child is changeable, impressive, adult life is unchangeable."

Religious education was defined as that training and nurture of child life which seeks to lead the child into the fullest life; instilling into the child a knowledge of God as its father.

The workers must be consecrated, prayerful and enthusiastic, wonderfully in earnest to lead the child across the delicate stream of decision for God. Then into active workers for God.

AFTERNOON SESSION

This Devotional period was led by Rev. A. F. Stoltz.

Rex. E. F. Mansell gave a very instructive address upon "The Influence of the Older Men upon the Younger Men and Boys," especially from 13 to 19 years.

"The most satisfactory work in S. S. is with the children,' said the speaker. 'This a problem to all Sabbath School workers and one not to be settled this year.

'The boy from 13 to 19 must be attracted then won by leading not ordering him around. We must remember he is entering upon a new period in life, not understanding himself, yet striving to imitate an older person. Join him in his sports. Be a boy with the boy. Fathers do this remembering your boy will follow your example.

Mr. O. H. McDonald followed in a talk on the "Importance of Boy Life of our Sunday Schools."

He said, "A boy is a hero worshipper. The teacher has a great chance to present my advised r

Canada's Fire Losses

The fire losses for 1921 in Canada totaled over $45,000,000.00. The record for 1922 promises to eclipse this heavy loss, as nearly $20,000,000.00 worth of property was consumed by the disastrous flames in the past four months of the present year. When we consider the seventy-five per cent. of this loss could have been prevented the seriousness of the fire situation is appaling. Over 400 lives were lost and thousands of persons seriously injured last year in Canada on account of fires.
