

Martyrs to Headache

Seek relief in vain, until they begin to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Then they regret the years of suffering they might have escaped had they tried this remedy earlier. The trouble was constitutional not local; and, until Ayer's Sarsaparilla did its effective work as an Alterative and Blood Purifier, they were compelled to suffer.

The wife of Samuel Page, 21 Austin st., Lowell, Mass., was, for a long time, subject to severe headaches, the result of stomach and liver disorders. A perfect cure has been effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frank Roberts, 727 Washington st., Boston, says that he formerly had terrible headaches, and until he took Ayer's Sarsaparilla, never found any medicine that would give Permanent Relief.

"Every Spring, for years," writes Lizzie W. DeVane, 292 Fifteenth st., Brooklyn, N. Y., "I have had intolerable headaches. I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla last March, and have not had a headache since that time."

"I suffered from headache, indigestion, and debility, and was hardly able to drag myself about the house," writes Mrs. M. M. Lewis, of A. St., Lowell, Mass. "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has worked a marvelous change in my case. I now feel strong and well as ever."

Jonas Garman, Esq., of Lykens, Pa., writes: "For years I have suffered dreadfully every Spring, from headache, caused by impurity of the blood and indigestion. It seemed for days and weeks that my head would split open. Nothing relieved me till I took Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has cured me completely."

When Mrs. Geneva Belanger, of 24 Bridge st., Springfield, Mass., began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, she had suffered for some years from a serious affection of the kidneys. Every Spring, also, she was afflicted with headache, loss of appetite, and indigestion. A friend persuaded her to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which benefited her wonderfully. Her health is now perfect. Martyrs to headache should try Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

STREETS.

GUELPH, March 26.—A sensation was created in the city this morning when a report spread that W. H. Harvey, bookkeeper for J. W. Lyon, and at one time accountant for E. R. C. Clarkson, Toronto, had been arrested for embezzlement $400 from J. W. Lyon, the book publisher. He was bailed out by Dr. Lett. About four o'clock this afternoon the sensation of the morning was magnified in an intense degree by another report that Harvey had shot his wife and two children.

Harvey during the forenoon had purchased a revolver at J. M. Bond & Co., but what terrible use he was to make of the weapon was never dreamed of until this afternoon, when one of the most awful tragedies that ever occurred in Canada was revealed. The tragedy was discovered by Chief of Police Randall and Constable Elliot going to the house after an unsuccessful attempt before three o'clock by the latter to effect an entrance. About half-past three the chief and constable went to Harvey's residence on Wood-rich-street.

THE SCENE OF THE TRAGEDY.

It is a long narrow cott ge-looking building with two stories in front and a one story addition at the rear. On entering the front door the stairway ascends on one side the narrow hall, and the parlor is on the other side. The hall runs into a well-lighted and spacious sitting room with a bedroom off it behind the parlor. Behind the sitting-room is the dining-room. Back of that again is the kitchen and a bedroom in the rear corner. Upstairs there is a front bedroom with closets, and a couple of other bedrooms. The chief found the house locked at both doors, but by raising the window at the back made his way inside.

A DREADFUL DISCOVERY.

All was as silent as the grave. He passed through the kitchen, dining and sitting rooms, looked into the parlor and then went up stairs where the first object on which his eyes rested was the turned to the front was Mr. Harvey's fair-haired daughter of twelve or thirteen years lying on the floor of the front bedroom with her head in a pool of blood by the closet door. The bloody hole in her head at once told the means by which she had met her death. The chief raised the little one's head from its cramped position and laid it on a pillow.

Turning from this awful sight he went through the upper hall and in the back bedroom found the eldest daughter lying beside the bed, also stone dead.

Horried, the chief went downstairs and in the clothes room off the kitchen found Mrs. Harvey stretched at full length with a similar awful bullet wound. A further search through the house revealed nothing more, and no trace was found of the author of the dreadful triple murder. The last seen of him was as he was walking towards the Exhibition Grounds shortly after twelve o'clock. Though many are on his track no trace of him has yet been discovered.

The news spread like wildfire and in a few moments after the house was surrounded by an excited crowd. The doors were locked and only those interested admitted.

HOW THE MURDER WAS COMMITTED. The fact that this triple murder was committed in broad daylight; that it was committed in a house close to others on each side and on a leading street in the city, coupled with that of its not being heard of for hours after the firing of the fatal shots, is one of the peculiar features of the tragedy. It is natural to suppose that the neighbors would have heard either the screams of the victims or the firing of the shots. This explanation accounts for the silence with which the deeds were done! He sent his elder daughter across the street to Mrs. Heyward's private school to borrow a piece of music. This must have been an excuse to get her out of the way for a few minutes. While she was away he shot his wife, and when she returned he committed the second murder. He then went across to the school and asked if Mrs. Heyward would kindly excuse little Gertrude for a few minutes, and bringing her over killed his loving little daughter. The expression on the faces of all victims show no traces of fright. The little girl's face wears its accustomed serenity and sweetness. They must have been approached one by one from behind and the shots fired before they were aware of the designs upon their lives.

HARVEY'S ROUTE TO TORONTO. The way Harvey spent the afternoon and how he reached Toronto was a mystery till tonight. It now appears that he either walked from Guelph to Hespler a distance of 8 miles, or that he got a freight train to that point. At Hespler he hired a rig at Ross's livery stable and drove to Galt. He then left the rig at McCruden & Galt's livery-stable, and starting that he would call for it again went away. He then went to Robinson's livery-stable and engaged a team to take him to Harrisburg, 14 miles away. He started out with driver a little before 4 o'clock. When passing Galt station Harvey said: "I guess there's the train I thought I missed." The driver told him he could catch it now, but Harvey replied: "Never mind, go on to Harrisburg." He lit a cigar, gave one to the driver, and drove out of Galt. At Harrisburg Harvey gave the driver $1 extra for himself and made him good-bye. The St. Louis express, due in Toronto at 8:20, came in 20 minutes after Harvey's arrival at Harrisburg. Harvey boarded this train and coming to Toronto was captured. This was the murderer's route from the Royal City to the Queen City. He could not have been in Toronto much more than 1/2 of an hour before he was arrested by Detective Black of Toronto, and taken to Guelph by Chief of Police Randall.

WARNING THE SON.

Inspector Stark discovered that the son, J. W. Harvey, was employed with C. A. Sandham, engraver, at 40 Colborne-street, but before he could be seen personally he had left for Guelph, taking the 6 o'clock train, evidently even then being in complete ignorance of the terrible tragedy. Fearing that the murderer might proceed to the boarding house of the son at No. 25 Grosvenor-street, Detective Black was detailed to go up there and await developments. This was about 8:30.

At 8:45 an electric despatch messenger boy arrived at the house with the following message addressed to the son:

MY DEAR BOY—I am in town for the night. Will you come down and stay all night with me?

Walk down the west side of Yonge and north side of King to Palmer House. I may come up to meet you. YOUR FATHER.

After telephoning this information to Inspector Stark, Detective Black, accompanied by two young men who knew the murderer, walked leisurely down Yonge-street, keeping a sharp lookout for him. At the south-east corner of Yonge and King-streets, the officer spied his man. He was walking leisurely up and down the sidewalk with his hands in the pockets of his mackintosh and leisurely smoking a cigar. Every now and then he would glance nervously up Yonge street, evidently on the lookout for his son. After observing him for some minutes in order to be sure that there was no mistake, Detective Black after calling in the assistance of Policemen Leonard stepped forward and made the arrest.

THE ARRIVAL AT GUELPH.

GUELPH, March 27.—The news that the murderer was to be brought to Guelph by the 3 o'clock train quickly spread over the city during the afternoon, and half an hour before the train was due an immense throng awaited its appearance. The platform was jammed, the yards filled and the station and neighboring fences covered with people eager to get a glimpse of the former respected citizen. Sheriff McKim, Mayor Gowdy and Officers Keikley Dooley and Hammond were on the platform keeping an entrance clear. It was thought by everybody that the train would stop at the depot. In this the assembled multitude were disappointed. The train hove in sight, bowed along down the bend and with a whiz switched past the station and going up the track a quarter of a mile stopped opposite the Police Station. The effect on the throng was like the sudden stoppage of a mountain current. One minute the crowd stood on tip-toe in expectation and the next thousands of people were precipitated into a mad race for the Police Station. Men, women and children fell over each other in the dust in their inordinate desire to see the prisoner.

THE CROWD BARRED OUT. Before any of the sprinting thousands reached the Police Court building Chief Randall, who had gone to Toronto to bring the murderer back, had lodged him safely in the court room and the doors were barred.

The prisoner walked quietly over from the train and sat in a chair given to him. He looked like a man who had been humiliated to the lowest degree and one who had given over all hope. He sat with his back facing the magnificent chair, his head bowed to the right side and the tail of his mackintosh thrown over his hands to conceal the handcuffs. He looked steadfastly on the floor, but the regular and quick motion of his eyes showed plainly that he was alive to what was going on. He remained in this posture till Police Magistrate Saunders ascended the bench. Then Chief Randall went up to him and said: "Get up till I face your chair to the court." Harvey arose and when the chair was turned he sat down again.

Dr. Lett appeared before the court and stating that he produced the person of William H. Harvey, he demanded the execution of the bond given by him for the appearance of the prisoner charged with embezzlement.

The Court said that the bond would be cancelled.

The Court stated that the case was adjourned for one week.

THE INFORMATION AGAINST HARVEY. After a consultation between the police magistrate and Coroner George S. Herod this information was sworn out:

The information and complaint of Frederick W. Randall of the City of Guelph, of the County of Wellington, Province of Ontario, and chief constable:

Whereupon the 27th day of March, in the year of Our Lord 1899, before the undersigned, George S. Herod, one of Her Majesty's coroners, of the city of Guelph, who with him just came to suspect and believe that William Harvey of the city of Guelph on the 26th day of March, 1899, did feloniously, wilfully, and with malice aforethought, kill and murder one Matilda Harvey, Lillian Mary Harvey and Geraldine E. M. Harvey, contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and provided.
