
We have learned, indirectly, from a prominent Woodhouse source, that a prominent Renton Farmer has been diligently searching for a housekeeper. It seems his wife has taken off on a protracted holiday and, as we would suspect, he isn't even able to toast a slice of bread without burning it. Our Woodhouse informant tells us that the Renton Farmer was spending considerable time, recently, in a local oasis, entreating all and sundry for information that might turn up for him a housekeeper. It's amazing how helpless some men can get when their wife takes off on a brief holiday.

As this is written we are unable to project the increased grants we anticipate will be coming to our municipality after the Provincial Budget is presented. We would predict, however, they will be more than sufficient to cover the expected increase in taxation arising from the installation of Waterworks and Sewage. Our Provincial representative, The Honourable James N. Allan, brought down his budget yesterday and what we think of that has transpired in the area of Provincial Financing since he assumed the Treasury Portfolio only adds to the respect we have always held for the outstanding ability of the member for Haldimand-Norfolk.

We're sorry we missed the Television appearance of The Right Hon. John George Diefenbaker and Charles Lynch on Monday night. From what we have been told the former Prime Minister put one of Canada's most outstanding purveyors of public opinion in a pretty difficult spot. Anyone who reads this column carefully (are there any?) will know what we said about Bomarc Missles in 1962-63. Charles Lynch discovered the same truth about six months ago and revealed it in one of his submissions. The former Prime Minister, apparently, made it very plain to his interviewer that had the same truth been told in 1962-63 his Government would probably still be in power.

Eric Neilson's charges in the Parliament of Canada brought about the Dorian enquiry which should have shook the Nation far more than it did (as revealed by the last election results). At a News conference on Monday, in Vancouver, he said he was going to bring further revelations to the floor of Parliament very shortly with respect to the Bankruptcy scandals. These revelations, he suggested, would involve some of the elected members of Parliament. These are the kind of Parliamentary representatives we need. We'd vote for Eric Neilson if we had the opportunity.

There are not many weeks left before the next edition of the Jarvis Lions Club Minstrel Show in that period a lot of trimming will have to be done. Those involved with the show will be working hard to try and present some entertainment that will be appreciated by the community. This is not made easier by the knowledge there may be some, or maybe only one, who feel this effort is a reflection on the dignity of some members of the human race. It simply can't be so. The members of the Jarvis Lions Club Minstrel Show can have as broad an appreciation of true brotherhood as any other individual or group of individuals who take it upon themselves to decide what is good for humanity.

IN THE ORBIT OF OUR EYE!

By C. D. CLARKE

AUSTRALIA GOES DECIMAL

Some time ago, in one of these columns, we made mention of the fact that we lived in a changing world. This was by way of being a pun over the fact that Australia was changing its traditional currency of pounds, shillings and pence to the conventional decimal system of cents and dollars that we Canadians are so familiar with. We also went on to speak about the value of the Metric System to Canadian Manufacturers and recommended a change from our present system of measurement to the Metric system. However, that is by the by. What this column is about is that we got a letter from a reader asking for more information on the Australian currency change. Well, here is all the information that we have received.

On February 14, 1966, Australia will change from pounds, shillings and pence to dollars and cents.

Apart from making monetary calculations easier, the changeover will give the Australians the pleasure of owning a pocket 200. The reason being that the "tails" side of the new coinage is being minted with stylised representations of a fascinating cross-section of those animals so familiar to Australia.

The decimal coinage range starts with a one cent piece (worth just over a penny of the old coinage). On it appears the feather tailed glider, smallest of Australia's gliding marsupials.

The two cent coin shows the frilled lizard which grows to about three feet.

The five cent piece features the echidna, also known as the spiny ant-eater. And the beautiful lyre-bird appears on the ten cent piece. A famed mimic, the bird is about the size of a Canadian pheasant. The platypus, depicted on the twenty cent coin, is about 18 inches long. It swims with the speed and skill of a seal.

Two native animals appear on the 50 cent "coat of arms" of each coin – carries the effigy of Queen Elizabeth II.

The coins, which we have seen in reproductions, have won high praise for their dignity and good taste. They were designed by a 33 year old former art student from Geelong, Victoria, Mr. Stuart Devlin.

In view of what we made mention of in a recent column about Canada having coinage in between a penny and a five cent piece, it is with gratification that we see Australia's range. The two cent coin and the twenty cent coin would, we feel, find ready acceptance in the Canadian range of coinage.

WHITE CANE WEEK

FEBRUARY 6th — 12th, 1966

"Hats off to the school children," said Max U. Knechtel, District Field Secretary for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, "for their help to blind persons crossing the street and finding house numbers." Speaking for the blind of this district Mr. Knechtel was taking advantage of White Cane Week, sponsored by The Canadian Council of the Blind and The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, to express appreciation to the boys and girls for their thoughtful guidance they give all year long.

He included a "Thank You" to the parents and teachers who train children in thoughtfulness for others and at the same time raised a warning on the importance of sense care for their children's eyes. "Because we realize how precious eyesight is, we urge parents to watch for the signs that often indicate poor sight even in the grades in school, squinting while reading and recurring upset stomach. He stressed the need to watch for squint when the baby is between 12 and 18 months old. Squint or crossed eyes, is an eye muscle problem. It rarely disappears without treatment, which consists of a patch over one eye, glasses, an operation or sometimes a combination of these. Doctors state that delay in this treatment may lead to permanent lack of vision in one eye. Once a child is five years old, lost vision cannot be recovered.

"Fortunately school children are carefully screened today", he continued, "and glasses are being prescribed. Glasses are a common sight in the school yard but there are still enough children with poor vision slipping through to make the warning a strong necessity. This is why the blind of Canada are making prevention of blindness and sight protection their theme for this year's White Cane Week. Remember, they are your eyes—one pair for a lifetime."

NEWS SPOTLIGHT

Soviet Russia's commanding lead in the space race was demonstrated last week when an instrument capsule, weighing about a ton and a half, was landed on the moon under control.

Within hours its cameras began sending photographs of the lunar surface to the earth.

Ironically, the pictures were first distributed to the world not by Tass, the Soviet news agency, but by the British observatory at Jodrell Bank. Tass merely announced the success of the landing and said that the photographs would be published later.

The announcement included the technical details of the lunar capsule's television transmitter, so the Jodrell Bank staff tuned their huge radiotelescope to the right frequency and plugged it into an ordinary newspaper wirephoto decoder, just to see what would happen.

Within 10 minutes, they knew it worked. The first close-up photograph of the dead lunar landscape came through, showing the shadow of the spacecraft and a barren stony plain, with the horizon only a mile or so away.

Prof. Bernard Lovell, head of Jodrell Bank, was ecstatic. Pebbles an inch across were shown clearly, he said. The moon seems to be made of a porous rock, like pumice stone. There were no deep drifts of dust, as some scientists had feared.

ADVENTURE WITH PEACE

The Soviet space capsule was called Luna 1A and was the fifth attempt to land instruments safely on the moon, the four earlier attempts having failed. The United States has yet to make its first attempt of this sort, but expects to do so next May.

Prof. Lovell observed that the five Russian attempts had occurred at regular two-month intervals, and said this shows the dedication and determination of that country's space program.

He said the success shows clearly that, for any country willing to spend so much money so fast, putting a man on the moon by 1970 is quite possible.

Several editorial writers also commented on the important value space exploration may have in a divided and confused world. They see in the excitement and risk and skill of space flight a thrilling adventure, with a pantheon of individual heroes, in which the public can participate.

Those who believe man needs adventure, and usually finds it in warfare, think space may be

Haldimand County FEDERATION OF AGRICULTURE ANNUAL BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Haldimand County Federation of Agriculture was held at the Rural Youth Centre, Kohler, on Friday, February 4th with approximately one hundred and fifteen in attendance.

After a lively sing-song led by Russell Hare and accompanied by Mrs. Graydon Field, George Ramsey gave his chairman's remarks in which he reviewed the past year's activities.

Head table guests introduced by Allan Murray included Judge and Mrs. H. W. Leach, Hon. James and Mrs. Allan, guest speaker Charles Munro and Mrs Munro, Warden C. D. and Mrs. Johnson, Rev. F. C. Musson, Mr and Mrs. Norman Watson, Mr. and Mrs Jerry Trautor, and Haldimand County's Dairy Princess, Alice Clark. The township reeves and the C.I.A. agents were also guests of the Federation.

Brian Gloyd entertained with organ music during dinner and also favoured with a number of selections during the program.

Mrs Don Henry, judge of the Farmstead improvement Competition spoke briefly, and announced that there are eighty entries in the competition in Haldimand County—one of the largest entries in the province. The final judging will now be done in August. Mrs. Henry suggested the following as aids, Department of Agriculture Bulletins, Agricultural Representatives, Public Libraries, and magazines.

Winners of the draws at the banquet were — centrepiece, Whitney Hare; safety marker, Mrs Harold Bird; potted plant, Mrs C. D. Johnson, Mrs. Keith Richardson, Mrs Russell Hare, John Turnbull, Reasor Nauman, and Mrs Tobe Snowden.

Bill Creighton very ably introduced the guest speaker, Charles Munro, who is first vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. He chose as his topic two questions-"What are we accomplishing in farm organizations?" and "What are we doing for ourselves?" Mr. Munro stated that it is our duty to make the best use of technology on our own farms. We have to keep abreast of all new developments because we are in competition not only with our neighbours, and not only with the farmers in our own country but with all the farmers in the world. Much aid is available through both the extension services of the Department of Agriculture and the self-help organizations such as Soil and Crop Improvement Association, or the Hog Producers Association.

However, said Mr. Munro, the real crux comes outside our own line fences. 90,000 farmers in Ontario are all competing with one another for the consumer's dollar. They are the only segment of the economy working at cross purposes. This is to the advantage of everyone except the Farmer! In Canada we spend 18.5 percent of our income on food as compared with 30 percent in Britain, 45 percent in Italy, and 60 percent in Russia The Hon. W.A. Stewart, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture has said "We must get away from a cheap food policy" and Deputy Minister Biggs has said "Can we continue to sacrifice ourselves on the altar of our own efficiency?"

Mr. Munro then went on to discuss some of our agricultural organizations. He explained how resolutions from township and county federations of agriculture establish the policies of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture A brief from the Ontario Federation of Agriculture to the Ontario government explains the needs of Ontario farmers and makes suggestions as to how these can be fulfilled

The 1966 Canadian Federation of Agriculture convention was held in Toronto at the end of January. The Canadian Federation presents a brief to, and works extensively with, the federal government. The Canadian Federation is trying to do a better job on the farmers' behalf.

In reference to agricultural education, Mr. Henry suggested the following: Department of Agriculture Bulletins, Agricultural Representatives, Public Libraries, and magazines.

Directors elected for three years were Mrs. Robt. Pasley Jr., Mr. H.I Snowden and Mr. Lorne James. Mr. Wm. Evans was nominated but declined to stand.

Mr. Mel Smith was elected for a period of two years to complete the term of Mr. E. Nablo, who resigned.

HALDIMAND CO-OPERATIVE MEDICAL SERVICES ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual meeting and banquet of the Haldimand Co-operative Medical Services was held at the Youth Centre, Kohler on Thursday evening, Jan. 27. In spite of very adverse weather conditions more than 50 people attended. The East Seneca United Church women served a delicious hot turkey dinner. Mrs. Harold Harvey was pianist for the Queen and Mr. H. Snowden said Grace. Mr. Peter Laidlaw, President of the Haldimand Co-operative Medical Services was M.C. for the evening.

Following the introduction of the Head table guests, Warden Cecil Johnson brought greetings from County Council. He remarked that he had heard it said that the people of Haldimand County were not active enough in promoting their County but he felt that the Medical Services had been doing a good job along that line.

Messages of regret at their inability to attend were received from Hon. J.N. Allan, Prof. R.P. Forshaw, President of the Co-operative Medical Services of Ontario and Mr. E. Schofield, Secretary of the Provincial Federation. We were sorry to learn that Prof. Forshaw had been in an automobile accident earlier in the day.

The accordeon solos of Mr. Fred Druyff of Cayuga were very much appreciated by the audience. Fred is a very accomplished young musician.

Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Filsinger of Cayuga and by means of slides and a most interesting narration by Mrs. Filsinger we left the below zero weather behind and visited, in imagination at least, the Holy Land, where temperatures registered 130 degrees.

Mr. Druyf and Mr. and Mrs. Filsinger were introduced by Mr. E. Nablo and thanked by Mr. C Kindy.

Mr. Laidlaw, in his presidential address, commented on the developments in the insurance field during the year and the necessity for the increase in rates.

The manager's report was given by Mrs. Ridley An increase in Earned Income during the year of 56.07% was noted.

Haldimand County stands first in the province in the percentage of its population insured in the Co-operative Medical Services plan.

Mrs. Ridley announced her retirement as Secretary-Manager, effective Jan 31st, after a term of 17 years and 8 months.

Mr Peter Laidlaw has been appointed Secretary Manager to succeed Mrs. Ridley.

Following the report, a presentation on behalf of the Board of Directors was made by Mrs. Robt Paisley Jr. Mrs. Ridley was presented with a cheque in lieu of a pension and chrysanthemums. Previously Norma Ridley, the assistant secretary, had given Mrs. Ridley a corsage.

Mrs. Ridley, in her reply, commented on the rewarding experience it had been to serve the people of Haldimand and quoted as her motto "Service is the rent we pay for our room here on earth".

Mr. R. Wills of Ward Partridge and Crawford, gave the auditors report. The same firm was appointed auditor for the coming year

Mr. Ben Elliott, a Past President and one of the members of the first Board of Directors of Haldimand Co-operative Medical Services, conducted the election of Officers.
