HAS been saved by the prempt use of Ayer's Pills. Travelers by land or sea are liable to constipation or other derangements of the stomach and bowels which, if neglected, lead to serious and often fatal consequences. The most sure means of correcting these evils is the use. of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. The prudent sailing-master would as soon go to sea without his chronometer as without a supply of these Pills. Though prompt and energetic in operation, Ayer's Pills leave no ill effects; they are purely vegetable and sugar-coated; the safest medicine for old and young, at home or abroad.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in

Mr. E. E. Sheppard's Address.

Below we publish the address delivered at the adjourned Liberal-Conserva tive convention held at Cayuga on Monday of last week, by Mr. E. E. Sheppard, editor of Toronto Saturday Night, who has been nominated as the Liberal-Conservative candidate for the coming election contest in Haldimand. Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Liberal-

Conservative Convention of Haldimand : I desire to thank you for having nominated me as your candidate in the coming contest. I appreciate the honor, and in accepting am fully aware of the great responsibility I am undertaking. I do not conceal from myself, nor do I company I keep. But this is not the desire to hide from the public, that my main reason why I desire to be so exnomination was the result of Mr. W. R. | plicit. I intend to ask, in the coming Meredith's suggestion and your gener | contest, for the support of all the elecous confidence. That he asked you tors of Haldimand, irrespective of party, to nominate me, that you did so, who are in sympathy with the principles that he asked me to accept, make which are the reason for my beingit impossible for me to refuse even if it and for your being-in this fight. I do were my desire to evade the duty which | not propose, no matter how remote may devolves upon me and every citizen at be the possibility, that it shall ever be this crisis. Such is not my impulse; I said that I gained only to betray the desire to do everything in my power to | confidence of my fellow-man. It would have been emblizoned upon your banner in this fight. I desire, however, at | party as if I were to betray you. the very outset to make clear to you my | Neither shall be done, and to avoid any position, a position which is somewhat | false posture I have fully stated my unique, a position which you should position, and on this line I shall ask you understand before finally accepting me as vour candidate.

I have never heen enamored of party names. I have prided myself upon the name and mental attitude of an Independent. For nearly eight years I have been in the control and editorial manage ment of independent newspapers, in which, I have spared neither party when occasion seemed to demand criticism. During this period and prior to it I had the warmest friendship for Mr. W. R. Meredith, and his policy was much more attractive to me than that of any other politician, but never until now has his platform embodied such a large percentage of my cherished opinions that I could conscientiously embr. ce it and follow him as my leader. Time and the tide of public events have brought to maturity and ripened into party policy many views which he has long held, but which could not at once be accepted by a party made up of so many individuals, and -may I say it?-influenced by the sometimes diverging impulses of Dominion and provincial politics. I am overjoyed th t the day has come when not only myself but thousands of independent critics of of public affairs can march in line with the Liber. I-Conservative party of Ontario, confident of victory as we are unalterably confident of the truth. justice and impregnability of our position. Our leader may in some minor matters go further than I'do, in some things I go further than he does, in ever thing we may neither of us agree with all of you, but on the main questions of this e mp ign I am with him. and I am sure you are with him heart and soul. That he has had sufficient contidence in me and my loyalty to ask you to do me the great honor you have done me in no light guarantee of my good faith, a guarantee which you have accepted, a guarantee the meaning and responsibility of which I do not mis-p prehend. The guarantee which I give him and you in return is the pledge that I shall follow him in all good things. assist him in his efforts to crystalize into law the principles which we all affirm and to support him in the proper and patriotic government of the proco winced he will be, to enter into the penditure for their maintainance. ac ministration of our affairs. I fold which I may not be relieved should principle ever be sacrificed for party, I am sure that respect for myself, my gratitude and regard for you and my admiration and affection for our leader shall prevent me from separating myself from the councils of the party for any personal, trifling or ephemernal reason.

If, however any vital question should arise upon which my esteemed leader and myself shall conscientiously differ, ality of our leader's mind, as a recognition of and thereby imperil the existence of his his generous views, that while he does not Government, I shall at once ask this matter before you, and if instructed by you to vote against my conscience, I shall resign my seat or record your

I am scrupulous about these matters, gentlemen of the convention, not because I am over anxious for my own political safety. Names mean nothing to me. A box labelled "poison" may contain honey, though I admit it is a queer place to put sweet stuff; a bottle may have "honey" printed upon it and contain poison—not an unusual way, you will observe, of inducing people to take something they do not want. Paris green and rough-on-rats are always given the victim in his tea or food as Reaction is sometimes fed us out of a Reform spoon. Names, my friends, I repeat mean nothing unless principles are behind them, and I do not propose to inextricably yoke myself to a name, though I am without hesitation in adopting a principle. "Reform," as the title of a party, once meant to me all that name implies; now it means the blind and patient party led by schemers who have unevenly voked themselves with the Roman Catholic hierarchy. I see the rank and file pulling the long end of the double-tree with jobbers and office seekers getting rich and grunting as if they were hauling the load. I sympathize with the partisian, who refuses to find comfort instead of carrying the heavy end of the log, while smooth-voiced leaders find sufficient occupation in carrying the "swag." If the decadence of principle left the Liberal-Conservative party in such a pitiable plight as I now see the Reform party in. I should not want to wear the name or apologize for the advance the eternal principles which be as shameless an abasment if I were to betray the elector independent of

to join with me in appealing to the electors on these principal grounds.

I. One language, one flag, one patriotism. II. The complete abolition of all exemtions from taxation; every citizen, every alien, every race, every denomination, every building, every plot of ground, every piece of property to be equitably taxed without regard to the creed of the owner or the purpose to which property is devoted, excepting only the burial places of the dead, who cannot pay taxes and whose last resting place should not be desecrated or despoiled because of the indifference or carelessness of the living. Christ paid his taxes, and there is no institution or person who should try to escape if the Savior himself set the example of rendering unto Casar the things which are Cæsar's. III, The complete separation of church and state in (a) taxition, (b) education, and (c) legislation. This includes, (a) exemptions from taxation as set forth above, (b) declares an unalterable opposition to separate schools, firstly, in their existence; secondly, in the favoritism shown them by the Government whereby the weight and influence of the Government, instead of being a standing protest against the principle of sectarian education, is a continued and increasing encouragment of it; (c) protests against grants to sectarian institutions whereby the sick and unfortunate are taught to believe that a denomination—an unrecognized portion of the community-instead of the state or whole community is charged with the maintainance or relief of the distressed. I refer to the grants of money to sectarian hospitals and homes, which should be given o undenominational, municipal or provincial institutions only.

IV. Elective county officials-That the patronage corruptly used by the Government in the appointment of men to serve the people shall be taken away from it. That the people shall elect their sheriff, registrar, court clerks, license commissioners, and all other than judicial officials, such as are now appointed by a central power, thus fully lemonstrating that the people are intelligent enough to select good men and love righteousness sufficiently well to desire and obtain the services of men who can serve them properly. By this procedure, bribery by means of place and preferment, will be largely done away with, thus saving the community from having political hacks forced upon them, and at once depriving the Government of means of corrupting the leaders of the people under the guise of administering the offices.

VIII. A secret ballot for all; equal rights for all, in the fullest sense of the manifesto issued by the Equal Rights Association.

Some of these planks may be new to you concerning some of them you may not have made up your mind; on all of them our leader and I are not entirely agreed, on none of them do we widely differ; upon all of them I was in harmony with a certain number of both Conservatives and Reformers in the last Legislature. For years I have been making a fight upon these lines, and I have to say as a tribute to the breadth and liber-Government, I shall at once ask this endorse my position in its entirety, I am not convention to re-assemble, place the going behind his back in announcing myself in favor of these radical measures. That I shall do all within my power, if elected, to influence the legislation of this province in the direction outlined I need not reiterate. you to elect a new representative, and in success as well as in defeat, I shall fight with all my might for the establishment of these principles, insisting without compromise on those principles which our leader has endorsed in this campaign and continu ally urging upon him, the Liberal-Conservative party and the country such other views as I have expressed and hold to be right, proper and expedient.

If after hearing my position and becoming personally acquainted with my imperfections as a speaker and the physical infirmites which have been crowding upon me and may render me unfit to fight as vigorously as I and you may desire, you are still of the opinion that you can work heartily and hopefully with me, I am at your service—at the service of the electors of Haldimand—as I hope I may ever hold myself to be at the service of my countrymen everywhere. EDMUND E. SHEPPARD.
