Taken in Nots and Shipped in Gunny Sacks

There are a good many turtle catching outfits at present throughout the country. They use nets constructed on the fike principle and are set near shores having grassy margins and in water of moderate depth. The nets are baited with soft fish, such as suckers or the Seeh of small turtles having no selling

The bait must be renewed every few hours or it loses its power to attract. The nots must be raised every twelve hours at least, especially when the water is warmest, or the catch will drown and be worthless.

They are shipped alive in gunnysacks to the large cities and often sell at six or seven cents a pound live weight. The snapping turtle is the marketable variety, and sometimes specimens are caught weighing upward of fifty pounds. Frog catching is another summer industry, says Fur News, lasting in northern States four months or more. They are caught with hook and line baited with angle worm or a bit of red flannel. and are also speared and sometimes shot. By far the larger number are speared, for certain from refuse to take the book. Some of the large bulls are very wise and wary and are difficult to approach with the spear unless hunted by torchlight at night, when they are very

The large bulls are found mainly in ponds and the muddy inland lakes, among the lily pads and bogs, and if hunted by day no means of taking them is so sure as to use a shotgun made to use a .44 calibre shell and loaded with Frog saddles sell at from 15 cents a dozen for the grass frog up to 25 cents for large meadow frogs, 40 to 50 cents for small bulls and 75 cents to $1 a dozen pairs of legs of the large bull. That is about the price in Michigan. In the large eastern cities they bring more.

RUSSIAN CALEN ... R.

New Year's Day Without a Week Day Name.

A new calendar for Ruesia marks progress in the Czar's domain. Prof. Solodiloff is a Cal-ndar making. The year, he explains, should begin at the spring equinox and the quarters should be reckened from the equi-guarters should be reckoned from the equinoxed and solstices.

The first two months of every quarter should have thirty days and the third thiryone days. Thus each quarter would have hinety-one days, making 364 days for the year As the solar year has 365 days 5 hours 48 minutes and 49.7 seconds, one day in the year should he situally called New Year's day without a weekday name.

This disposes of the extra day, leaving the difference of five hours and the minuter and seconds. These on four years' time would, but for forty-five minutes, make an extra day, which Prof. Spodiloff proposes to call the Day After New Year. The fortyfive minutes would amount up of a day in 128 years, and so the Day After New Year should fall but once in 128 years. There is should fall but once in 128 years. There is still a difference of a few seconds, but as this does not amount to a day in 5,000 or 6,000 years it may be disregarded. 6,000 years it may be disregarded.

Under this system every first day of a quarter would be a Monday, the first day of the second month always a Wednesday and the first day of the third month always a Friday. It is also proposed to make Easter, from which all church festivals are reckonded, occur at a fixed date, which the ecclesia-stical authorities are invited to name.—

HOW BEES FIND WAY TO HIVE.

Special Sense of Direction-Not Guided by Sight or Odor. The directive sense which is possessed by been is the object of researches made by M. Gaston Bonnier, of Paric, and he seems to prove that dees possess a special sense like that of carrier pigeons.

Bees can fly for two miles from the hive and are then able to return after gathering their supply of honey. Languagetoth and others suppose that vision comes into play and tha bees can see for a great distance and can also note objects on the way so as tofind their path. Others, with Dadent, suppose that the that they can smell flowers at one and a balf

The author makes experiments to prove that bees can return to the rive without using either sight or odor. At to sight he takes bees to a distance of one or two miles from the bive in a closed box. They always dreaded baby troubles—cholera infant-fly back to the bive when released. The same um, diarrohea, dysentery and other stomis true when their eyes are covered, so that sight is not essential. As regards odor, exteriments sight to prove that bees perceive odors at only short distances. When a needle dipped in other is brought near the head of the bee, it shows signs of perceiving the odor, but not'so when the needle is placed back of him or near other organs; Besides when the organs of sincil (antan-nae) are removed entuely the bees will re-turn to the sive. M. Bonnier makes the folsyrup at the same distance from the bive but speced at twenty feet from the former. Other bees are now engaged in the to and box from The Dr. fro movement to this point, but these are Co.. Brockville, Ont. not the same individuals as the green marked hot the same individuals as the green marked bees who are still working on the first suptive and the marks these in red.

We thus have two distinct sets of bees, and, we see that they can distinguish two directions which form a very scute angle.

We seem to have here a special directive sense which does not reside in the automation probably in the cerebroit ganglia. Cher nery be cited in evidence of the direc-

Indiana's Walking Saloons.

He walks along the streets on Sunday. a covered basket on his arm, a brazen gaze for all "coppers" and a sly wink for all dry drinkers. He is the "walking saloon,' 'brought into being by Mayor Shank's Sunday closing order. The police are looking for him, but thus far have found only two of him. Two hundred more of him are said to be tramping the streets on Sunday.

The walking saloon does not confine its efforts to Indianapolis. He may be found in any dry territory in Indiana at any and all times, and more than threefourths of the State is dry.

The walking saloon does not carry a icense; his only inclimbrance is a big basket. He gets it on Saturday and peddles it on Sunday in the highways and brwavs of the city and the State. He is a puzzle to the police, for all hascet carriers are not walking saloons, alhough all walking saloons are basket carriers .- From the Indianapolis Sun.

Earliest Use of Mineral Ink.

In ancient times Indian ink, made from lampblack and glue, was used for writing on papyri; but inspection of the earliest MSS, on vellum or parchment shows that iron-gall inks were introduced not later than the ninth century. The greason for the change, says the University Corespondentwas that, although a carbon ink is more permanent, it has no penetrating power and can be sponged from the vellum, whereas the iron ink bites into the fibre, and resists the action of air and light.

At present The excessive weat, the difficulty in but oe sectio nof the catacombs has been completed with accommodations for 24 bodies in the concrete niches. But the section can be extended underground in four directions; and, at any time an addition for 72 more bodies can be made. For a cryptal burial there is a lift set into the floor of the chapel to lower the body to the level of the crypts. The record for burials at Calvary indicates that the mortuary chapel will be in almost constant use. The burials average 70 a day and often run as high as 120.-Popular Mechanics.

Sweeping.

It's a bugaboo. And it's no wonder. Watch some persons sweep. They simply disperse clouds of dust.

One woman wipes up her carpets with a damp cloth. This cloth is wrung from water in which there is a little ammonia. Or torn-up newspapers, wrung from lean water, may be scattered about. When swept up they carry the dust. One worden dusts her furniture and woodwork by wiping with a cloth moistened with turpentine.

Still Room for Doubt.

A western editor of national repute who had a sincere love for real art was talking to a crowd of newspaper men at one of the New York clubs the other evening on what he classed as "scamped' work-so-called impressionistic pictures that were merely rough and hurried sketches, and so-called portraits that bore no true likeness to their originals.

"As an instance," said he, "I know a man here in New York who had his portrait painted last year. It cost him $4,000, and he was very proud of it. When it came he showed it to the cook. "'Well, Mary,' said he, 'how do you like this portrait?" "'Sure, sor,' beamed the cook, with true Irish loyalty, 'it's lovely. It's certainly beautiful. It's more than that, sor, it's divine.'

"'And, of course,' said the man, 'you know who it is.' "'Oh, of course I do, sor,' quickly resnonded the cook. 'Of course, of course.' As she said this she drew closer and closer to the picture, studying it more intently. 'Of course, sor,' she added, 'it's you—or the mistress!'
