Outline of the Tree Under Which He Minets Got What They Asked in Sat Traced on Man's Back.

Pittsburg, April 7.- Lightning played some unusual freaks during the spring from behind the clouds at 4 o'clock the first death from a bolt had been recorded. William Rimcus, of 72 Burdine place. South Fayette township, was instantly killed and a number of dwellings in the immediate vicinity were struck, but not damaged seriously.

Rimcus was in his garden when the electrical storm broke and rain began to fall. He sought refuge under a huge maple tree, not 50 feet from his house. Seating himself on the ground, with his back against the tree, he waited for the storm to subside, although members of his family called for him to come into the house.

There was a particularly vivid flash of lightning. It almost blinded those who saw it. When friends of Rimcus recovered from hte shock they were horrified to see him lying prostrate. They ran to him and discovered his hair had been burned from his head. He was dead.

The only other marks on his body were a series of vivid burns on his back. Investigation by a deputy coroner showed that this was where the electricity had done its phenomenal work. The outlines of the tree under which its victim sat were traceable on his back. The reproduction was perfect.

Enver Bey's Reward to be the Hand of a Princess.

Berlin, April 7 .- Major Enver Bey, one of the most notable leaders of the Young Turk revolution, which overthrew Sultan Abdul Hamid of Turkey, and now the military attache of the Turkish Embassy here, will become a husband under most peculiar conditions. His bride to be is an Imperial princess, a niece of the present Sultan, Mohammed V., and of his deposed brother.

The princess has been bestowed upon Enver Bey, in accordance with the ancient Turkish Royal custom, as a reward for his services and the gallant part he played in the overthrow of the old regime in Constantinople. Enver Bey has never seen his princess sweetheart, who is only sixteen years old. He is laughingly telling his Berlin friends, however, that he has seen her brother's Brokers' Offices Raided and Arrests ograph, and that if the princess ooks anything like that, he is sure he will be the happiest of husbands.

Enver Bey, of course, gratefully accepted this signal mark of his sovereign's favor, but requested that the marriage be postponed for two years. In the meantime he desires to widen the scope of his international knowledge by residence in England and France. The princess, who has never set foot outside Constantinople, will employ the time she is waiting for her marriage in perfecting herself in the English and French languages and in other accomplishments necessary to fit her to be the wife of a Turkish soldier with the most brilliant prospects. Enver Bey is now only 26

Many Men Quit Work.

Indiana and Won't Strike.

Indianapolis, April 7. — Celebrating the anniversary of the institution of showers and when the sun peeped out the eight-hour day in the mines of the country, 300,000 bituminous coal miners faced an enforced holiday of unknown duration. In many states the two-year wage contract expired last midnight, and the miners quit the coal pits, demanding that their new contract must provide for a wage increase of 5.55 per cent. a ton on screened coal and an equivalent increase on "run of mine" coal.

Conferences between the miners' organizations in the several districts and the corresponding operators' associations have been arranged. Adjustment of the difficulty may be a matter of weeks or days. In the Brazilian block coal district of Indiana there will not be a suspension of work, for late yesterday the operators conceded the higher wages demanded by the miners.

Conferences between the Cabinet and the Nationalists occurred during the last few days, but up to the present seem to have failed. Mr. Redmond insists on retaining hold at least on the final stages of the budget until the Lords have dealt with the veto resolutions, despite the promises of remission of the whiskey tax in the 1910-11 budget. But, of course, desperate as the situation of the Government appears, there is still time for an arrangement. Mr. Dillon had a long talk with Mr. Lloyd-George to-day.

Meanwhile evidence of the belief that an election may come by the end of April is found in the active preparations of all parties. tI was noticed, too, that both the tone and temper of Mr. Churchill's speech in the Commons to-night appeared to bear testimony to the failure of the Government to bring the Nationalists into line.
