A party of French visitors returned to Montreal Friday from the North-west. They were greatly struck with the fertility of the country, which they consider a farmer's paradise.

A despatch from Oswego, N. Y., says that while the increased duty on barley to be levied under the McKinley tariff will injure the Canadian trade it will not benefit the American farmer; but the hope is expressed that the measure may lead to close commercial connections between the two countries, and result in a reciprocity treaty.

The Old Reliable.

In these days of humbug it is a relief to hear of something that can be depended upon. Wilson's Wild Cherry has been tested as a remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, for nearly twenty years, with such success as to earn for itself the title of The Old Reliable cure for Coughs, Cold, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and other affections of the respiratory system. See that you get the genuine, in white wrappers. Sold by all druggists.

A great tinplate manufactory is to be built in Baltimore, as a result of the tinplate tariff. The company expects to be able to compete with English importers.

When you need a good, safe laxative, ask your druggist for a box of Ayer's Pills, and you will find they give perfect satisfaction. For indigestion, torpid liver, and sick headache there is nothing superior. Leading physicians recommend them.

A very important meeting was held Friday in Montreal, when it was decided that immediate steps should be taken to facilitate the shipment of cattle to England.

The German Catholic papers publish a pastoral from the German bishops on the social question. It praises Emperor William's initiative and supports the contention that the Church is the best healer of social ills.

C. C. RICHARDS & Co.

GENTS.—I took a severe cold, which settled in my throat and lungs and caused me to entirely lose my voice. For six weeks I suffered great pain. My wife advised me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT and the effect was magical, for after only three doses and an outward application, my voice returned and I was able to speak in the Army that night, a privilege I had been unable to enjoy for six weeks.

Don't forget that 25 cts. cash will send you the Record for the balance of the year.

The rumor is gaining ground in Ottawa that Parliament will meet early in next January.

A Tardy Vengeance.

IT WOULD TAKE LONG TO MAKE UP FOR FLOODS.

During one of the great novelist's journeys through the North of England he was attacked by a slight indisposition while halting at a small village near the Scottish border and sent out his servant in quest of a doctor. The man soon returned and ushered in a stout elderly person, in whom Sir Walter recognized, to his no small surprise, a former servant of his own.

"Why, John," cried he, "is this really you?"

"Ay, it is me, Sir Walter," answered the visitor; "and I'm verra glad to see ye again. I ha'e gotten some o' these story-books o' yours vet, and they're jist grand! Whiles I cumma sleep, and then I jist tak' one o' yon books o' yours and read a wee bit, and woe! I'm fast asleep i' five minutes!"

"Well," said Scott, laughing good-humoredly at the rather doubtful compliment, "I'm verra glad that any book of mine can do so much good. But, tell me, John, how came my man to bring you here? I sent him out to fetch me a doctor."

"Weel," replied John, with great dignity, "I mysel' am jist the doctor here."

Sir Walter was thunderstruck, as well he might be, knowing as he did that John was as ignorant of medicine as of Chinese.

"I should hardly have thought of your turning doctor, John," said he at length.

"Pray, what drugs do you use?"

"I ha'e jist twa o' them, Sir Walter—calomy an' iodym."

"But, my good John," cried Scott shuddering involuntarily at the idea of such a pharmacopoeia in such hands, "with drugs like those do you never happen to—ahem!—to kill anyone?"

"Kill!" echoed John, with a vindictive energy to which no words can do justice. "Kill the Englishers? It will be lang ere I can mak' up for Flodden!"
