

Worn by Court Beauty of Egypt— Fine Example of Ancient Carving. The Musee Guimet of Paris has just acquired a precious treasure, provided that it will bear investigation better than did the notorious tiara of the Louvre a few years ago.

The ring was acquired from a family of Grenoble in whose possession it had been for long years and the former owners produced documents which satisfied M. Guimet as to the authenticity of his acquisition.

Considering the many lives lost every year by breaking through, or still of tetter, by skating into holes in the ice, a simple and very practical means of saving oneself from drowning should be of interest to skaters everywhere.

It depends on the use of a life-saving awl, and the method of rescuing oneself is about as follows:— 1. As soon as you break through the ice, extend the arms. Don't get excited.

Raw Seal as Diet. The Rev. S. M. Stewart, who has spent eight years in the extreme north of Ungava—the coast of Labrador—a dreary, frozen wilderness which only communicates with the outer world once in twelve months, says it is often a question of a raw seal fish diet or starvation when he is on his journeys to visit the Eskimauks of the different settlements along the coast.

New Argument for Vegetarians. Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, Mich., declares that the researches of Bloch, Harkoff, Tissier, and others have shown that most chronic diseases may be directly traced to putrefaction processes in the intestines and the absorption into the blood of poisons thus formed.

Vegetable protein foods are free from toxins which fish foods abound. Healthy people are able to swallow quantities of these toxins without apparent injury for a long time, but the person whose constitution is broken down, whose liver, kidney and other vital organs are so seriously crippled that they are scarcely able to remove from the natural poisons which constantly and naturally originate in the body itself, cannot do extra work of dealing with the toxic substances constantly found in meats, and in considerable quantities, without lessening the chances of recovery, and perhaps promoting the progress of the disease.

CROSS, SLEEPLESS BABIES ARE SICKLY BABIES. When little ones are sleepless and cross it is a sure sign that they are not well. Probably the little stomach or the bowels is out of order, or the child may be suffering from teething troubles.

FINE GIRLISH PARTY FROCKS. This year numbers of the frocks for the older girls are made with transparent tulle over soft silk or satin and caught in at the waist with a folded satin sash, the long ends of which fall over the hips a little to one side, while in some cases a tiny border of ribbon work in rosebuds and leaves edges the tunic of nylon or net.

A Glimpse of the Future. Knicker—What do you suppose we shall do by 2010? Booker—We'll have so many canals we shall subsidize railroads. Money has a queer habit of leaving us about ten times as fast as it is left to us.
