Cast of Legislation in Ohio.
The meetings of the General Assembly are expensive luxuries. Representative Ritter introduced in the House on Tuesday afternoon a sundry appropriation bill carrying $250,000, to pay salaries of members of the Assembly, the salaries of clerks, porters, doorkeepers, sergeants-at-law, pages, stenographers, etc., and other expenses. There are 140 members of the Assembly, drawing $1,000 each a year, or $140,000, so the expenses incidental to the session will cost just $101,000.—From the Columbus Dispatch.

Japanese English.
It was not so very long ago that a Japanese minister, who shall be nameless, made a visit of ceremony upon Lady Lansdowne. He was a charming fellow, says M. A. P., and conversed on many subjects of interest with his hostess. In bidding her adieu, bending low over her hand, he murmured: "Forgive it me, madame, if I have cooched on your time to-day!" Lady Lansdowne laughingly told her husband the story, adding: "He is such a nice little man, you know! I think it would be right to tell him of his mistake. I shall explain to him that cooched, not cooched, is the correct expression in English."
To make a long story short, the little minister and Lady Lansdowne soon met again. It was at the Foreign Office, and Lady Lansdowne drew her little friend apart. "I want to make a little English all but perfectly. Indeed, I have only heard you make one mistake. Now, instead of saying to me, 'I am sorry to have cooched on your time,' you should say, 'I am sorry to have encroached on your time.'" This is the word, encroached! You understand?" The Jap was silent for a moment. Then the cloud lifted from his face. A flashlight might have passed over it. "I see, I see!" he cried. "I may say then, when addressing Lord Lansdowne, 'I am sorry to have encroached on your time,' but it is to you, madame, I must say, 'I am sorry to have encroached on your time.'"

When Winter Comes.
When winter comes it brings the play, And who's as glad as we?
When sleet takes me Saturdays, What lovely things we see!
Though snow is flying through the air, And afternoons are gray,
It seems like summer everywhere When riding to the play.
When I am settled in my seat, As cozy as can be,
The music plays so soft and sweet, It says, "Come dance to me!"
Though dancing down the aisles I don't dearly like to go,
I know they'll soon be passing by And watch the leader's bow.
Until the curtain falls above, About my happy day,
With things to please and things to love, And always lots of fun,
If and when come to make me sigh, Before we bid the play good-by,
It all comes right at last.
I hate to leave the pleasant place, But sister says to me, "Let's hurry home now, little Grace; There'll be food cake for tea."
At home, I tell dear mama all About my happy day,
And tucked in beside my doll I dream about the play.
—Cecil Cavendish, in the February St. Nicholas.

Regularly
of the bowels is an absolute necessity for good health. Unless the waste matter from the food which collects there is got rid of at least once a day, it decays and poisons the whole body, causing biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches. Salts and other harsh mineral purgatives irritate the delicate lining of the bowels. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills—entirely vegetable—regulate the bowels effectively without weakening, sickening or griping. Use Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

Luck in the Auction Room.
During a certain sale which I was conducting, says Mr. Charles Hartie, the auctioneer, in the February Strand, I had an old picture so covered with dirt and grime that it was almost impossible to see what it was like. This was hung upon the wall in a prominent position, but did not, apparently, find favor in the eyes of any of the dealers who were present. No reserve price was placed upon this picture, which had been put into the sale by a local pawnbroker, to whom it had been pledged and not redeemed. In spite of every effort on the part of the auctioneer, who naturally did his best to make the audience believe that it might be of considerable value, bids came very slowly, and he was eventually knocked down to a young man who had looked into the sale quite casually, in order to waste half an hour during which he had to wait for a train. Taking a great fancy to the frame, which was of oak, blackened with age, he hazarded a bid of five dollars, at which price it was knocked down to him without any competition. As he did not want the picture, he asked the auctioneer whether he would mind trying to get a bid for it, if he cut it out of the frame, and being answered in the affirmative, he took out his knife and neatly cut through the canvas all round the edge. Imagine the astonishment of himself and all present when, hidden behind the canvas, he discovered five bills for one hundred dollars each! Evidently the picture had been used to conceal the savings of some previous owner who had died without disclosing the secret, and whose hard-won fortune thus came into the hands of a total stranger.

The Old, Old Home.
When I long for sainted memories, Like to sit on the old, old home,
If I old my arms and ponder On the old, old home,
For the heart hath many passages Through which the soul's ebbing foam,
But its middle aisle is sacred To the old, old home.
Oh the old, old home, Oh the old, old home,
But its middle aisle is sacred To the old, old home.
Where infancy was sheltered From the blust'ring winds of sin,
And childhood's brief elysium In joyousness was passed,
To that sweet spot forever, As to some hallowed dome,
Life's pilgrim bends his vision On the old, old home.
There a father sat how proudly, From the hearthstone's rays,
And told his children stories Of his earlier manhood days,
And the soft eye was beaming, From child to child 'twas a beam,
Thus a mother counts her treasures In the old, old home.
The birthday gifts and festivals, The blended vesper hymn,
One dear one who was hymning it With the seraphim,
The fond good-nights at bedtime, How quiet sleep would come
And fold us all together In the old, old home.
Like a wreath of scented flowers, Close intertwined each heart,
But time and change in concert Have blown that wreath apart,
Yet faithful sweet memories Like angels ever come,
If I fold my arms and ponder On the old, old home.
Oh the old, old home, Oh the old, old home,
If I fold my arms and ponder On the old, old home.
—Rev. F. Roberts.

Track Walking Increases.
The Pennsylvania Railroad continues its vigorous campaign against trespassers on its tracks and trains, but the task is a formidable one. An officer of the road who has lately been reviewing the subject, says that the practice of walking on railway tracks has been growing constantly; and yet the Pennsylvania alone had over 11,000 trespassers arrested in the year 1909. This statement is given in a circular which has been issued by the company, prefaced by some figures showing the aggregate number of trespassers killed and injured on the railways of the country during the ten years ended December 31 last. The total number killed was 47,416, a truly startling figure, although every one who cares has had the information before him, year by year, in the reports of the interstate commerce commission. The number has been constantly increasing with the increasing population and with the building of new railways. In 1898 the number killed was 4,063, in 1903 it was 5,000, and in 1907 the number of trespassers killed was 915. These are not all tramps by any means; the list includes factory workmen and other laborers, and also the wives and children of men living near the tracks.—Railroad Age-Gazette.

A MESSAGE OF HOPE TO WORRIED MOTHERS.
There is no other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets for the cure of stomach, bowel and teething troubles. They come as a message of hope to worried mothers, as they make sickly, crying, crying children bright and well, and the mother has the guarantee of a Government analyst that the medicine contains no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff.
Mrs. Maurice Murphy, Glanford, Ont., says: "I think Baby's Own Tablets the best medicine in the world. I know of nothing that can equal them in curing stomach, bowel and teething troubles." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Floating Telescope.
At the Harvard University Observatory a gigantic telescope floats in a tank of water. It is one of the largest in the world, the reflecting mirror being five feet wide. Mounted on a watertight cylindrical steel float the telescope swings in a concrete tank full of water, only slightly larger than the cylinder, which is designated to fit it closely and serve as a pivot for the telescope instead of having it mounted on a solid base.
Machinery on each side holds and guides it. The water bears the weight and the movements of the telescope are regulated by tiny electric motors. The gigantic mirror can be easily removed and resilvered when it grows dim, although two tons are indicated when it is placed on the scales.
Through this telescope stars of the sixteenth and eighteenth magnitude are revealed.—National Magazine.

Effects of Ivy on Walls.
A writer in the Revue Scientifique discusses the effects of ivy growing on walls of various kinds, and arrives at the following conclusions: It is not advisable for allowing minor irritations of the skin and scalp to grow on walls formed of new or old stone, since it soon destroys the smooth surface, and the damage does not extend to any noticeable depth; it is bad for ancient walls of cut stone, the joints of which have been opened by the various effects of time and the weather; it is not injurious to brick walls, if the inhabitants are not subject to rheumatism; and it is useful on ancient walls of rubble, since its interlaced branches tend to prevent the fall of loose stones.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Some time ago had a bad attack of Quinsy which laid me up for two weeks and cost a lot of money. I was finding the lump again forming in my throat. I bathed freely with MINARD'S LINIMENT, and saturating a cloth with the liniment left it on all night.
Next morning the swelling was gone and I attributed the warding off of an attack of Quinsy to the free use of MINARD'S LINIMENT.

Alexander Ure, the Lord Advocate of Scotland, is a keen golfer and he has a good store of golfing tales. These he is always ready to relate even if they tell against himself.
Playing on a certain course in Scotland he remarked incidentally to his caddie:
"By the way, I played a round with Toddy McGregor the last time I was here. Grand player, McGregor."
"Ay," said the caddie, "but ye could hate McGregor the noo."
"Do you think so?" exclaimed the gratified Lord Advocate, being well aware of McGregor's prowess.
"Ay," drawled the caddie. "McGregor's deid."—Golfing.

ACUTE DYSPEPSIA
Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.
"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge P. O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvellous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."
Be advised—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 50c. per box, at all dealers, or The Carthorpe Co., Kingston, Canada.

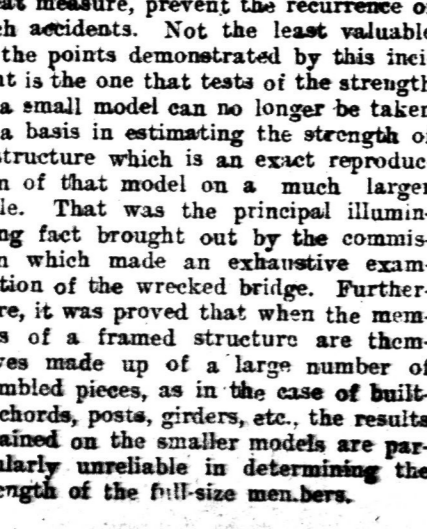

Toothpicks as a Diet.
A well-known sculptor tells the following story:
"Whenever I see a toothpick I think of a dinner that was given in Rome in honor of two Turkish noblemen.
"I sat beside the younger of the noblemen. He glittered with gold embroidery and great diamonds, but nevertheless I pitied him sincerely, for he was strange to our table manners, and some of his errors were both ludicrous and painful.
Toward the diner's end a servant extended to the young man a plate of toothpicks. He waved the plate away, saying in a low and bitter voice:
"No, thank you; I have already eaten two of the accursed things, and I want no more."—Independent.

MISFORTUNE FOR THE BLOODLESS.
Misfortune for the bloodless—that should be printed in the public places. You must have blood to have strong lungs to enable you to withstand all the dust and microbes of summer and the piercing winds and cold of winter. Consumption is, properly speaking, lack of blood; the natural result of anemia. To prevent consumption rich blood is necessary. The best way to protect the organs is to circulate this rich blood through the lungs. Many have been saved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because these Pills are a remarkable blood builder; not indirectly, but directly—with each dose. They have cured thousands of cases of anemia; green sickness, general debility, and all other troubles arising out of poor blood.

Reason for Praying in Secret.
The late Bishop Hare, of South Dakota, often in his sermons brought out a point which an apt story, says the Louisville Times.
"These religious and unscrupulous financiers," he said in a winter discourse in Deadwood, "remind me of a little Philadelphia girl I know.
"This little girl insisted, at bedtime, in saying her prayers by herself. She was allowed to do so. Later her mother asked her why she had demanded this right of private prayer. For a long time the little girl refused to answer, but finally, after much coaxing, she said:
"I jes' wanted to give fanks for bein' 'lowed to steal some Christmas fruit cake.'"

WOMAN'S CHARMS
Of Skin, Hands and Hair Preserved.
For preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands; for allaying minor irritations of the skin and scalp and for preventing them becoming chronic; for imparting a velvety softness to the skin; for sensitive, antiseptic cleansing, and, in short, for every use in promoting skin and hair health and bodily purity, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are unsurpassed. In the speedy and economical treatment of torturing, disfiguring eczemas, rashes, itchings, and inflammations, Cuticura succeeds when all else fails.
Butter Two Centuries Old.
Ghee is used in India as is butter in America and European countries, and, in fact, is butter, so prepared that it never grows stale, instances being known of its preservation for as long as two hundred years. In preparing ghee, butter is boiled until all the watery particles and curds have been thrown off by repeated skimmings. When the liquor is clear oil it is poured into a vessel to cool. When cooled it is in granulated form, and will keep for years without becoming rancid or of bad color. Ghee has been found in deserted castles, where it must have been left more than two centuries ago.—Popular Mechanics.

Lesson of Quebec Bridge.
Although a very expensive experience, the disaster to the Quebec bridge has been the means of teaching a number of valuable lessons which will, in a great measure, prevent the recurrence of such accidents. Not the least valuable of the points demonstrated by this incident is the one that tests of the strength of a small model can no longer be taken as a basis in estimating the strength of a structure which is an exact reproduction of that model on a much larger scale. That was the principal illuminating fact brought out by the commission which made an exhaustive examination of the wrecked bridge. Furthermore, it was proved that when the members of a framed structure are themselves made up of a large number of assembled pieces, as in the case of built-up chords, posts, girders, etc., the results obtained on the smaller models are particularly unreliable in determining the strength of the full-size members.

GERMAN MARZIPAN.
Recipes Preserved in Many Families—Glazed Almonds.
Marzipan, according to the old German recipes which are still preserved in manuscript in many north German families, was simply made of a pound of blanched and shredded almonds and half a pound of icing sugar worked into a paste with orange flower water or rose water, the paste being then spread on wafers and dried in the oven.
The modern German confectioner makes marzipan in much the same manner, kneading and rolling out the paste, however, on a sugared board and sprinkling it with sugar as if it were flour when pastymaking is in progress, while only a cursory amount of baking is given in order to harden the exterior.
Glazed almonds are another old German favorite, a pound of sweet almonds, blanched and peeled, being dropped into a saucepan of thick syrup made with a pound of sugar and water and left on the fire until the syrup had been absorbed. The pan was removed and stirring continued until the almonds were quite dry, when they were worked with a wooden spoon once more over the fire. When ready and well glazed they were always sprinkled freely with powdered cinnamon before they were allowed to cool and were considered ready for dessert.—From the London Evening Standard.

Cure for Chewing Gum Habit.
In one of the West Philadelphia public schools is a little mite of a teacher who has a mighty way of preserving discipline. Her pupils being unmindful of all injunctions barring the use of chewing gum during school hours, the instructor determined to make a horrible example of a couple of the most willful boys. She accordingly announced that she would decorate the schoolroom a little, and thereupon stationed the boys on one corner of the platform where they would be conspicuous. Then she gave each lad a roll of clean white paper and told them to chew it.
The boys, with their cheeks bulging out with paper pulp, were compelled to chew steadily for fifteen minutes. There is a slump in the chewing gum market.—From the Philadelphia Press.

New Electric Heater.
The Baxian electric heater, recently invented in England, consists of tubes of quartz, containing a spiral of nickel or other wire mounted in a frame, from which they can readily be removed for renewal. Within a few seconds after the current is turned on the tubes become incandescent, expelling a large, red-hot surface, which can be used for cooking or heating.

War Vessels on the Great Lakes.
The number of war vessels to be maintained on the Great Lakes is a problem which may become acute at any time and require the serious consideration of this Government. It is one of the matters which is likely to confront Secretary Knox and require some clever handling if he remains at the head of the Department of State for any considerable length of time. Popular Mechanics contains an interesting discussion of this question. It says:
"Canada now has but one war vessel on all the Great Lakes, and this is said to be unarmed, while the United States has six armed vessels and three disarmed. Altogether these have more than 50 guns, with a force of about 2,000 men. So far as conditions are to-day, in case of a sudden row the United States could absolutely dominate the Great Lakes."
