

THE "TIMES" COMMISSION.

Close of Parnell's Examination - Archbishop Walsh on the Stand.

A last (Wednesday) night's London cable says: Mr. Parnell's examination was finished before the Commission to-day. He testified that the Reception Committee in America comprised the leading merchants of New York, representative citizens and ministers of religion. In his speeches in New York, witness declared that not a farthing contributed to the Irish cause would go towards organizing rebellion in Ireland. Throughout his tour of the United States he had never even averted a hand's breadth from that declaration. Attorney-General Webster, the witness said, had quoted from five out of sixty speeches he had made in the United States, ignoring the general tenor of his speeches, so as to misrepresent his words. All the names the Attorney-General had mentioned of persons associated with those who attended. Men of prominent positions and undoubted respectability attended these meetings. In no sense could the American reception be identified with the proceedings of the Physical Force Party. Witness firmly believed that none of his colleagues, since joining the Irish Parliamentary party, had had anything to do with the Fenians. Only occasionally did the Fenians come within the orbit of the constitutional movement. Here Mr. Parnell scored by remarking that the Tories were more certainly associated with the movement; for instance, when they co-operated with the Parnellites to obstruct the Criminal Code Bill to the death.

Referring to some letters of his, Mr. Parnell said he had copies made from his secretary's shorthand notes. Attorney-General Webster—it seems that there exists a book of Mr. Parnell's letters. I would like to see that book. Sir Charles Russell—By all means. Presiding Justice Hannen—if these letters refer to the League they ought to have been disclosed. Mr. Parnell—Your Lordships are welcome to see any letter I ever wrote or received.

Attorney-General Webster, recurring to Mr. Parnell's private bank account, wanted to trace a number of cheques. A warm discussion ensued. Sir Charles Russell declaring that such action would be unfair.

Justice Hannen suggested a postponement of the matter until fuller documents were before the court.

Archbishop Walsh testified that he came to the conclusion before 1879 that there was need of a defensive land organization, and was proceeding to give his opinion on the subject.

Justice Hannen said the inquiry must be limited to whether or not the Land League was necessary.

Attorney-General Webster submitted that matters of opinion were not admissible.

Mr. Biggar urged that opinion evidence had been given over and over again by "hiredlings" of the Government.

Justice Hannen warned Mr. Biggar not to use such expressions.

Mr. Biggar said that unless such evidence was admitted the whole inquiry would end in a farce.

The judges retired to consider the matter privately. On their return Justice Hannen announced they had decided that it was not permissible to ask any witness, however distinguished, abstract questions of opinion. The facts known to the witness ought to be laid before the court before opinions based thereon were mentioned.

The Archbishop, continuing, said that in the course of his visits through his diocese he had abundant means of knowing that the League denounced outrages. Many priests had joined the League with his approval. He saw nothing in the action of the League to forbid the clergy joining.

A TRIO OF SUICIDES.

Three Unfortunates Shun off this Mortal Coil.

Joseph Armand Stremi committed suicide yesterday morning at St. Philippe, Lorraine County, Que., by hanging himself in a shed. Deceased was a middle-aged man, lately married.

It is stated, on what appears to be good authority, that D. B. Douglas, late Assistant Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor.

A deliberate case of suicide occurred in Montreal on Thursday evening. A butcher called George Lusier, residing on St. Catharine street, was threatened with prosecution for keeping a stall without a license. Being involved in financial difficulties at the same time, the trouble so preyed upon his mind that yesterday he attempted to throw himself under a Canadian Pacific Railway train, but was prevented from doing so by the vigilance of the officials. He then proceeded to Montreal street and deliberately threw himself into the St. Lawrence. He rose to the surface and was heard to cry for assistance, but the current being very strong the unfortunate man was gradually borne away, and was soon seen to sink to rise no more.

Among the wild riders who crossed the Canadian was Mrs. Dorrance, a charming matron of Purcell, who swam a fast horse through the roaring river and secured a fine farm on the other shore.—St. Louis Republic's Guthrie Special.

Heretofore the boats to be carried by Atlantic seamen, instead of being made of wood, will be made of steel, in one piece. Wooden boats rot and are easily crushed. The new boats will be built by machinery, especially made for rolling them out in all sizes in a single plate.

Perhaps the secret secrets of life are the weightiest, and chiefly on this account—that they are incommunicable.

J. W. Coffey, a Philadelphia skeleton, weighing only 90 pounds, recently advertised for a wife. So far he has received over two hundred answers, and they are still pouring in. What Mr. Coffey lacks physically he makes up for financially. Hence the rush for the prize.

Who said the Chinaman would not assimilate with us? At Denver the other day he ran away with another Celestial's wife and $400.—Waterbury American.

"I MUST HAVE HELP"

Deluded Mrs. Fox Dies in Agony Under the Care of a Faith Healer.

A Syracuse despatch says: The funeral of Mrs. Royal E. Fox took place at her home, No. 30 Erie street, this afternoon. To-morrow the remains will be buried in Oswego. Mrs. Fox died the day before yesterday. The responsibility for the fatal termination of her illness is laid by public opinion at the door of what is called Christian science. Mrs. Fox had been subject to bilious attacks for several years. When the first one came on Dr. Jay W. Sheldon was called. When the patient had begun to recover she was left to the charge of Dr. E. H. Flint. Mrs. Fox was to some extent a believer in Christian science at that time, and her husband was, as he is yet, "very firm in the faith," to quote an expression used to-day by one of the friends of the family. During a recurrence of her illness some weeks ago Mrs. Fox relied entirely upon Christian science. Mrs. E. P. Bates attending her, and she got better. She was told then that having once been cured by Christian science she would be free from the malady thereafter, and she entirely believed it.

FAITH CURE DID NOT HELP HER.

Last Saturday the disease came on again with unusual severity. Mrs. Bates was out of town, and another spouse of Christian science, Mrs. Norris, was called. Mrs. Fox's adherents urged that a physician be called, but their entreaties went for nothing. Mr. Fox had unbending confidence in Christian science of a curative power and felt sure his wife would again recover. The patient, it is said, suffered terribly, and frequently called out in her agony, "I must have help! I must have help!" She was told that all she needed was courage, and she would be sure to triumph over the malady. Mrs. Fox took scarcely any nourishment during the attack. Dr. Flint was summoned at the last moment.

A DOCTOR CALLED TO LATE.

"When I entered the house," he said to-day, "Mrs. Fox had just passed away. The body was still warm, but there were no signs of life. I was called to make out the death certificate, I suppose. I assigned as the cause of death inflammation of the liver."

Dr. Flint expressed the opinion that if Mrs. Fox had been allowed her own way she would have had the services of a physician. One of the neighbors said that the body immediately after death was "all twisted up," its position leading her to believe that Mrs. Fox was writhing in agony when she died.

HE KILLED HIMSELF.

A Young Man Put Up at a Hotel and Shoots Himself.

A Detroit despatch says: On Wednesday evening a nicely dressed man, apparently 20 years old, took room 73, third floor, Russell House, registering as D. E. Cady, of Auburn, N.Y. He had no baggage, and paid for one day in advance. Meals were served in his room. On Thursday morning he came downstairs and told the clerk he would stay another day, and paid for it. Friday morning one of the employees called Mr. McCleary's attention to the fact that no meals had been sent to the room since Thursday noon. The door of the room was locked, and no response was made from within to the rapping. A ladder was procured, and through the transom the lifeless form of the young man, fully dressed, was seen lying on the bed in a pool of blood. The door was forced open and it was found that Cady had been dead some time. His legs were crossed and his arms folded on his breast. His right hand clutched a self-acting revolver, with which he had shot himself in the head over the right ear. On the centre table was an envelope addressed to the proprietor of the Russell House, containing a note with these words: "Please notify Charles Cady, Auburn, N.Y., Cayuga county, if anything happens to me."

Lonsdale Spinning Yarns.

A Winnipeg despatch says: Lord Lonsdale says it was with the greatest surprise that the Indians could be persuaded to go north, as they were terribly afraid of the Eskimoes, who up there are called "Huskys" and instead of being short of stature stand six feet in height. When Lord Lonsdale arrived among them they made a half-circle as he advanced, each of the natives holding in his hand a knife about six inches long. Against the advice of his interpreter he went into their chaman snow house, where meetings were held. The natives informed the interpreter that they had heard that all white men were brave, and they were going to try them. The braves then formed in line before Lord Lonsdale as he sat on a box, and each drawing his knife rushed upon him ready to strike. They stopped at his feet, and the leader, advancing, put his ear over the explorer's heart and listened to its beating. Lord Lonsdale took no notice, but asked to see them dance. During the progress of the dance the braves would stop and rush at the white man with their knives upraised. Fortunately his nerve did not fail him, and he was afterwards received with every mark of consideration.

T. GRANGER STEWART, M. D., F. R. S. E., ordinary physician to H. M. the Queen in Scotland, Professor of Practice of Physic in the University of Edinburgh, writes of Bright's disease as follows: "Catarrh of the intestines also occasionally occurs, sometimes producing an exhausting diarrhoea." Warner's Safe Cure cures the diarrhoea by first removing the cause.

Dr. Cassan, physician to the Hospital of the Inane of the Bon Sauveur, Aib. France, was murdered on Wednesday night. Upon entering his room next morning his attendants found him lying on his bed in his night shirt. His body was literally covered with knife wounds, and his head nearly separated from the trunk. Dr. Cassan was a quiet man, much respected by all who knew him. He was Maire of Aib under the Empire and during the regime of "Seine et Mar."

American visitors fairly rained upon London on Wednesday. The City of New York, the City of Rome and the Peace arrived, lashing altogether nearly a thousand Americans. By every possible train these, or a majority of them at least, went to London. Where they all found a roof to cover them is a mystery. The notes were already full of the sky patriots, and turning away each from a dozen to a hundred a day, but presumably all found a place in which to run up a bill for the necessities and luxuries of life.

White Caps have notified Rev. George Jacob Scowenforth to leave Rockford, Ill., in ten days. If he does not to they say they will break into his house, take him to the woods, strip him, tar and feather him and cast him alive. They claim he is breaking up families. If any one interferes they will be similarly treated. Scowenforth has employed a night watchman, with guns and dogs, and proposes to be ready for them. Rev. OUR CITIZEN SOLDIERS.

Arrangements for the Holding of the Annual Camps.

A special telegram from Ottawa says: The dates for the several camps of exercise have been decided as follows:

- District No. 1—18th June.
- ... 2—11th June.
- ... 3—18th June.
- ... 4—25th June.
- ... 5—3rd July.
- ... 6—25th June.
- ... 7—2nd July.
- ... 8—25th June.
- ... 9—2nd September.

The locations of the camps have not been decided upon, except with regard to District No. 2, which, as usual, will be held at Niagara. For District No. 1 the choice lies between Windsor and London, and for the united camps of districts 3 and 4 it is expected that Kingston will be selected. The matter will not, however, be settled before next week. The maximum number of officers, non-commissioned officers and men to receive pay for drill in each district will be:

- District No. 1—Western Ontario..... 2,430
- ... No. 2—Toronto district..... 3,442
- ... No. 3—Eastern Ontario..... 1,898
- ... No. 4—Eastern Ontario..... 1,335
- ... No. 5—Quebec..... 2,712
- ... No. 6—Quebec..... 1,287

- ... No. 12—Prince Edward Island..... 230

Total..... 19,225

"A" Company, Infantry School Corps, will join the camp in New Brunswick; "B" Company, the camp in District No. 5; and "C" Company, the camp at Niagara, and a two-gun detachment from "A" Battery will join the camp in districts 3 and 4. As these are paid as permanent corps, they will be in addition to the strength authorized for districts 2, 3, 4, 5 and 8, but will not be included for drill pay. The New-castle Field Battery will drill in camp near its local headquarters.

THE MISSING DOCTOR.

He Turns Out to be a St. Catharines Man.

A St. Louis despatch to the New York World gives the following information as to the career in that city of Dr. Cronin, who disappeared so mysteriously in Chicago on Saturday night last: Dr. Patrick Henry Cronin came to St. Louis in 1869 from St. Catharines, Canada, when 27 years old. He was a tailor, but never worked at his trade here. He secured employment as a porter in a wholesale grocery, but having a good tenor voice got a position in the Second Baptist Church choir, and this enabled him to obtain the position of ambitious ticket collector for the Transfer Company. He held this position two years, and was then for four years local ticket agent for the St. Louis and Southeastern Railroad, now the Louisville Air Line. Next he opened a drug store in the fashionable west end, attended a pharmacy school and the Missouri Medical College, and afterwards practised medicine, making a specialty of throat and lung diseases. In 1880 he went to Europe as an honorary commissioner to the Paris Exposition, and soon afterwards removed to Chicago. For a time he was professor of eye and ear diseases at the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons. He was a fine-looking man and a hard worker.

Dr. Cronin is a brother-in-law of Mr. John Carroll and an uncle of Mr. Andrew J. Carroll, of St. Catharines. His family resided on Welland avenue, next door to the fire station. At one time he worked for his father in the shoe store, in the premises now occupied by the "Beehive," and was quite a popular vocalist at that time.

TEN MEN KILLED.

Terrific Accident in a Pennsylvania Coal Mine.

A Pottsville, Pa., despatch says: At Kaska-William Colliery, near Middleport, this evening the cage, containing ten miners was ascending the shaft and was 15 feet from the bottom when an empty car was pushed over the top of the shaft by two stationary rollers. The cage struck the empty car with a momentum that sent it to the bottom and killed every one of the occupants. The victims are Michael J. Gorman, assistant foreman, John Gorman, Patrick M. Gorman, G. W. Gorman, John Pottovision, Frank Strawson, John Moore, Albert Dwyer, Edward Kuritz and Stephen Watson. The cage was buried into a hole at the bottom where the water had been working accumulated. The shaft is operated by the Alliance Coal Company. The shaft is 500 feet deep.

Her Husband's Image.

A singular case of mistaken identity occurred to-day, when Mrs. James Duke of Beloit, Wis., arrived here in company with six interesting children, and claimed as her lost husband a cigarmaker named David Robinson, who is the foreman in the factory of Messrs. Robinson and Watson. The lady, who is well dressed and quite prepossessing, confronted her alleged husband this evening, and even after conversing with him was not satisfied that he was not her lost husband until she examined his wrist for a scar. Failing to find this she broke down and admitted that she was mistaken in the man. How much Robinson must have resembled Duke is attested by the fact that the children clung around him affectionately calling him papa. Mrs. Duke's husband, who was a cigarmaker, disappeared mysteriously about a year ago, and she was led to believe he was located here through information received from a travelling tobacco salesman.—Tuscola Ill., corr. Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The New Niagara Bridge.

Counsel for various American railroads have asked for a hearing on the Bill incorporating the Niagara River Bridge Company, now pending in the New York Legislature, and it has been appointed for next Tuesday. The object of the company is to build a bridge across Niagara River at some point between Niagara Falls and Lewiston, and it is believed in the interest of the Canadian Pacific. The project is to be opposed.

The late Dr. Dio Lewis, whose name is a household word all over the globe, warmly endorsed the use of Warner's Safe Cure in cases of kidney disorder. He said over his own signature: "If I found myself a victim of serious kidney trouble, I would use Warner's Safe Cure."
