A Weekly Review Of National Affairs

(By "Spectator")

Ottawa, November 22 — The signing of the new trade treaties at Washington by Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States probably marks a new epoch in the economic relations of the English speaking democracies. The negotiations which have covered the greater part of a year have been intricate and complex, but hope is felt that the two treaties signed last Thursday will not only greatly extend and facilitate trade between Canada and the United States and the United States and Great Britain but that they will prove a major and effective attack on trade restrictions throughout the world. The treaties themselves directly affect over one third of the international commerce of the world.

Among the most important concessions granted to Canadian exporters in the United States are those relating to live cattle, fisheries and lumber. In all, 202 items in the United States tariffs are affected, and taking 1937 sales to the United States as a basis, concessions granted to Canada cover 53 per cent of our exports to that country. The President of the United States by the United States Trade Agreements Act has the power to reduce tariff rates up to fifty per cent and concessions granted to Canadian produce range from the percentage downward. Livestock quotas were increased under some categories and others, rates of duty were lowered. A very considerable reduction was given to tariff rates on a wide variety of fish entering the United States. In some cases the reduction was the full fifty per cent allowed under American laws. The lower rates affect cod, haddock, hake, pollock, cusk, rosefish, salmon, halibut, swordfish, mackerel, herring and various kinds of fresh water fish. In the case of exports of lumber and shingles quotas now in force were either increased or abolished and the regulation that Canadian timber must be marked to show country of origin was cancelled.

Reduced rates were given in the American tariff on a number of agricultural products including grains, hog products, horses and hay. Silver fox furs duties were reduced by 25 per cent. Reductions were made in duty on a number of metals and non metallic minerals, on acetic acid and a number of miscellaneous manufactured goods.

Concessions granted by Canada to United States products affect 447 items in the Canadian tariff. Of these 283 items have been reduced in rate while 146 represent the binding of rates that have been effective under the 1935 agreement. These concessions again taking the 1937 trade figures as a basis, represent 58 per cent of all imports from the United States. Many of the concessions given the United States have been made possible through a prior understanding and agreement with the governments of the United Kingdom and the government of South Africa. Similarly Canada agreed to certain cutting of imperial preferences in the British market to allow the United Kingdom to make tariff reductions to American exporters.

In the case of agricultural and fishery products Canada's new duties practically parallel duties to be charged similar products from Canada entering the United States. Rates on tobacco and spirituous liquors have been reduced. Tariffs have been lowered on chemicals, drugs and paints, on earthenware and glassware, on various metals, on certain kinds of machinery including diesel engines, on textile products and on leather and manufactures of leather.

Canada has abolished the three per cent special excise tax levied on the duty-paid value of imports. The removal of this charge on imports from the United States will mean a serious loss in revenue to the Dominion exchequer which will have to be made up in some other way. It is stated however that the removal of the tax will "help to restore the competitive position of many Canadian producers who have had to pay this tax on their imports of raw materials and semi-manufactured goods while meeting the competition of goods imported free of this tax under the British preferential tariff" The effect of the tariff changes on Dominion revenues can be seen only when the treaties are in operation. Much will depend on the extent to which lowered tariff rates may stimulate trade in various articles.

Canada has given up the six cents a bushel preference on wheat in the markets of the United Kingdom. Great Britain has also agreed in its treaty with the United States to make a seasonal reduction on apples imported from the United States from 4 shillings and 6 pence to 3 shillings per cwt. Canadian apples continue to be free of duty in the British market. Lumber reduction on exports from Canada to the United States have also been arranged partially at least on a basis of compensation for reductions on certain classes of lumber from the United Kingdom. Canada's bacon quota on the British market is not affected but United States hams are stabilized on the free list. Canada's preference on automobile exports to the United Kingdom is not disturbed. There is a reduction, however, in the preference on automobile exports to certain colonies such as Ceylon and Hong Kong. There has been a reduction in the margin of preference on some canned goods to the United Kingdom market.

The principles kept in mind during the intricate negotiations of the two treaties have been the extent to which the exporting country is the main or potentially the main source of supply of commodities affected, the interests of businesses affected, the broad interest of consumers, and the extent to which subject to defined alterations of the British preferential agreements. The two inter-related agreements are a great experiment in dredging the channels of trade between the great English speaking democracies. "The friendly association of the great English speaking nations" has been heralded as raising the hope that a "new vitality has been given to the basic principles of a civilized world order."

The Lord Bishop asked Mr. Brown to read the declarations and oaths he had taken for his ministry, and then the Rural Dean, the Rev. Philip A. Sawyer, to read the license issued. The Bishop presented the new incumbent with the Bible and the Book of Common Prayer.

The Church Wardens, of St. Paul's, Messrs. L. B. Holmes and Guy Lethong and the wardens of Christ Church, Nanticoke, Messrs. Hugh Ross and Chas. Hedges, presented the new minister with the keys of the two churches, in token of their acknowledgement of him as their rightful pastor.

In the absence, through illness of the Venerable Archdeacon, A. C. MacKintosh, D.D., the Venerable Archdeacon G. F. Scovil led the newly inducted to the various stations of the Church, giving suitable injunctions with each. Bishop Broughall then led in prayers and exhortations. Archdeacon Scovil preached the sermon on "Building on the Good Foundation." He said a good foundation had been laid in this community and now building in the souls of men. For this work we must seek that which is enduring, purposeful and distinctive or individual.

Before closing the service the Bishop gave his best wishes and blessing.

Following, the ladies of the two churches served tasty refreshments in the Parish Hall, especially for the large company of visitors from Guelph.

Among the visitors from a distance were: Rev. W. Gordon Brown, M.A., brother of the Rector, teacher in Toronto Baptist Seminary, and Mrs. Brown, M.A.

He had just returned from a hunt nearby, and was carrying a 22 rifle. When the gun discharged, he was attempting to kick snow from the butt. The bullet struck just above the left eye and although it did not penetrate the skull it grazed his head almost the width of the bullet to a point beyond his ear. An artery was severed which resulted in profused bleeding and later resulted in a hemorrhage. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Hamilton for treatment. After receiving medical attention his condition was not regarded as serious.

Dr. Jones Escapes Injury -- Car Overturns in Ditch

Occurred at Recently Constructed Curve on Nanticoke Sideroad

Car Badly Damaged

Dr. E. M. Jones miraculously escaped serious injury on Tuesday about noon, when his car turned over twice when it took the ditch at the recently constructed curve one mile east of No. 3 Highway on the Nanticoke sideroad.

Exactly how it happened, cannot be explained by Dr. Jones, except the car may have slewed on the slippery clay. He estimated his speed at this point between twenty-five and thirty miles per hour and said it happened so suddenly he had no chance whatsoever

The car came to rest on its left side in the right hand ditch and although believed to have been temporarily stunned by the impact, he found it impossible to get out of the car. Arriving shortly after the accident happened, W. E. Elliott, succeeded in prying a window open to let some fresh air into the car Dr. T. Tweedie also arrived shortly upon the scene, but despite their efforts, Dr. Jones could not be released from the car. Gerald Fess, mailman, happened along and came back to Jarvis to send out a service truck. It was not until the car was set back on it's wheels that the Doctor was able to get out.

The car was badly damaged, with the top and fenders smashed. None of the windows were shattered, being of shatterproof glass, which probably saved more serious injury to the occupant, who escaped with a shaking up.

Rev. G. L. Evans Conducted Farewell Services Sunday

Leaves for Huntsville After Ten Years Pastorate Here

Rev. G. Lloyd Evans conducted farewell services in Knox Presbyterian Church, Jarvis and in Chalmer's Church, Walpole, Sunday, November 27th, after a ten year's pastorate.

His text in the morning was Philippians 1:27, "Let your manner of life be as it becameth the gospel of Christ." He emphasized four features of this manner of life, steadfastness, striving, courage and suffering.

In the evening the text was Hebrews 12.27 "That those things that cannot be shaken may remain." The minister pointed out that there is a peculiar likeness between the first century of Christianity and to-day in that mighty forces of change are at work. The early Christians were calm and confident, whereas people to-day are fearful and foreboding. Yet the same vital influences on life and eternity abide. Suns rise and set; seed time and harvest follow in orderly succession; earth's beauty is around us and more than all else, God remaineth the same, yesterday, today and forever.

Large congregations attended all the services.

On the Friday evening previous, there was a social in the school room of the Church as a congregational farewell to Mr. Evans.

Mr. J. G. Miller, was chairman for the evening.

After a short musical programme several members of the congregation paid tribute to Mr. Evans work as pastor for ten years.

The chairman made a presentation as a remembrance from the congregation. In his reply, Mr. Evans thanked the people for their loyalty and support and gave his best wishes for continued success in the church.

A social hour brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

No Radio License Local Residents Appear in Court

Jarvis citizens contributed largely to the docket in Magistrates Court at Hagersville on Tuesday afternoon Failure to produce their Radio Licenses was the charge in each case. An inspector from the Department made the rounds in this district last week and summons' were issued to five local residents.

One case was withdrawn when the owner of the radio found the license which had been purchased last May, and informed the Department to this effect.

Mrs. J. G. Miller, the first to appear before Magistrate A. A. Winter stated that her radio was not being used and that she could produce witnesses to support her statement. The case was adjourned for one week, to give the accused an opportunity to bring her witnesses to Court.

Mrs. Allen Lundy, stated that her radio could not be operated in Jarvis because it had been purchased for use in Detroit, where 60 cycle electric current is used, and that the Jarvis Hydro service is on 25 cycle. The Magistrate pointed out that it was necessary to have a license, whether the radio was in use or not, and assessed accused $4.75 including costs.

In the case of Mrs. Pauline Yallop, the charge was withdrawn before being brought before the Magistrate.

Albert Leng produced his license, showing that it had been purchased last May, and the charge against him was dismissed.

Many others appeared from nearby municipalities on the same charge
