A CLOSE CALL.

Jude Lawson of Hagersville Severely Burned by Gas Explosion.

What might have been a fatal accident occurred at the gas well in rear of the Lawson House on Monday afternoon. It appears that the company keeps a small jet burning under the regulator, during the frosty weather to keep the regulator from freezing. On Monday afternoon, Mr. Jude Lawson, finding the gas running low entered the gas house to inspect the working of the regulator. He thought that the jet had gone out as he did not notice any flame. He proceeded to remove the cap from the well when there was a sudden explosion. Mr. Lawson succeeded in extricating himself from his perilous position but not before his hands and face were severely burned. His large fur overcoat was completely destroyed. Mr. Lawson was taken into the house where his injuries were attended by Dr. McDonald. His injuries are severe but not dangerous. It will be some weeks before he will be able to attend to his duties again.

There were stored in the gas house from fifteen to twenty gallons of coal oil. This ignited at once and combined with the escaping gas made one of the fiercest little fires ever seen in the town. The loss will be about $100.—Standard, Hagersville.

Farmers Were 'Taken In'

A number of farmers to the north of Plattsville are out of pocket as the result of the operations of an agent who recently visited them. Away back in 1893, it appears, Frank Payne, of Guelph, induced some of the farmers to enter into an agreement with him to advertise their farms for sale. If he effected the sale he was to get two per cent. The agreement was partly printed and partly written. It contained a valuation of the farm, and unless the sale was effected within three years the agent was not to get anything for advertising. Since 1893 nothing has been heard of the agreements until a few days ago, when a man, who was said to be a Toronto lawyer, appeared in the neighborhood. He had the agreements with him, but they were now wholly printed, with the farmers' names signed to them in lead pencil. According to them, however, as they then stood the farmer was to pay two per cent. whether a sale was effected or not. On a $10,000 farm this meant a considerable sum. The agreement was presented to a number of the men who had signed the original documents, and three of them are said to have settled with him. The agent left the district, and those affected are now on the lookout for him.
