The Red Necktie Craze.

IT THREATENS TO EXTEND THROUGHOUT THE ENTIRE COUNTRY.

On the white shirt-front of nearly every man in San Francisco, young or old, who thinks he is in the fashion, or wants to be, blazes a red necktie. And they are the reddest kind of red, too. A subdued maroon or a dark-colored scarf is not popular at all. It must be sanguine, brilliant, glaring brick-dust scarlet.

It's astonishing how red neckties and red handkerchiefs have caught the town. They arrived here about a week ago. Now everybody has one, and there is a rivalry among the beaux to see who can get one of the brightest hue to tie around his throat. Up to date Jesse Marks holds the palm, but there are several frequenters of cigar stores who are giving him a hard struggle for the supremacy.

The first thing a man does now when he gets in town from Milpitas or Los Banos is to buy a red necktie. After that he is satisfied for awhile. Then, while his favorite barkeeper mixes a seductive and insinuating cocktail, he admires his new purchase in the glass and asks the bartender what he thinks of it. Red neckties are irresistible. It doesn't make any difference whether a red necktie becomes a man struck by the craze. He thinks it does, and that's enough.

And then the gentlemanly clerk at the furnishing goods store tells him how well he looks in it, and his barber flatters him a little more, for it is every man's ambition to wear a red necktie, no matter how badly it becomes him. Some have strength of character enough to resist the temptation when they know that they must appear particularly hideous; but with his own inclination and the persuasion of the haberdasher against a man, what is he to do?—San Francisco Examiner

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy.

It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beloit, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skillful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

This Being the First Time We Have Addressed You Through the Medium of the "Jarvis Record"

We think it advisable to let you know as clearly as possible our system of doing business as we have our own peculiar way which we think is for the benefit of our customers. Our goods are all sold at one price to every person; we make no deviation from this rule. In years gone by we made an allowance of 10 per cent. discount to clergymen, store-keepers and dress makers, (an allowance which is made to-day by many merchants), this we found an unjust allowance to the rest of our customers as it meant that we were forced to mark our goods at higher prices in order that it might cover discounts given to these people, thus by this system of one price to all we are enabled to give you the keenest prices to be obtained. Then no goods are charged to any one whether the millionaire or pauper. We carry a stock of about $130,000 worth of DRY GOODS, MILLINERY, MANTLES, CARPETS, CLOTHING, BOOTS AND SHOES. Our stores are well lighted and every attention is given to visitors even if they have no wish to purchase. Our facilities for buying in the European markets are such that we can place before you the very latest fashions at the lowest possible figure. Any reader of this paper wishing a price list of goods handled by us can have it by dropping a postal card with name and address and the same will be forwarded free of charge.
