

Make Each Animal Worth 25% Over Its Cost

On 3/4 of a Cent a Day

Nobility ever heard of "stock food" curing the bots or colic, making hens lay in winter, increasing the yield of milk five pounds per cow a day, or restoring run-down animals to plumpness and vigor?

When you feed "stock food" to your cow, horse, swine or poultry, you are merely feeding them what you are growing on your own farm.

Your animals do not more feed, but something to help their bodies get all the good out of the feed you give them so they can get fat and stay fat all year round; also to prevent disease, cure disease and keep them up to the best possible condition. No "stock food" can do all these things.

ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC can and does. It is Not a "Stock Food" But a "Conditioner"

ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC contains no grain, nor farm products. It increases yield of milk from three to five pounds per cow per day before the specific has been used two weeks. It makes the milk richer and adds flow faster than any other preparation known. Young calves fed with ROYAL PURPLE are as large at six weeks old as they would be when fed with ordinary materials at ten weeks.

ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC builds up run-down animals and restores them to plumpness almost magically. Cures bots, colic, worms, skin diseases and debility permanently. Dan McEwan, the horseman, says: "I have used ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC persistently in the feeding of 'The Bell,' 2,092, largest winner of any pacer on Grand Circuit in 1908, and Henry Winters, 2,091, brother of 'Allen Winters,' winner of $36,000 in trotting stakes in 1908. These horses have never been off their feed since I commenced using Royal Purple Stock Specific almost a year ago, and I will always have it in my stables."

STOCK AND POULTRY SPECIFICS

One 50c. package of ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC will last one animal seventy days, which is a little over two-thirds of a cent a day. Most stock foods in fifty-cent packages last but fifty days and are given three times a day. ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC is given but once a day, and lasts half again as long. A $1.50 pail containing four times the amount of the fifty-cent package will last 280 days. ROYAL PURPLE will increase the value of your stock 25%. It is an astonishingly quick feeder, stimulating the appetite and the relish for food, assisting nature to digest and turn feed into flesh. As a hog fatteners it is a leader. It will save many times its cost in veterinary bills. ROYAL PURPLE POULTRY SPECIFIC is for other birds for poultry, not for stock. One 50-cent package will last twenty-five hens 70 days, or a pail costing $1.50 will last twenty-five hens 280 days, which is four times more material for only three times the cost. It makes a "laying machine" out of your hens summer and winter, prevents fowling, loss of time, and cures many diseases. Every package of ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC or POULTRY SPECIFIC is guaranteed.

Just use ROYAL PURPLE on one of your animals and any other preparation on another animal in the same condition; after comparing results you will say ROYAL PURPLE has them all beat to death, or else back comes your money. A Strange Incident.

By CAPT. W. M. ALDERSON.

Having business in the south of England I left Liverpool and went to Whitby and a few days afterwards I drove into a small town just at sunset and put up at the Pig, the only Public in the place. Mine host said he could care for my horse and board for self but no bed, Brough Hill Fair being on and every place filled to overflowing. He said, "I can furnish you a good bed if you are not afraid of ghosts." I assured him I had no belief in such and would be pleased to occupy a room in the old Manor house, whose lord had recently died. He, the host, being in charge pending the arrival of the heir, an officer then in China, a servant was sent and a fire lighted in the room I was to occupy.

The supper bell rang and I went into the dining room where I was made acquainted with a very pleasant gentleman named Thomas Ruddle. I found him well posted as to that part of old England, he being an extensive dealer in live stock and also wool in season. He was accompanied by his son, a bright lad of about fifteen years. We enjoyed our meal very much and then retired to a small room where I called for pipes and tobacco and we enjoyed a social hour. Mr. Ruddle informed me that he was well acquainted with the lord of the Manor who had lately died, and that he was a jolly good fellow and often gave large parties (his wife was dead) and was in no means choice of his company, and invited many tough characters. He said the story of the Manor House being haunted arose from a tale told by a parson who had been suspended for five years on account of his intrigue with a servant maid. The parson and a chum Richards had been making a night of it at the Pig and on their way home, pretty well fuddled, they noticed the Manor House all alight, and to ascertain the cause they went and peered through a crack in a shutter and were horrified to see the old lord at table with many of his intimates. They were eating and drinking and making merry. The parson and his companion hurried away as stealthily as their condition permitted.

It is now ten o'clock. I called the host and told him I was ready to retire. He called a lad and bade him go with me and point out the house. Young Mr. Ruddle volunteered to accompany us and his father said, "I would go and spend the night with you, but I have many farmers coming by appointment to meet me to-morrow. I expressed my thanks and left, and soon was in front of a noble pile. I bade the lads good-night and ascended the marble steps leading to the front entrance, and placed the key in the lock, opened the door and entered a spacious hall. Down the broad staircase I descended and I lit the oil fire in the room above. I ascended the stairs and entered a large room and stirred up the fire, and by the light I saw that the room was elegantly furnished. On the marble mantel were two large wax candles. I locked the door, closed and bolted the door, then drew a large arm chair close to the grate, placed a small table close to the chair and sat down. I took out my pipe and filled it and soon was enjoying a smoke and gave myself over to reveries on the past with its many disappointments and I had just come to the conclusion that life at its best was a struggle and hardly worth living, when the town bell tolled the hour of midnight. I arose, divested myself of my outer garments, and extinguished the candles, replenished the fire with a large lump of coal, turned down the covers of the large four-posted bed, turned in and was soon asleep. I was awakened by a pounding on my door. I arose, lit a candle, stirred the fire into a blaze, went to the door and enquired what was wanted. A very pleasant voice replied, "Please come down to supper." I said all right. In a short time I dressed, put out the candle and opened the door. The house was a blaze of light. I descended the stairs to the hall where I was met by a very fine old gentleman whom I readily recognized (by Mr. Ruddle's description) as the lord of the Manor. He greeted me cordially and linking arms with me led me to the ball-room. On a raised dais at the far end sat Nero, Emperor of Rome, adding as he did when Rome burned by his order. The supper going on. His lordship led me to a small alcove and said, "All my guests will pass here. I will name them as they go by."

The first to come was Nero. On his arm leaned Lucretia Borgia. Then came Julius Caesar and Mark Antony. Between them Cleopatra, Ariadne and Saffira. Terrible Twiss and Lord Jimmy de Rohan, Jack Sheppard, Count de Jovy Boyer, Dick Turpin, Bloody Mary, Robt. Esperie, Bonaparte, Lord Dave De Amnotte, Bloody King Jack Shee, and many other criminals of note. All being seated his lordship escorted me to the head of the table and said, "As you are a relative of Baron Alderson, Chief Justice of England, will you do me the honor to take the head of the table?" I did as desired and he sat down at my right. I said to him, "I am accustomed to return thanks before meals." He replied, "Quite right." I bowed my head and said, "Lord, will thou permit me to dine with the lost?" I raised my head, all had vanished. I awoke! All was a dream.

Another Old Boy Heard From.

Quill Lake, Oct. 30, 1909.

Editor Jarvis Record:

DEAR SIR,—I notice in this issue of your paper "The Old Jarvis Boys' Corner." I believe if all the old boys and girls of Jarvis, who have left the town for other parts of the world, would write a few lines to this department of your paper to many of us it would be the most interesting.

By reading your locals from time to time I see a good many changes are taking place in Jarvis. Still there are lots of people mentioned that I knew when I was there, and it is like getting a letter from home to read the Record. Just for instance, that "Dutch Band," I imagine I can hear Patsy's ta, ra, ra, de, boom, de, aye, la, ra, ra, de boom, de aye just as of old; and Homer, I can see him and the big drum. Albert would be playing, "I covered him over with charcoal." I sure would have liked to have been there.

I notice by your paper that there are some of the lads coming West yet. It certainly is the young man's county. I like it better all the more I see of it. Most of farmers around here report the best crop they ever raised anywhere. A few were unlucky enough to get some hail earlier on and it did quite a lot of damage. I have bought grain in elevators here since I came and this is the best crop I ever handled. Up to the present time I have bought 38,000 bushels of grain and there are other buyers on the market, and they have bought about the same on the average.

Wishing you success with your paper and especially with "The Old Jarvis' Corner."

I remain yours,
ROBT. ROGERS.

Good For Ontario.

We are sure the Fruit Growers of this district will read with much interest the following item, which reached us last week from England.

Ontario people would glow with pride could they see the magnificent peaches displayed in some of the great stores, above which appear a legend telling that these are grown in the open in Ontario, and are the first peaches to be brought from Ontario to England. The Emigration Office and the C. P. R. office also display Ontario peaches, which are the wonder and admiration of all who see them. In the Army and Navy Stores the other day the manager was kept busy answering enquiries from curious customers, who expressed much interest in the fact that this beautiful fruit was grown out of doors in Canada. The peaches are sold for sixpence (12c) each, after passing through several hands from the time they are taken from the trees until they reach the London dinner-table.

VICTOR RECORDS

It isn't any one thing, but ALL things combined that make VICTOR Quality.

Best Artists Caruso, Calve, Tamas, Farrar, Cadogan, Homer, Melba, Plancon, Schumann-Hogner, Scotti, Sutherland, Tetrazzini, are among the world's greatest operatic stars who make records exclusively for the Victor.

Sousa and his band, Pryor's Band, and many famous instrumental soloists make records only for the Victor.

Best Selections The choicest Masterpieces of the greatest composers, favorite hymns, the most old songs of heart and home, as well as the newest and most popular selections of the day.

Best Recording Every part of every selection perfectly recorded on Victor Records. If there happens to be even the smallest flaw, the artists sing or play the selection over again until every part is absolutely perfect. The artists are just as particular as the Victor laboratory staff to have every selection perfect.

Best Materials The materials used in making Victor Records are the best that money can buy. The various ingredients form a scientific compound, particularly adapted to fine tone recording and reproduction, that was discovered only after long research and costly experiment by the Victor staff of paper chemists. Every Victor Record is carefully made by skilled workmen.

Best Reproducing The result is that every Victor Record has that unexcelled, sweet, clear, true-to-life, musical tone-quality which puts Victor Records in a class by themselves far above all competition.

Every VICTOR RECORD is a work of art.

Any Berliner-Victor dealer will gladly play any Victor Records you want to hear.

Write to us today for complete catalogues of the Victor Gram-o-phone and Victor-Victrola, and of 3000 Victor Records.
