
We regret the necessity this week of recording the passing of a good friend in the person of Herb. Copeland. Although he had been a resident of Jarvis for a relatively short time we had come to recognize in him as one who possessed the most admirable qualities of character. Of him it could be said: "His word was as good as his bond." In his vocation he applied himself with a thoroughness seldom seen these days and, as a result, he built a firm foundation under his business. Our contacts with him left impressions that will reflect in memory in the years ahead and it is our belief that in knowing Herb. Copeland these past few years our life has been enriched. The sympathy of the community goes out to his wife and family.

—o—

Only the pressure of more important things cause us to refrain from dealing with the editor of the Port Dover Maple Leaf as we ought to do this week. We always knew he did a lot of dreaming but never before did we believe those dreams could turn into nightmares. Having persuaded the Government to spend the better part of the National Budget in Norfolk County over the past few years, we suppose he figures the least he can do is give his old nag "what's a million Howe" a pat on the back. We'll have more time when the Minstrel Show is over.

THE MEANING OF LENT

By Rev. K. N. Brueton

The Church observes the 40 Days of Lent in imitation of Our Lord's forty days in the wilderness, and in commemoration of that event. We have a tendency to formalize this observance and, to realize its true meaning, we need to see why Jesus Himself went into the wilderness.

He went there to fast, to meditate (or think things through) and to resist temptation. These three things we can all do. Fasting should be something that will help us in the other two things. Resisting temptation is an important part of Lenten observance, and our self-denial should if possible, be connected with that. If we are tempted to eat too much, to drink too much, or to lay too much emphasis on some form of pleasure such as dancing, cards, movies, sports or whatever it may be, then our fasting should be connected with that—giving up some food, giving up drink, giving up some pleasure, and so on.

Self-denial is self discipline, "I buffet my body, and bring it into subjection" said St. Paul. By self-denial, the athlete, the soldier, the masters over our bodily desires, the material is made subject to the spiritual. Resisting temptation is obviously another form of this. We all sin and most of us have some "favourite" or besetting sin (secret or open). Lent is an especially good time to make a determined effort, with God's grace (or help) to overcome this particular sin.

To do this we need Divine grace and we need to dwell more than ever on the love and mercy of God. Thus Lent is also a time of special devotion and meditation, seeking God's help, by prayer, sacrament and Bible study and by thinking much on the things of God and of eternal life. The reading of good religious books is another help. If you have none of the modern ones, perhaps you have "Pilgrim's Progress" or, what better religious book is there than the Bible? Suppose you read the book of Amos, or of Isaish, right through, just as you would any other book. Better still, read a Gospel (or St. Luke and Acts) in the same way.

If we observe Lent in this way, then Easter will indeed be a time of rejoicing.
