WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.
Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and gave me near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence.—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggist.
"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Sarsaparilla and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Atcwell, Shearbot Lake, Ontario.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 16, 1890.

Must Have Canada Barley.

Philadelphia, July 7.—Philadelphia brewers, together with other brewers of the United States, are just now considerably agitated over the proposition in the McKinley tariff bill now pending in the United States senate to raise the import duty on barley from 10 to 30 cents a bushel.
The number of bushels of barley imported yearly by the extensive system of breweries in Philadelphia is close to a million. All of this comes from Canada, which raises a grade of barley, it is said, superior to any produced in this country, and a grade the place of which no American raised barley can take.
The consequence, therefore, of such an increase as that proposed would be, so the brewers of Philadelphia unanimously say, merely to make them purchase the Canada barley, which they must have, at an exorbitant rate and stand the loss. Another direct effect will be to make the brewers, who may prove unwilling to suffer the loss, flood the market with an inferior quality of beer. The Times company of to-day print several interviews with prominent brewers who kick against the proposed duty.
BEER NOT MADE FOR FUN.
A. W. Woebken, secretary of the Bergner & Engel brewing company, has some decided opinions on the matter and spoke them yesterday very freely. The Bergner & Engel company have about the largest brewing establishment in the city. They have a plant worth about $1,000,000 and import every year about 300,000 bushels of Canada barley. Mr. Woebken said that in saying what he did he voiced the opinions of the other members of the firm and of many city brewers.
"The effect of an increased duty on barley," said Mr. Woebken, "will be just this: If we are to brew the same quality of beer as we are now doing we shall be forced to pay the advanced price of imported barley and stand the loss. We do not buy Canada barley for fun. We have no particular interest in sending our money to Canada, but the point lies just here, we can never get along without it. Canada barley yields much more malt than western barley, and what is more important, in order to make our finer beers and fine grades of Tammbaueser we absolutely must have it, just as in order to give the fine delicate flavor to these beers we must have German hops."
MUST HAVE CANADA BARLEY
"There is one thing which shows pretty conclusively how absolutely necessary Canada barley is. Even the western brewers, especially the better brewers of St. Louis, Milwaukee and Chicago, use Canada barley. Wisconsin is a great barley-growing state, and the brewers there, who could buy their grain right at home and save transportation, certainly would not use Canada barley if it were not necessary.
"It will be the better brewers, those who have a reputation to maintain and something," Mr. Woebken continued, "who will suffer. Of course we all use great quantities of western barley, but it is inferior stuff and we have to use it in connection with the better quality, which is imported. There is a certain amount of the Canada barley which we will use anyhow. Unless we should stand the loss we should have to drop the better grades of beer. We would make the best we could out of American barley and say, 'Here you've got to take this.'"
A BAD PROTECTIVE MEASURE.
In conclusion, Mr. Woebken said: "If the duty on barley is to be increased as a means to raise revenue I think it will be very successful, but as a proective measure I don't think it will work very well. There is one sure thing about it, anyhow, and that is that it will benefit nobody but the United States treasury. It would not benefit so very much our western producers, for there is a certain amount of Canada barley which we must have.

"The duty should not be more than what it is now, 10 cents a bushel, or at the most 15 cents a bushel."
Albert Baltz, of the J. & P. Baltz brewing company, was seen next. He said: "If the duty is raised on barley of course we will lose by it. We use about 100,000 bushels of Canadian barley every year. The competition at present is so great that it would be hard to raise the price of beer, and consequently there would be a great loss to us.
"Canadian barley," Mr. Baltz said further, "is decidedly of better grade than western barley, and we could not make the same quality of beer without it."
Mr. Baltz said he did not think the increased duty would lead the brewers to buy a bushel more of American barley. The only ones who would get any benefit would be the government.
GOOD BARLEY OR BAD BEER.
Max Elbe, of the brewing firm of Elbe & Herter, at Thirty-third and Thompson streets, said: "If the advance is made we have to do either of two things—pay more money for our barley or raise more western barley. Last year we used 60,000 bushels of Canadian barley, but if this advance is made I don't think that we shall use as much as we used to. It is just the same in the case of the proposed advance in German hops. If the duty is put on we won't use the German hops, but the beer won't be as good. Still I ought to say that no matter what it costs we must have some Canadian barley and some German hops."
Charles Schoening, a member of the Bergdoll brewing company, stated that if the duty was increased, all they could do would be to pay the increase. They could not do without Canada barley altogether.
A number of other brewers, when questioned as to the probable effect of the passage of this clause of the McKinley bill, stated their opinions substantiated the same as those given above. All gave emphatic endorsement of the view that the only result of the proposed change will be to entail loss on the brewers, or cause an inferior article to be furnished the consumer.
Should not have Blushed.

A YOUNG FATHER AND MOTHER WONDERED WHAT PEOPLE WERE LAUGHING AT. That was a laughable joke on the young couple who were out walking a Sunday or two ago at Elko, wheeling their first-born in a new baby carriage. They noticed people smile as they passed by and wondered what was the matter. The wife finally said: "You walk ahead a little ways and see if anything is wrong with my dress," and she walked on, wheeling the buggy before her. The husband quickened his pace, glanced back and turned pale. He waited for his wife to catch up to him, then said, "I'll wheel the buggy while you see if there is anything wrong with me." When the wife walked ahead and looked back she almost fainted when she caught sight of the trademark on the front of the baby buggy. It read, "Our Own Make." They had forgotten to tear it off when the buggy was unpacked.
