This Shrinking World

By C. J. Harris

Earning only brief mention in the press the other day was a non-stop 5,100-mile flight from London to Vancouver that was completed in just 14 hours and 40 minutes. The flight was made in a turbo-prop Bristol Britannia, described as "the largest and fastest airliner in the world."

Apart from illustrating that the United Kingdom remains a leader in aircraft development there was the significant fact that this remarkably fast flight came across "the top of the world." The British plane followed the northern path that Canadian Pacific Air Lines has used on regularly scheduled flights for just over two years and which, when it was inaugurated by CPA, was the first new travel route opened up in several centuries.

PRICE SUPPORTS

The government has put props under the prices of turkey and fowl by boosting price supports and imposing import controls of the products from the United States.

Seventy five year old Guiseppe Roat, who looks like Buffalo Bill, is probably British Columbia's oldest movie actor.

Advances in the techniques of transportation and communication are making this a shrinking world, and perhaps no part of the planet will feel the shrinkage more than Canada's north. Within hardly more than one decade it has changed from an area that was virtually inaccessible, and commercially and politically unimportant, to an area that must be both developed and defended.

Positively, You Need Proteins

Protein has become a household word. In fact, many nutritionists declare that we're going through life with our heads down and our necks in the stretch about it — nutrition science has proved that plenty of protein is a must for healthy living.

What is protein? It is the stuff our bodies are made of.

Protein is found in every living cell, in hair, bones and muscles. As we grow and age, new tissues are formed and worn out tissue must be rebuilt. Food protein is the main material in these tissues. Actually what we call a single material—protein—is a complex combination of several substances called amino acids. Their rating as complete or incomplete protein foods depends upon their content of eight amino acids known to be essential for body building. Most animal foods, like meat, fish, poultry, eggs and milk contain 'incomplete' proteins because they lack one or more of the essential amino acids. It is interesting to note that science has shown that animal and cereal proteins when eaten together provide better nutrition than either does alone. Thus we are wise to balance our intake of animal protein with plenty of whole grain cereals and whole wheat, rye and enriched white breads.

Protein has other uses than as a builder of body tissues. It can also provide a generous amount of energy when digested and oxodized (burned) in our bodies. Equal weights of protein and carbohydrate (sugars and starches) produce exactly the same number of calories—four per gram. If and excess of energy calories is produced by eating either more carbhydrates than we need, the extra will be stored as body fat. In other words—where protein is concerned, enough of a good thing is enough! Excesses, in the form of body fat, may be dangerous to health.

Fortunately protein is widely distributed in our common foods. Although complete (animal) proteins are usually more expensive to buy, their cost, as well as their food value may be counterbalanced by using plenty if inexpensive cereals and breads. A simple daily protein check chart for adults will show check marks opposite these foods: one serving meat, poultry or fish; one serving of either eggs, cheese or legumes; ½ pint of milk (more for children, adolescents and prenant and nursing mothers); one serving of whole grain cereal; and, at least four slices of enriched or whole grain bread.

Rules Regarding The Safety of Pedestrians

Pedestrians are traffic, and should be studied as such. They have special rights, special responcisbilities, special attributes, special problems—but basically they are just a form of traffic when they move on thoroughfares in this automobile age. An unanswered query of to-day is —Do they need special regulations and enforcement?

Of all traffic on the roads the pedestrian has the fastest acceleration —from standstill to full speed in a split second; in some ways this makes him move more vulnerable to accident.

In big cities more than 50 per cent of the injuries are suffered by pedestrians. The main cause of accidents to children is heedlessly running into roadway; adults—heedlessly walking into roadways.

Fewer driver pedestrians are killed than non-driver pedestrians. The pedestrian who can drive knows better what a car is likely to do the "situation"—and what it cannot do.

The safest walker is the boy or girl aged 14.

One out of every four pedestrian casualties is intoxicated at the time of the accident. Query — should there be legislation to cover the "impaired pedestrian?"

MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION IN ONTARIO

Nearly two million vehicles registered in 1956. Records are kept both numerically and alphabetically. Records are open to the police 24 hours a day; to the public, 8 hours daily. The Department receives 5,000 requests for information daily, including 1,000 phone calls. Some 100,000 changes of address are registered annually. 850,000 vehicle ownership transfers are registered each year.

Visit to Parliament Buildings at Ottawa

The tourist season in the Capital is in full swing and perhaps headed for a record season, if the number of visitors to the Parliament buildings is any indication.

A tour of Parliament Hill, including a trip by elevator and stairs to the top of the 291-foot Peace Tower or a bird's eye view of Ottawa and the Gatineau Block to the north, is a must for any visitor to the capital. A tour of the Centre Block is practically a short course in Canadian political history from the time of Confederation 90 years ago until now.

For the first half of the year, a record total of about 115,000 visitors made conducted tours of the Centre Block which houses the House of Commons, the Senate and the Library of Parliament.

That is roughly 30,000 more than in the same period last year and the height of the tourist season—July and August—is just starting.

Visitors, mainly in the universal tourist garb of slacks, shorts, sport or T-shirts and sun dresses, are guided in groups of 30 or 40 persons by members of the Commons protective staff.

Here are some of the things they told during the tours that take about 45 minutes, including a trip to the Peace Tower for a close up inspection of the glass-enclosed clock mechanism.

There are 265 members in the Commons and 102 in the Senate; the Centre Block was built in the 1916-21 period at a cost of $12,000,000 but carving and decorating work still is going on; the Library of Parliament only part of the Centre Block saved from the fire of 1916, was itself damaged by fire a few years ago and rebuilt; 11 types of stone and marble were used in the construction of the building.

The guides also identify the dozens of paintings and stone sculptures in the halls and answer dozens of questions about Canada's form of government. Many U.S. tourists are interested in differences between Canadian and American systems.

When Parliament is in session they see Canadian democracy in action by sitting for a few minutes in the public galeries.

During the tourist season, American visitors outnumber Canadian visitors about three to two. Oddly, there are many native Ottawans who have lived all their lives in the Capital and yet say they have neve visited the Parliament Buildings.

BARN BURNED AT KOHLER

A new quanset barn, belonging to Bruce Mehlenbacher was burned on Saturday. The barn is located on the south end of the Rural Youth Centre. Cause of the fire is unknown.

The revival of railway building has been one of the significant features of Canada's post-war progress. Since 1946, a total of 580 miles of new branch lines have been constructed, or are being constructed by the Canadian National Railways.

OF MANY THINGS—

TOIL AND TAXES

By Ambrose Hills

I've been reading the story of an elderly woman's homestead, and it had to do with toil, taxes and trouble.

Trouble began when this woman, because she feared that rising income taxes were gradually destroying the freedom of the American people, decided to do something about it. She ran into plenty of trouble, but she started something.

She showed how far the imposition of income tax, together with the law that compels employers to collect the taxes of their employees, had robbed individuals large and small of freedoms they once held sacred. She illustrated how the government, seizing this power in time of war, failed to reliquish it when peace came.

Her book, "Toil, Taxes & Trouble," is the story of her battle to get the validity of the withholding tax tested before the courts, and of the government's crude and vicious effort to force her to knuckle down, even though her taxes were paid and all the taxes of her employees had been paid.

This woman lost money, suffered a great deal of anxiety and trouble, because she had the courage of her convictions. Though she defeated the tax collectors in court battles, and made them return moneys they had seized, in the long run she was virtually helpless before the crushing powers of the tax collectors.

It may be true that the friends our tax collectors are less ruthless and intrusive. It may be true that the kind of bribery and corruption that took place in the Bureau of Internal Revenue in the U.S.A. could not be found here. Just the same, our tax collectors do have the powers to invade the privacy of every citizen, and Canadian employers also are forced to deduct taxes from their employees and thus become unwilling tax collectors without pay.

Every point made in "Toil, Taxes & Trouble" applies in Canada, with the exception of the ruthlessness of the tax collectors. It is hoped that our new government, at the earliest possible date, cuts taxes right across the board. Once government revenue is brought down a little, government economy can be enforced. But as long as the money rolls in, it will be spent—and none too wisely.

If I could afford it, I would send a copy of Miss Kellems' book to every member of the new Cabinet. There might have been a day when the philosophy of "tax and spend—spend the tax" could keep a government in power. I think that day is over. The people want a new deal.

Ontario Not Affected By Asiatic Influenza

Health Minister Mackinnon Phillips said recently his department is keeping a vigilant eye on the progress of Asiatic Influenza, particularly in Europe and the Middle East.

"To date," Dr. Phillips said, "there have been no cases reported in Ontario." The Health Minister went on to say that the few cases found in the United States, have been relatively mild in nature. "Present indications" Dr. Phillips continued, "are that this infection is mild, lasting up to 72 hours and incapacitates a person for approximately one week. We have no reason to expect deaths or complications."

It is expected the problem will turn out to be the number of people affected by the disease rather than its severity.

The Minister said that preparations are proceeding rapidly towards the production of a vaccine. The date of availability of such a vaccine is not be known until September.

"According to all our chemists thus far," Dr. Phillips said, "there is no reason for panic or apprehension."

COOLING DRINK

For something different to make, try "Creamed Coffee." A quickie to mix. A cooling concoction.

The recipe requires four cups strong, hot coffee, three cinnamon sticks, sugar and ½ cup of cream. Pour hot coffee over ice and let stand for about an hour. Remove cinnamon sticks and add coffee to taste. Add heavy cream and chill. Pour over cracked ice in tall glasses and use cinnamon stick as stirrer. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Clifford Roulston of Toronto spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Roulston at her home.

Mt. Hope Edge Jarvis Win League Silverware

The Haldimand Norfolk Floodlight League championship trophy will be kept shined by Wilson Kett, manager of the Mount Hope Mounties, until a new winner is declared for the 1958 season.

Mount Hope edged Jarvis out of the top spot by winning two straight in the best two out of three league championship series. It was a 3-0 decision for Mount Hope here last week and on Saturday night they were on the top side of a 2-1 score.

The Mount Hope park was packed full for the crucial game for the Mounties. Jarvis' only marker came in the first frame on a single by Firm and Johnny Edward's triple. Manolan again proved his greatness by poking out a short fly just over the Infield with two aboard in the third to give Mount Hope their only two runs of the game. Jarvis threatened in the ninth and had two on with one away. Manolan ended the thrilling tussle by striking out the last two batters. Johnny Edwards, years ago and rebuilt; 11 types of stone and marble were used in the construction of the building.

The guides also identify the dozens of paintings and stone sculptures in the halls and answer dozens of questions about Canada's form of government. Many U.S. tourists are interested in differences between Canadian and American systems.

Ball Club Draw Saturday Night

A draw will be made at the Jarvis-Virgil game here on Saturday night for three prizes. The first is a fishing rod and reel. The second prize is an electric kettle and a valuable third prize will also be given away. Tickets have been on sale for the past three weeks and ball club supporters are urged to get a ticket to help defray expenses of the club in the play-off series. Tickets are $1.00 each.

Those selling tickets are reminded to have their ticket stubs ready for the drum at the game on Saturday night.

W.I. Grandmother's Picnic

Over one hundred members and guests of Jarvis W.I. enjoyed a picnic in Hagersville Park on the afternoon of Thursday, August 8th. The District Officers of West Haldimand, as well as Garnet and Varney Branches were entertained and each member brought along a grandmother.

The roll call, "Who Built My Home and When," proved interesting. Tribute was paid to Mrs. Mary Robinson, oldest member of Jarvis W.I. who had also been a member at Varney for many years. Her absence, through failing health was regretted and a box prepared that she might also enjoy the picnic lunch served at the close of the afternoon.

The president, Mrs M. A. Collins, acted as chairman. Mrs. Eben Gowan was in charge of the display of Handicrafts, past and present. On behalf of Jarvis W.I. Mrs. Allan Lunn presented a triple strand pearl necklace to Mrs. R. A. Miller, who has acted as secretary for the past few years, and Mrs. Collins presented a sheaf of gladioli to Mrs. Alfred Marr, District president.

Mrs. A. L. Miller, Mrs. A. Marr and Mrs. Chas. Ionson were in charge of contests, prizes being awarded as follows: Most great grandmother, Mrs. Christie of Garnet; Grandmother to travel furthest, "Tippecanoe," Mrs. Ida Fulsom; Bean Bag Contest, Mrs. C. Walter, Mrs. Les Porter; Grandmother with smallest shoe, Mrs. Christie; Grandmother with most children, Mrs. R. A. Miller; Grandmother with longest hair, Mrs. Chas. Bier; Grandmother with largest earrings, Mrs W. E. Craddock of Varency; Garter contest, Mrs. A. L. Belbeck. A spelling match backward was also an enjoyable feature of the program.

The president extended courtesy to all who had helped to make the afternoon such a marked success, quoting "Life is better to be seventy years young than forty years old."

WEDDINGS

FISHER—VOKES

Baskets of pink and white gladioli were the setting of a pretty wedding on Saturday, August 10th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Vokes, Nanticoke, when their daughter, Ivy Marion, became the bride of Mr. Jacob Stephen Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Fisher, Smithville.

Rev. A. G. Macpherson officiated at the marriage ceremony. The traditional wedding music was played by Miss Rosemary Vokes, sister of the bride. Mrs. Ronald Marsden of Simcoe, was the soloist, singing "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a white waltz-length gown of chantilly lace and net over satin with deep points of lace appliqued on the net skirt. Her fitted bodice of lace was buttoned down the back and the net yoke was applied with a lace design. Her illusion veil was held in place by a crown headdress of seed pearls and sequins. She wore a pearl necklace of the groom. Her bouquet was blue and white carnations against a background of satin ribbon and fern.

Mrs. Alfred Braun, sister of the bride was matron of honour, wearing a waltz length gown of blue taffeta, fashioned with matching cumberbund and bow at the back.

Miss Marion Nethercott of Clear Creek, was bridesmaid and wore a pink taffeta gown identical to that of the matron of honour. Both attendants wore matching headdress of a double band of white crystalette. They carried old-fashioned nosegays of pink carnations amongst lace and satin ribbon. The best man was Mr. Walter Lee, Smithville, friend of the groom. Mr. Earle Vokes, brother of the bride was usher.

The bride's mother wore an irridescent charcoal grey taffeta dress with matching accessories.

The groom's mother chose a powder-blue dress of tricatina, white picture hat and accessories. Each wore a corsage of pink rose buds.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held for sixty guests. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom in an arch of roses, centred the bride's table.

The groom ably replied to the toast to the bride proposed by Rev. Macpherson.

Six pupils, whom the groom taught while principal of the Nanticoke Public School, acted as waiters and waitresses.

Following the reception the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to the St. Lawrence area, New York State and Northern Ontario. For travelling the bride wore a powder-blue linen dress with matching dustcoat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will reside at their new home on Elma St., in Hagersville.

Guests were present from Smithville, Hamilton, Wellandport, Dunnville, Engersville, Paris, Guelph, Toronto and Clear Creek.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Hamilton Teacher's College. At present they are serving on the teaching staff of the Hagersville Public School.

ATTENTION RE BUS TRIP TO THE INDIAN PAGEANT

There are still a few seats to be filled in the bus going to the Indian Pageant, "The Life of Joseph Brant." The bus will leave the White Rose Service Station at 7.20 on Friday evening, Aug. 16th. Please make reservations through Mrs R. A. Miller, phone 41M.

Constituents Greeted By Brant-Haldimand Member Parliament

John Charlton, M.P. for the riding of Brant-Haldimand and Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Agriculture was the host at a social evening at Caledonia Play Grounds last Wednesday evening.

"I bring you greetings from John Diefenbaker, Prime Minister of Canada and from the Government of Canada itself," said Mr. Charlton. He said this was the first opportunity afforded him to do this before such a representative group of citizens in the riding.

Mr. Charlton arranged the affair through a committee of the Progressive - Conservative Association of Brant-Haldimand-Lincoln of Caledonia, Reg. House of Hagersville and Stan Mitchell of Jarvis.

The Caledonia Citizens' Band enlivened proceedings as the people began to gather shortly after seven o'clock. This was followed by entertainment for the children. Brief addresses were given by Mr. Charlton, Hon. James N. Allan, Minister of Highways for Ontario; A. L. Miller and Garnet Brown, Presidents of the Haldimand and Brant riding associations respectively.

The Galt Terry Players gave a program of songs and to finish the evening-the Band played a lovely tune for a brief concert while friends from all over the riding renewed acquaintances.

IN HOSPITAL

Gene Hoover of the Marshall Dairy suffered a heart attack on Monday of this week, and at present is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton. At time of going to press, he is reported to be doing nicely and expected home in a week of two.

Scout Jamboree

Boy Scouts from Kenya presented Canadian scouts at the world jamboree in Sutton Park, England, last week with a stone which will be used in construction of an international cairn at Montreal.

The square stone, weighing about four pounds, was brought from Nyeri in Kenya, near the grave of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the scout movement. It was presented to Eli Boyamer of Saint John, N.B., leader of the Canadian contingent.

Rev. Frank Beford, leader of the Kenya group.

The Quebec scouts are building a cairn from stones collected from all parts of the world. It will be outside the Quebec provincial scout headquarters in Montreal.

Jarvis at Virgil To-Night Return Game Saturday

Jarvis meets Virgil in the first game of the O.A.S.A. play-offs at Niagara-on-the-Lake tonight, Thursday, Aug. 15th, and the second game will be played at the Jarvis Park on Saturday night, Aug. 17th.

Reports indicate that Virgil has a hustling ball club, made up of mostly younger players with a sprinkling of veterans. Virgil won the Junior "C" championship last year and prior to that boasted two Juvenile "C" crowns.

Jarvis is due to break out in the winning columns after three losses to Mount Hope. The team exhibited championship characteristics at Mt. Hope on Saturday night and with any kind of a break would have come home the victors. The odds now are due to go the other way and they will be out to take the first O.A.S.A. round play-off in two straight to get ready for another crack at Mt. Hope.

Harewood—Jarvis' Own Racing Circuit

What a great opportunity Jarvis has to take advantage of the bright future which is predicted for Harewood, the racing airport circuit, owned by Mr. Russell Hare and leased by the British Empire Motor Club of Toronto. Other similar courses in the United States have brought revenue and work to their local towns and villages.

But what is Jarvis doing to show its interest in the development of their circuit? Already several thousands of dollars have been spent by the Club in putting in facilities both for spectators and competitors. Now with the building of grandstands the course is showing a further stage in its growth. Many more improvements are planned.

What can the citizens of Jarvis do to show their wish to get in on this development which will bring more people and money to your town? Just a few of the questions that come to mind are: Has Jarvis the facilities for the holding of victory banquets after the races? Why should they be held in neighbouring towns if Jarvis can provide them? What about a list of accommodation in Jarvis to be made available to those which organize the races? Many people would prefer to stay really close to the course if they only know where. Is there any reason why some hunting should not be displayed on race week-ends? What about a sign across the street pointing the way to Harewood and giving Jarvis publicity at the same time? What about a poster displayed in every store? Have any of your local contractors and businessmen quoted prices for work to be done at Harewood? It seems there are so many ways that Jarvis could benefit.

Three events are left for 1957. What can you do to make them more successful and at the same time help yourself to some of the prosperity which follows the racing fans. Aug. 17th, Aug. 24th, and Sept. 28th are YOUR dates on the racing calendar.

Parliamentary Assistant

JOHN CHARLTON, M.P.

The announcement was made last week that John Charlton, M.P. for Brant-Haldimand had been named by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker to the post of Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Douglas Harkness of Calgary.

Sports Car Club Races Popular Summer Event

(By David Grenier, in The Toronto Telegram)

Close racing and some star turns are expected to feature the seventh annual Sports Car Trophy Races which the Sports Car Club of Toronto is holding August 17th at Harewood Acres, near Jarvis, Ont.

This popular midsummer event which draws up to 8,000 spectators usually brings in a good number of U.S. competitors—and this year is no exception.

Nearly 40 American entries stiffen the entry list of 125 with competitors coming from places as distant as Fort Worth, Texas, Baltimore and Milwaukee.

Tough Competition

They'll be providing tough opposition for local drivers who include Ed. Leavens handling a Chevrolet Corvette; Tom Gilmour and Jerry Polivka in Lotus Mark IX's; Frank Bradley with the DKW Mouza, and Ray Liddle with an MGA. These five are part of a big contingent from the British Empire Motor Club of Toronto.

Other Canadian drivers are bringing their machines from Montreal, Hamilton and Windsor.

Key attractions include a 2.7-litre Ferrari entered with four other cars by Ecurie Riplay and to be driven by owner Millard Ripley of Ithica, N.Y. It was in this car that Carlo Marzotto won the Mille Miglia in 1953, according to an SCC official.

A Jaguar XK-SS, three Mercedes 300 SLs and an Allard JR round out the heavy stuff.

Lightweight Cars

Among the lighter cars are a Cross-ley-engined Siata, an Elva Mark 1 and the HJ MG special with which Jim Jeffries made a stiff struggle in its class. A Porsche 550 Spyder has been entered in the up to 1500 cc class by Carl Haas of the U.S. who has racing experience from Nassau, Bahamas.

Club officials expect the 2-litre class to provide the closest racing of all, with competitors evenly matched in Triumphs, Morgans and Dorettis. One A.C. Bristol has also been entered in this class.

Restricted Entry

Entries have been restricted to racing cars and to sports and gran turismo cars. The SCC has therefore had to decline entries from owners of modified production saloons. In many ways it's a pity that the fullness of the day's program hasn't permitted a production saloon event —something which usually calls for considerable skill and courage and makes for interesting watching.

There are eight events in the program, which begins at 11 a.m. with a 12-lap event for Formula III racing cars, Canada's Class cars (specials) and Class H sports cars (750 cc). After this follow six events run on a class or engine size basis, each consisting of 12 laps.

The final race is an open event, a one-hour Le Mans race which will be run on a first-home basis. The spectacular Le Mans—or sprint—also will be used in this event as opposed to the stationary grid start employed in the other races.

Entrance Narrowed

The lap distance on this airfield course lying south on the Nanticoke sideroad from Jarvis, Ont., will be 2.3 miles. It's the same course which the British Empire Motor Club used for the Canadian Carrera in June, but with one slight modification.

Thieves Break Into Poolroom

Thieves smashed a rear window to gain entrance to Johnny Edwards' Poolroom early Thursday morning and then removed a door leading to his store and barber shop where a quantity of cigarettes and other articles were taken.

Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews, who live in an apartment next door, heard the thieves making their get-away about 2.30 a.m. Although they did not know at the time a break-in had occurred.

In addition to a quantity of cigarettes, shoes and articles of clothing were missing. Constable Clark of the O.P.P. investigated and obtained finger prints which have been forwarded to Ottawa for processing.

Earlier in the week a break-in was re
