MEDITATIONS FROM -- THE -- EDITOR'S DESK

WHEN NATURE RULES

The sympathy of the entire continent has been with the unfortunate victims of the devastating floods throughout the Ohio River Valley. Reports would indicate that the disaster has not yet reached its height and the scope of the flooded area is still increasing. Living in this part of Ontario, secluded from the ravages of nature, in the form of floods, earthquakes, hurricanes, etc., it is difficult to imagine with any sense of realization the grave catastrophe facing the citizens in the flood area.

Over a million people are homeless forced to evacuate their homes when the flood waters reached menacing proportions. When we think that number is equal to one tenth of the population of all Canada, we can realize the magnitude of the situation. The millions of dollars of damage affects each individual home owner and he will never retreive that damage.

The United States Government has taken steps to prevent such a disaster, but their work has not been completed, although $300,000,000. has been spent since the flood in 1927. It is estimated that Billions of dollars will be spent before the danger of flood has been completely controlled and it will take a number of years yet to complete the task.

In the meantime the Red Cross with the aid of monetary contributions from individuals all over the continent are doing every thing possible to aid the victims and to curb the outbreak of disease. In many cases contributions have been reported from Canadians, and that is the best medium of relaying our true sympathies to our unfortunate neighbors in the flood area.

TO REMAIN IN SERVICE

The removal of the Old Temperance Hall to another location will obliterate one of the old landmarks in this Village. The walls have looked upon many an interesting debate of the Town Fathers, many court sessions and many public meetings. And now it passes along for further though less dignified service. Next fall we expect to see the beff poutry of the district exhibited around its walls, and maybe the Agricultural Society will think well enough of the old building to dress it up a bit and add some what to its present decayed appearance. We feel sure that some of the older residents of the Village can connect many happy recollections with the Old Temperance Hall during the many years it has served as a public building in the Village. Its absolute removal marks another step in the journey of life from one generation to another.

SKATING ON THE STREETS

During the past three or four days the youth of the Village have found much pleasure in skating on the icy streets. Not being so far advanced from that stage we can well imagine the pleasure it gives them. For some unknown reason Canadian youth can hardly wait until they can get their feet into a pair of hockey boots with skates attached, and each year the age limit appears to be cut down until now three year olds are taking to the past time with the same zest as their elders.

ADVOCATES CHEQUE-BOOK MONEY

Claiming that "cheque-book money" would enable Canada to cope with such problems as the national debt, national defence, unemployment relief and public works without imposing too great a burden on the people, John H. Blackmore (above) Social Credit Leader in the House of Commons has introduced a motion in the House asking the Government to create the power to issue such money.

CAYUGA DEFEATS JACKSONS IN H. — N. OPENER

"Redskins" Outplay Simcoe to the Tune of 9 — 4

The Haldimand - Norfolk Rural League got a belated start when the first game of the season was played in Cayuga Monday evening. The Cayuga "Redskins" outplayed the Norfolkers all the way banging in nine markers as compared to four against them. Jackson's roster included "Mike" Houser, formerly of Dunnville and Russ Oatman, a former professional.

But regardless of the pleasure that is found available only on the streets this year, there is a imminent danger from this practice. Traveling on icy thoroughfares the motorist is even more helpless than usual and it would be impossible for him to practice common sense in eliminating the possibility of endangering human lives. Children too are very liable to forget the danger that constantly faces them when skating on the streets, with the result a really dangerous hazard is created. In view of the fact our local rink is not operating this season, it would be too bad to endeavor to deprive children of skating when the opportunity is so presentable on the streets. But surely we are conscious of the serious consequences that might so easily become a reality.

RABBIT HUNTING GOOD AND BAD

Although the bag of the hunt is not sufficient for the average hunter to realize any sense of gratification, a great many still make a hobby of hunting jack rabbits. A few years ago, farmers throughout the district were glad when organized drives made up largely of urban dwellers, rid the countryside of a looming menace to crops. The sportsman derived a great deal of pleasure from a good days shooting, and the farmer profited by the curtailment of this quadruped rodent. It was not an profit, however to the farmer, because he was the victim of property damage to fences, etc. He did not kick because he was profiting from another angle. But to-day it is different. The occasional rabbit drive still occurs at this time of year, although the object of the hunt is not as evident as in days gone by. The damage to property by careless urban dwellers is just as evident as before, but the farmer is not profiting by their efforts to offset the damage done to his fences.

A great many have erected "No Trespassing" signs, but they are heeded with a great deal less discretion than a stop light on a city street. There still exists thoughtless inconsideration by the urban dweller for his fellow rural brother and if damage from this practice still persists, the farmers would do well to inaugurate traffic laws for pedestrians trespassing over their property.

REVELATIONS OF A NOVICE AT MAPLE LEAF GARDENS

After viewing the Leaf—Ranger game Saturday night, my opinion of professional hockey has changed not a little. Never having seen the moneyed players in action before, I was beginning to become a bit bemuddled on the subject. Now, after having cast my lamps on two of the eight professional teams, I am in a much more troubled condition. Truthfully speaking, being still at the age when a player receiving sinkers and java for his efforts is a little tin idol, I am in no position to pass an opinion on the efforts of the various players in a single game. However, the first thought to enter my mind after entering Maple Leaf Gardens was a comparison between the vast, perhaps luxurious Gardens and many of the arenas throughout Ontario which are not being operated this year. The players themselves appeared to be so evenly matched in ability that it was very difficult to choose outstanding individuals. Not only that, but the fact that each player stuck so closely to his check that the play was unjustifiably dull, I am willing to understand why the Imperial doubtedly slower than it might be. I fail to understand why the Imperial Oil Co. should hire Foster Hewitt instead of the Maple Leaf Hockey Club.

REMARKS AND OPINIONS ABOUT THE GAME

Harvey Jackson very Robert Taylor—ish as he careened about, but rather effective as the summary told you. O.K. with a Joe Primeau or Syl Apps at centre, doubtful if the centre was a duplicate of himself. A beautiful stick handler and exceptionally clever. Brother Art: appeared a bit bewildered, perhaps wondering if the folks at home have his trunk packed. Clever, not as much so as the "Busher", appeared slightly timidlef and public works without imposing too great a burden on the people, John H. Blackmore (above) Social Credit Leader in the House of Commons has introduced a motion in the House asking the Government to create the power to issue such money. Red Horner, a big laugh, especially to Cecil Dillon. Reg. Hamilton should be handled with gloves on, the kind Joe Louis wears, a very pugnacious individual who apparently considers a hockey stick the least important part of his paraphenelia. Happy Day, the idol of the crowd Saturday night, film manipulator of the old hoot-owl and played an exceptionally fine game, going both ways. Conne Smythe, not ever popular with the home town crowd, exceptionally difficult to keep track of. Tommy Daly in shirt-sleeves bustling around with a bottle of Sloan's (adv.) in his hand. Neil Colville living up to advance notices, very easy going at times at times a powerhouse. Might be called an opportunist with plenty of speed and courage. Mac Colville, not as brilliant as brother Neil but a hard-working back checker. Ranger's much publicized passing attack, conspicuous by its absence. Jimmy Fowler, a nice player both ways, captured the eye at all times. "Turk" Broda, had no chance to show his wares. Cecil Dillon, nice but hard to follow. Frank Boucher and Bill Cook must have slowed up a great deal in the past year. Lanky "Babe" Pratt looked good behind his own blue line but rather cumbersome on the attack. Dave Kerr looked better than Broda despite the four markers that dented the twine. Rest of the Rangers looked only mediocre. Ching Johnson was very spic and span, sitting in the Royal York before game time. Gord Drillon, very smart and fast, perhaps a great opportunist. Jackson, Apps and Drillon best looking line I ever saw in hockey. Apps himself supplies a very sweet subject for any hockey fan. Very glad I picked him to centre the first line of the Leafs despite Tommy Munns, Morganson and Lyttle, also to be the best rookie of the year. Thoma and Finnigan looked very ordinary. Metz turned in a nice effort working very hard. Jarvis proved himself a very tenacious little person, perhaps useful. Can't understand why "Red" Horner got his last penalty. The fight was thrown in for the two frogskins.

PASSING SCORES

Coming back a bit closer to home, we find that the O.H.A. and many other leagues have been getting in a few of their games. Last Thursday evening Hagersville received another setback in the Hamilton and District League at the hands of the league leading Crystals. The local O.H.A. group has been able to play a few of their games within the past two weeks. Simcoe dropped a three to one decision to Port Dover last week and the "Sailor" juniors took it on the chin at Brantford to the tune of four to two. The Lakeside intermediates were nosed out by Brantford St. Judes Monday night to give both Brantford teams a small lead in the league races. In addition two other junior games were played. Hagersville losing to Port Dover three to one and Simcoe losing to Brantford seven to four.

RURALS OPEN MONDAY NIGHT (? ? ? ?)

If the above doesn't come to pass it's the last time I am going to head another paragraph with that startling caption until 1938. However the schedule, dug out of a secluded spot in a pile of castaways informed me that Waterford were to be the guests of the locals on Monday evening, February 1st. Upon gathering this knowledge I scurried about and located manager Charlie Mitchell of the locals and proceeded to pump him to his extreme annoyment. Finally he broke down and confessed that Jarvis was more than likely to be playing shinny Monday evening. The management of the arena in Hagersville, where the locals are to play their home games, are busy making ice and if the weather holds the game will go through. "Not only that," says the local mastermind, "but I'm going to ice the best team in years in fact if I get Louie Catelli from Hagersville, it will be as good as last year." Getting around to the condition of the Haldimand-Norfolk Rural schedule, we find that it cannot be called a condition. In fact it is terrible. If you know where you can locate one look it over for yourself. Isn't it a headache? Nevertheless if the weather holds we may get somewheres yet. Other games this week include: Delhi vs. Waterford, January 28th. Waterford vs. Jarvis, February 1st. Jarvis vs. Jacksons, February 3rd.

ODDS AND ENDS

Jarvis can claim more glory from the fact that Jack Howard of Syracuse and Toronto was born here. When this was first made known it was denied by many of the natives. The Maple Leaf Garden programs, however, state that Jack was born here and their information is gathered from the athletes themselves and who are we to argue. Is "Chuck" Silverthorne looking for a position in Simcoe. I'm not asking you, I'm telling you. The same "Chuck" has lost his monitor in this column three weeks in succession. Not bad! No, it's terrible. That man's in again. Yes sir, some guy from up St. Williams way is still corresponding with the Globe and Mail. "Sentimental Norm." See you when the weather breaks.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

CONSTIPATION IN CHILDREN

If constipation does not affect some member of your family, the following advice will be unnecessary. However, an examination of the medicines kept in the home will reveal that over half of them are for the remedy of this trouble.

The use of laxative medicines is the easy but dangerous way out of the difficulty. The initial diarrhoea caused by the irritating action of the medicine is followed by more constipation. More medicine is required and a vicious habit is formed. Certainly in infants and young children laxatives should only be used on the advice of the physician.

Constipation, or faulty elimination may be controlled by a properly chosen diet and correct habit training. A regular time, usually just after a meal or on rising, should be set aside for going to the toilet. Encourage out-door play and plenty of exercise. More water should be taken. It is often a good practice to drink one-half cup of warm water on rising, before breakfast.

As well as the general measures outlined above, the proper selection of foods will prove effective. It will bear repeating, sufficient water is essential. The whole grain cereals which contain bran aid the action of the bowels. The same applies to the fruits and bulk vegetables. The vitamins in wheat germ and brewer's yeast bring about better tone to the bowels.

Concentrated foods such as fats, starches and meats tend to produce constipation.

In infancy constipation can be regulated by proper diet in the artificially fed. As far as the breast fed baby is concerned, there is no such thing as constipation. If the infant is allowed to go long enough it will have an easily passed soft movement and in the meantime will have no distress.

The control of constipation in children is to establish regularity of toilet habits and to employ a suitable diet.

SCOTT'S "DISCOVERY" GIVEN BOY SCOUTS

Canadian Sea Scouts visiting London may shortly be able to "sign on" for their stay aboard Captain Scott's famous Antarctic research ship the "Discovery." Announcement of the turning over of this famous vessel to the Boy Scouts Association by the Legislative Council of the Falkland Islands was made by Imperial Scout Headquarters. According to the announcement the "Discovery" will be used for a number of definite purposes: A living memorial to Captain Scott, Sir Douglas Mawson and other polar explorers. As a Headquarters for the Sea Scout Branch of the Boy Scouts Association. As a Training Centre for poor and unemployed Scouts. As a rendezvous for Deep Sea Scouts. As a Hostel for Over Sea Scouts who may from time to time be passing through London, and in particular for those who are sons or descendants of British settlers overseas. Funds to finance the project were presented the Scout Association shortly before her death by the late Lady Houston.

It is good for the human plant to be replanted from time to time.

The Ottawa Spotlight

(By Wilfrid Eggleton)

Ottawa, January 26 — The session started out like a house afire, with a minimum of oratory and a maximum of results. By Monday night of the first week-end the debate on the Speech From the Throne was over, and without a recorded vote. This is in such sharp contrast to the days when the Address was good for two or three weeks of eulogy, criticism, campaign eloquence, economics, philosophy and just plain garden variety of talk. The aim, apparently, is to get finished in time to go to the Coronation, which means the end of the session by May 1st. If as little time is devoted to specifying during the rest of the session as in the first two or three days, the objective may well be reached. Perhaps it is significant that Mr. Bennett has been invited to join the government representatives at London. The official Opposition, which usually decides when sessions end, will not want to drag things into midsummer either.

The abrupt collapse of the debate on the address gives the government time to table its Main Estimates, which showed a stiff increase over the figures for last year. The upward trend can be traced to two main facts: one is that an additional $14,000,000 or so is to be spent in improving Canada's defences; the other is that Old Age Pensions will cost the treasury much more now that Quebec has adopted this social legislation. The current year's appropriation for Old Age Pensions was $17,500,000; this coming year it will be $10,000,000 more.

Stress on Coastal Defence

The spending of larger sums on defence measures had been forecast at some length by commentators, and, as expected, the stress was laid upon aircraft, coastal defence batteries, anti-aircraft guns, harbor equipment against submarines. Canada has no thought of an aggressive war; she is only disposed to put herself in a position to "enforce her own neutrality", to employ Mr. Bennett's phrase. About a hundred modern aeroplanes will be purchased and added to the 185—the latter largely obsolete and little use except for training—now possessed by the R.C.A.F.

Four modern minesweepers are to be added to Canada's modest navy. Aside from some new equipment, no increase in the land forces is provided for. Several hundred additional officers and men will be taken on to the Air Force and the Naval Force. Stores of ammunition, torpedoes and other military munitions will be laid up against an evil — and let us hope, purely hypothetical — day.

During the first four weeks of the session the private members have their fling, and government business on set days of the week takes second place. This gives opportunity for discussion of matters which are not yet, perhaps, ripe for legislation, but which private members feel should be aired in the interest of the community which they serve or Canada as a whole. Debates these days seem to run to economics, provision of greater purchasing power, provision of new social security legislation, slum clearance and similar matters. Last week saw the first of these debates on money and purchasing power. It was launched by John Blackmore, the leader of the 17 Social Credit members in the House, and called upon the state to begin to issue purchasing power "and to see that purchasing power for the improvement of the economic condition of the Canadian people."

Money Is Needed

Mr. Blackmore, who represents Lethbridge in the House, advanced the argument that money was needed for a hundred and one things, but that no money was available. Consequently he urged that the state should issue money based on the resources of the country.

This is a controversial subject these days, and it is difficult even to report such debates without being regarded as partisan on the Social Credit side or on the other. Besides the sceptics, and the informed critics, of monetary theory, there are a great many people who do not feel that they understand the mystery of money, and in the meantime are inclined not to say very much.

Last year the Social Credit members were not answered to any extent, either because members were too indifferent or because they were incapable, of answering. There are signs that this year it will be different. In the very first debate R. J. Deachman, Liberal economist threw down the gauntlet by observing that while Houdini could draw rabbits out of hats, he was never able to make a living selling the rabbits.

SCOUT MEETS BEAR

One of the most unique acts for which a Canadian Scout award has been made was that of King's Scout Kenneth Keely, of Bala, Ont. — the stunning and drowning of a bear which attempted to climb into a boat containing the Scout and his young sister. They were rowing across a Lake Muskoka bay last summer, when they approached a partly sunken log. As they drew near the log suddenly became a bear and headed for them. Before they could pull away the bear reached them, and got his paws on the gunwale. In the boat was a screw-jack handle. Balancing the boat against the bear's weight, Scout Keely caught up the iron bar and pounded the bear over the head. The animal fell back stunned. Before it could sink the Scout grasped it by the back of the neck, and shoved it beneath the water "until the bubbles stopped coming up." He then succeeded in pulling the bear into the boat, and got it ashore.
