NEWS SPOTLIGHT

(continued from page Two) the solution, now that war is so enormously more brutal and risky than a mere generation ago. Those who despair about civilization sated with television, synthetic glamor and invented excitement, find in space exploration an adventure which is real and perhaps an opportunity for people to give up political strife in order to cooperate for the conquest of space.

LBJ SEES FOR HIMSELF

Presidents of the United States tend to be a stay-at-home lot, and those who are professional politicians, with the exception of John F. Kennedy, travelled even less than the others, such as Hoover and Eisenhower.

Therefore when Lyndon B. Johnson announced last week he would fly at once to Hawaii for high level discussions with those responsible for military and political action in South Viet Nam, a number of observers were more impressed than they had been by the news, at Christmas, of the "peace offensive," involving a whole party of globe-trotting diplomats.

It will be the first meeting between Mr. Johnson and Gen. Nguyen C Cao Ky, the South Vietnamese prime minister The president denied that political considerations would be discussed and called the conference merely a "military and non-military briefing" but it is obviously something more than just a staff meeting of generals.

Defense Secretary McNamara is the only key man absent. As well as Mr. Johnson and Gen. Ky, the commanders of the U.S. 7th Fleet and the U.S land forces in South Viet Nam are Gen Maxwell Taylor, special presidential adviser, are there.

Bitter critics of the American president's policy drew attention to the suddenness of the decision, coming shortly after the decision to lay the Vietnamese question before the U. N Security Council, the earlier deep questioning of U. S. Vietnamese policy in the Senate for eign relations committee, and the decision, more important politically than militarily, to resume bombing North Viet Nam.

The bombing started last week, 37 days after it had been ended During that period, the first suggestions were made that the U. S. might double its garrison to 400,000 troops Ironically, one of reasons offered for resuming was that the North Vietnamese had used the bombing period to restore their ed communications

It was the U.S. which Vietnamese question b U N Security Council accepted for discu Russia's opposition ground that the Geneva records of 1954 have b vided to prove that What will come of t is anyone's guess. b dits were not optim

SPEED!

Here is a story I once heard It seems that a Japanese diplomat was visiting in the United States and was travelling with an American friend by train to Chicago The train was not too full, the seats were comfortable and the visitor was enjoying his ride. Suddenly the American said, "Well, this is where we change". It was not Chicago and the Japanese was rather bewildered, but he followed his guide to another train, which was rather dirty and overcrowded. When they were settled the visitor asked "Why did we change? I thought the other train went to Chicago" "It does", replied the American, "but this one gets in ten minutes sooner" Said the Japanese: "And what will we do with the ten minutes ?"

This story comes to my mind when I am travelling on the highway at about the legal limit and someone overs past me, and then I catch up to him at the next stop-light. He lost the time he gained for he would have got there just as soon if he had kept within the limit.

The automobile is a very important, useful and valuable part of our life today, and I would not like to go back to the days when, if you took a load of grain into Hamilton from here, you had to stay overnight and return the next morning. But let us use this new power that science has given us with moderation. The automobile is meant to be a means of getting safely and comfortably from one place to another, not as a death dealing weapon endangering the lives of the driver, his passengers and the innocent passerby. After all, what do you do with the extra ten minutes you win by speeding ?

This modern mania for speed is most obviously, and fatally, manifested in the way we use our automobiles, but it has crept into other areas of life. As I was educated outside this province, I never really understood properly the Ontario School system, and now, with all the changes that are taking place, I understand it even less. However, I have got the impression (perhaps wrongly) that one of the aims is to shorten the educational period of life as much as possible. This seems to be the opposite of what we should be doing. The modern pupil has so much to learn compared with what we had to know...all the results of scientific and mechanical advance and so on...that it would seem that the educational period should be lengthened not shortened. Something has to go and I suspect that it is literature and history that are sacrificed to this modern mania for speed If so, this is a fatal mistake Science has placed tremendous power in our hands, but we have to learn how to use that power wisely To learn this we must turn to the wisdom of the ages. If I were younger and a good writer I think I could make out a good case for turning Aristotle and Sir Francis Bacon to show us how to use our new powers wisely.

Another example of speeding in our day is the High School drop-out. He or she thinks they can do so much better if they quit school and start earning money, but how often do they think of the future when their opportunities for advancement will be seriously curtailed because of lack of education? They are like a young fellow who is in such a hurry to get to a dance that, speeding, he gets into an accident and has to have a leg amputated In his rush to get to one dance he has seriously curtailed his dancing days for the rest of his life Of course, I am not referring to those who "drop out" in order to take special training in a particular line.

We who live in the country have no appreciation of the rush and speed in modern city life, and those who are caught up in it cannot get out of it. Let us be thankful that our lives are more leisurely and that we have time to relax Eventually, if civilisation is to be saved, the spread of automation, and of increased leisure will enable the city dwellers to do this, but it is in the country that the eternal abiding truths of life are to be found

NEW QUEEN CROWNED AT H.H.S. "AT HOME"

At a very pleasant and attractive Valentine Formal last Friday night in the student choice, Nancy Chandler, was crowned Queen of the Ball. Her attendants, second and third in the contest, were Miss Bonnie Mehlenbacher and Miss Joan Lindsay. The new queen was crowned by last year's queen, Miss Janice Lee; and Cathy Munro, President of the Students' Council, was the very capable mistress of ceremonies.

The gymnasium was transformed with a low ceiling of silver streamers, soft lights and pulsating fountain. The theme was "Moonlight and Roses", and the four large murals covering one wall, the rose-covered trellises, and the twenty dozen fresh roses decorated the gym lent an air of romance.

Refreshments were served in the attractive lounge area arranged in the upper hall, where Lucille Gowan, Linda Cassidy, Linda Gowan, Sharon North, Judy Wilson, Judy Woods, Gwen Hoover, Darlene Marshall, Caroline Donato and Linda Dale acted as hostesses

Principal A. C. Smith and his wife, Mr and Mrs. M. J. Elliott, representing the Board, Mr. and Mrs Basindale and ION—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Rae Ion, who passed away on February 16, 1958.

And finds the time long since you went away.
And I think of you dearly and miss you
But try to be brave and content.
But the tears I shed in silence,
And breathe a sigh of regret
For you were mine and I remember
Though all the world forgets.
Always remembered by husband and family.

BIRTH

HERKIMER—To Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Herkimer, R. R. 1, Hagersville, on Wednesday, February 16, 1966, a daughter, Tracy Ann, a sister for Kenny, Gary, Terry and Jeffrey, at West Haldimand General Hospital, Hagersville

FIT FOR SERVICE

Boy Scout Week, February 20 to 27, will not only mark the 58th Anniversary of the Scout movement, but will usher in a new era for Scouting in Canada.

The more than 320,000 Canadian Wolf Cubs, Boy Scouts, Venturers, Rovers and Scout leaders from coast to coast will see changes in many things form organization to activities during the next few years.

By the time the Centennial is over, Scouting in Canada will be well on its way toward a new look combining the best of past traditions with all the freshness of the future.

Even the Scout's image is due for a face-lift Small boys in short pants selling apples and helping little old ladies across the street will be a faded memory in 1966 and beyond In their places will be a "Fit for Service" in a space-age society...boys more keenly aware of the problems facing the communities in which they live.

All of this will come about through new programs now being studied by the Boy Scouts of Canada and involving nearly every phase of Scouting from national management methods to patrol procedures.

The Wolf Cubs, who are celebrating their 50th Anniversary this year, have already revised two vital areas of their activities, including the introduction of new proficiency badge, scheme in 1965 and a five star scheme last month.

The five star scheme, which replaces the previous two star system, was designed to provide more interest for the older cub, yet attract new recruits at all levels in the eight-ten year Cub age range, by introducing more challenge to the Wolf Cub program. By assigning each star an equal rank it will also eliminate the need for a boy to progress, step by step, through the Cub program and should therefore attract more recruits at all ages.

Perhaps the most exciting changes in Scouting will come about in the Boy Scout section. A new program currently being tested in the Peterborough area will eventually affect Scout ages, badges, patrol sizes, activities, ad leadership and training techniques.

If this pilot project proves successful, the new Scout program should be fully approved for general adoption throughout the country by fall, 1967. It will mean the end of strict adherence to a pre-set program beginning of more "boy-centered" activities. Boys will have more opportunity to pursue interests of their own, within the overall Scout program, have closer linking with the community, and be encouraged to make greater use of outside resources, groups and individuals. For example, Scouts will take St John Ambulance first aid courses, Red Cross Swimming courses, and Royal Lifesaving Society lifesaving courses.

One of the major changes will be in Scout age. Boys from fourteen to seventeen will go into Venturer sections, leaving the updated Scout program for boys eleven to thirteen.

In fact, although there isn't an official Venturer program as such, the Venturer section has already been established and is proving extremely popular. It already boasts a membership between 5,000 and 10, 000 boys across the country — a growth unprecedented in the history of Scouting in Canada.

In the two years since the Venturer idea was first put forward, Venturer groups have been formed to encompass such modern activities as go-karting, scuba and skin-diving, ham radio operating, crimnology, aircraft gliding and outdoor sports In many cases the framework for the groups have been set up by the boys themselves

Organized as they are without adult interference or the restrictions of an established

CAYUGA WINS OVER BANTAMS IN DULL CONTEST

Cayuga Bantams continued their winning ways over the Jarvis IOOF Bantams in a not-spectacular game on Wed. Feb. 9th Both teams could not seem to get untracked as play was scrambly and disorganized and not a typical Cayuga-Jarvis game where both teams in the past played good heads-up hockey over the sixty minutes.

Zintel, Cayuga's second line centre broke loose in the opening minutes of the game and split the Jarvis defence, pulled Reynolds out of position, and scored for a Cayuga lead. Reynolds had not a chance on the goal as he came out of the net in an attempt to cut off the angle but was outwitted.

Jarvis had few scoring opportunities and failed to capitalize when the opportunity was there, generally by inaccurate shooting.

Bob Smith scored the other two Cayuga goals, one during a scramble and the other on a rebound after Reynolds had made a great save on Zintel, to give Cayuga a 3-0 win over the IOOF

Cayuga had one goal disallowed as the officials came to the conclusion that the puck had not entered the net because it would have had to go through the mesh of the net This is not impossible, but referee's decisions once made are not broken

Jarvis was charged with four penalties to Cayuga's three, all minors, although no goals were scored with either team short handed.

Rick Reynolds held the Jarvis team in the game as he played solid goal in literally robbing the opposition's top guns.

As an aftermath, while in the dressing room, the manager found fifteen pairs of skates as dull as last year's hoe, including a pair belonging to the coach. This was due to the fact that one IOOF forward had left his skates behind, and was forced to wear his coach's skates. Some excuse.

JARVIS MIDGETS IN TOUGH PLAY OFF BATTLE — —

- By J. Beischlag, Manager -

Gord Miller's Midgets again had a hard fought game with Oneida The Jarvis crew had to fight back from a 4-1 deficit in the last period to eventually tie it up at 4-4.

Ken Harrop opened the scoring early in the first period on a pass from Ray Harrop and Pete Moser. Next Ray Harrop connected unassisted. Jimmy McCarthy put Jarvis back in the game with a goal assisted by Pat Zdunich who poured it out from behind the net.

Ken Harrops were not through yet however, when Ken again scored from Ray and Glen The smoothy twins again registered in the last period to tie a 4-1 lead.

With less than 10 minutes remaining the Jarvis boys at last took command. Barry Miller took a pass from Rick Miller and put it where it belonged.

Barry Miller stole the puck and again scored. Rick Miller, who is still a Bantam, played a great game for us and got the tying goal on a pass from Paul Beischlag.

The series is now tied and a winner must be produced this Saturday at 8 15 so please get out and give our boys a boost. They are playing an exciting brand of hockey.

LOSE TO CAYUGA

On the regular Saturday night schedule the midgets dropped a close one to Cayuga

Cayuga was leading 2-0 when Paul Beischlag fired a pass from Pat Zdunich, which caught the left corner.

The game featured great checking by Jim McCarthy and solid defensive work by our defence corps of Brian Hayes, Brian Cowan and Dave Doughty. We missed Fred Montague's solid body checking as he was unable to be there.

Cayuga again connected for a goal and although Jarvis kept up great pressure all they could do was notch one more goal by Paul Beischlag on good passing from Barry Miller and Jim Gaspar, our other Bantam recruit, who is also a great help to the team.

I must also mention Dave Kauk our goal tender who is nothing short of sensational on many tough shots.

Below is a list of our scorers in the regular schedule only:

JARVIS LIONS INCREASE COMMITMENT TO CAMP

The Jarvis Lions Club decided on Monday night to double the $600 commitment to the St. Joseph Camp for the Blind in the Muskoka district. Additional funds are needed to meet the expanding needs of the Camp. The present contribution of the Club has been raised by the sale of candy at the annual Minstrel Show. This means of raising money will be employed by the Club this year when the Minstrel Show is held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, March 2, 3 and 4th.

The members were instructed to have their wives make up five pounds of sugar into candy for this purpose. Lion Rob Lysch will have charge of the Candy Sale.

Lion Vice President Drew Williamson had charge of the meeting on Monday night in the absence of Lion President Newt Marshall. Following adjournment of the meeting the majority of members remained to practice for the forthcoming Minstrel Show
