Spring Fever

I want to plant a garden now that the Spring is here,
I want to watch the carrots and little beets appear;
I want to scatter radishes and salad lettuce, too,
And invite my envious neighbors to come and pick some, too.

I crave some Golden Bantam, like in the wondrous book
Sent out by florists every year—how good the green things look!
I want to raise cucumbers and Hubbard squash and beans,
And cabbage and Brussels sprouts and canteloupes and greens.

And young green peas and eggplants and succulent Swiss chard,
And pumpkin vines with golden flowers to trail around the yard;
I want to plant a garden, now that the Spring is here!
(And I might do it, too, if I hadn't tried last year!)

THE NEWS OF 35 YEARS AGO

The following items are taken from THE JARVIS RECORD of May 26th, 1887:

The boys have erected a horizontal bar on Main Street, opposite C. G. Allen's grocery.

A. Alward has had a coat of paint put on his house and a verandah erected in front.

Tommy Underhill, our popular young tailor, is slightly under the weather with chills and fever.

Sam's taken to the bar lateiy—horizontal bar. You should have seen him take a tumble the other night.

We are pleased to see that our young friend, Jas. Gray, is so far recovered from his late illness as to be able to walk up town.

A Berlin woman recently gave birth to her twenty-first child. Mother and child are reported well and the father as cheerful as can be expected.

Customer—"Here's your sugar back. I don't want it." Grocer—"What's the matter with it?" Customer—"Too much sand for table use and not enough for building purposes."

The funny man of a neighboring village perpentrated a joke on the managing committee of a church tea meeting at that place a couple of weeks ago by sending in a basswood cake nicely turnturned to have the appearance of a fine three-storey specimen of the real article. The ladies are now after him with a sharp stick.

EDITOR'S NOTE—In the issue from which the above news was taken, the editor and founder of THE JARVIS RECORD, Mr. Frank N. Pettit, retired from the position that he had ably filled for nearly nine years, having disposed of the paper and plant to Messrs. F. W. Elliott and J. Wesley Rodgers. In his valedictory among other things he had the following:—

"To those of my patrons who have stuck to me through thick and thin, I extend my hearty thanks, and to those who are antagonistic to me and my mode of conducting a newspaper, I will say that I don't care a contintinental what their opinion is of me. There are scores of people in Jarvis and vicinity whom I have profound respect for, and regret sincerely to part from, while there are others over whom I would not shed a tear should fate decree that I would never behold them again in this world or the next. This may be strong language, but dear reader, just place yourself in my position, and probably you would be inclined to use the same kind of language. The latter class of people of whom I speak have, for the past four or five years, tried their level best to run me to the ground, not only by witholding their patronage, but by doing and saying everything mean and contemptible of me they could do."

Evidently the first editor of the RECORD had his troubles and was unable to please everyone by the manner in which he conducted his paper.

Churches

Wesley Methodist

On Sunday morning Rev. Dr. Creasy, of Alabama, New York State, gave an excellent sermon. He was called upon unexpectedly and responded cheerfully to the invitation extended to him by the pastor to preach. Many in the congregation remembered Dr. Creasy when he taught school a few miles from Jarvis some years ago.

The pastor at the evening service stressed the promises of God that "All the nations of the earth should eventually come unto Him and be saved." This is is the time for confidence, not dispair. There are many evidences which indicate that God is at work winning the world unto Himself.

Knox Presbyterian

Services were held as usual. The morning subject: "To Get to Crist," was based on the incident of the four men who brought a sick friend to Christ to be cured of palsy. The door was blocked, so they went upon the housetop and let him down into the presence of Christ. The trouble was at the door. So to-day with our many philosophies and religions it is sometimes hard to get to Christ. But one thing is needful said Christ, and that is the simple way of the old gospel.

In the evening John Bunyan was discussed. His favorite text was "Him that cometh unto Me, I will in no wise cast out." This was the very centre and foundation of John Bunyan's life. Over the very portal of Christain's pilgrimage we find these words; "Him that cometh unto Me etc. The speaker showed how this applied to all people, being the most gracious, loving invitation of the Master.

St. Paul's Anglican

The subject of the morning sermon was prayer. The text was St. John xvi: 23. This Sunday, the 5th after Easter, has been known from very ancient times as Rogation Sunday, and the three days following that Sunday are the Rogation Days, upon which the faithful are "asked" to "ask" of Almighty God His blessing on the operations now in force with regard to Farm, Field and Garden. Rogation simply means "the art of asking."

On Sunday evening the sermon was based upon Revelation iii; 7. Saint John, the Divine, received messages from Heaven to deliver to seven representative churches and their respective overseers. That of Philadelphia and one other church—Smyra, were the only ones to which St. John was able to send messages of unmixed praise. Because the Philadelphians had "a little strength" and made use of that little with exemplary courage and loyalty to Christ, "an open door" of opportunity was set before them. The opportunity to make disciples from men of neighboring places, as yet ignorant of gospel truth. Our position to-day is a similar one, if we use or littie gifts, our little strength as they did in Philadelphia. The Christain life is not completed and satisfactorily furnished until to the few great outstanding gifts the multitude of smaller gifts are brought into proper place and use. Don't wait to do something great and grand. Do your utmost with the little which you have.

A Deplorable State of Affairs

The Mail and Empire of Friday had the following:

Davisboro, Ga., May 18.—Charles Atkins, a negro, 15 years old one of four taken into custody, included in the killing of Mrs. Elizabeth Kitchens, 20 years old, and was burned at the stake to-night.

The lynching occurred at the scene of the murder and followed an alleged confession from the prisoner. He was torturep over a slow fire for fifteen ninutes and then shrieking with pain was questioned concerning his accomplices.

Atkins was said to have implicated another negro boy, but to have exonerated his own brother, whose name had been connected with the crime in a statement made soon after his arrest.

Members of the mob, comprising nearly 2000 people, then raised the victim up again, fastened him to a pine tree with track chains and lighted the fire. More than 2400 shots were fired into the charred body following the boy's death.

EDITOR'S NOTE—After reading the above dispatch we cannot help but arriving at the conclusion that law and order in the Southern States is indeed in a deplorable state. Further comment is unnecessary.

"For years I suffered from heart, nerve, and stomach trouble, with spells which would confine me to my bed for weeks. Several doctors told me that my case was hopeless, and that I might drop dead any time. I finally placed my case in Dr. Lily Jackson's hands, and I soon saw an improvement, which continued until now I feel better than I have for ten years."
