How is it Done?

It is really wonderful how the Editors of the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal can go on week after week issuing 28 and 32 pages of eight big columns each, and always find something new and interesting to their readers. Every department of that great paper is edited by men and women of long experience, and there is not a dry department in the whole paper. Any person who is not familiar with the Family Herald should give it a trial. Those who know it would not be without it. Every subscriber for 1911 has an opportunity to win a free trip to the Old Country next June. Particulars may be had at this office.

St. Paul's Church Annual Bazaar

The annual Bazaar by the ladies of St. Paul's Church, under the auspices of the W. A., was held in the Music Hall last evening and was a great success. The total proceeds were over $170, being the largest in many years. The Hall looked very picturesque with its varied booths. On the left, as one entered, was the tea table, which was the first point of interest, under the charge of Miss Bourne, Miss Le Pan, Mrs. Holzkiss and Mrs. Ward with the Misses Latimer, Phibbs, Ineson, Mrs. Wood as waitresses. Near the door on the right was the "Farmers' Table" with every variety of produce as well as home-made bread and buns, under the charge of Mesdames Hair, Phibbs, Taylor. In the centre stood the pretty and unique booth set up by the Gillette Co., of Toronto, with samples of their manufacture cared for by Mrs. Bruce Hare, Miss G. Jones and Mrs. J. S. Buiwsh. Nearby was the Fishpond, the centre of attraction to the young people, which was well patronized all the evening. Mr. Campbell made an indefatigable "Piscatorial Artist" assisted by the Misses Laura Belt, Shirley Holmes, Emily Jones and Ellen Lewis. Pauline Harris and Melinda Wendland presided over a small table on which sat a pretty doll which they had dressed and were soliciting guesses as to the doll's name. No one was fortunate enough to guess correctly, so dolly was sold to the highest bidder. Her financial credit stood for about $4. In the upper left hand corner was the candy booth, looking very tasty in its red and white streamers. This was well looked after by the Misses Francis Lapan and Lewis, with Mrs. Brook Le Pan, and the Misses Aiken and Amden assisting. The candies were delicious. On the platform the many fancy and useful articles were tastefully displayed for sale on a long table and on the wall. Mesdames Chambers, Jones, Lewis, Sower and Miss Henning ministered to the many buyers, who came in a fairly steady stream to the platform. And last, but by no means least, on the right hand side near the platform was the "Sample Booth" whose counter was covered with a varied assortment of manufactured articles including McCormick's and Perrin's biscuits, Horlick Malted Milk, Heinz Pickles, Colgate and Euthyol toilet preparations, Infant's Delight Soap, Salada and Red Rose Tea, etc. To Mrs. J. A. Campbell is due the suggestion and great success of this booth which was very tastefully decorated with the manufacturers' cards. The Misses Sower and Snyder were able assistants in disposing of these goods. Regret was felt over the illness of Mrs. Murdoch which prevented her from being present. To all these ladies, and to many others whose names are omitted but who worked faithfully and well, not forgetting the men who made the preparations, the great success of this year's Bazaar is due.

Chief of Police Captured.

At the Presbyterian Church, Wolsley, on Wednesday, Nov. 9th, 1910, at 3.30 p.m., a pretty wedding was solemnized, the contracting parties being Miss M. Ellis, Wolsley and Mr. J. W. Jackson, Indian Head, Keew. J. Russell tied the nuptial knot pronouncing the ceremony which united the lives of these estimable young people.

Miss Laura Ellis acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Harold Steep acted as bridegroom.

After the ceremony the happy couple and guests returned to the bride's home where a sumptuous dinner had been prepared by Mrs. Ellis, the bride's mother, which was a rare treat indeed and spoke well of Mrs. Ellis' ability in the culinary art.

Miss Ellis is very well and favorably known here, being at one time a member of the Hospital staff. Mr. Jackson is an esteemed citizen of this town being our efficient bandmaster and Chief of Police. He has for some time past been a member of the I. H. F. B., whose members, Messrs. Elford, Steep, Theobald, Moore, Whitehead, Phillips, McKuzie (chief), and Mr. R. H. Hensz of the Imperial Hotel, presented him with a magnificent token of remembrance, being a large Grandfather's clock. Other valuable gifts, too numerous to mention were presented.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, accompanied by the guests from Indian Head arrived in town on the 6 o'clock train and upon arrival at their home, on Grand Ave., sat down to a delicate luncheon, which was prepared by Mr. Jackson's sister, Mrs. T. Hamlin and Mrs. Wm. Andrew. The dainty luncheon was spread over the greater part of the evening by the making of many toasts and good wishes and it was not until the wee hours did the pleasant gathering break up.

An Old Jarvis Boy Elected to the Bench

At the recent U.S. elections, Jas. W. McCarter was elected Judge for Edmunds County, South Dakota, by a majority of forty over his opponent, Judge Ham, who has held the position for six years. Judge McCarter, for the past ten years, has been practising law in the above mentioned state. When a boy he took a deep interest in politics, was a particular friend of Dr. Montague, and a strong believer in Sir the late John A. MacDonald's protective tariff. We are indeed pleased to learn of his success.

Rsv. J. Haith is Fined for Carrying Revolver.

It will be remembered that Police Magistrate Griffin reserved judgment in this case. W. S. Brewster, K. C. of Brantford, and Mr. F. Reid, of Simcoe, appearing for the defendant, and Mr. A. A. Winter of Simcoe, acting as prosecutor. After deliberation and consulting authorities, the magistrate gave the following decision: The defendant, not having the Certificate of Exemption as provided for in the Criminal Code, the Constable not having the power to grant authority to the defendant to carry a revolver, and the life of the defendant not being in danger at the raid, judgment, therefore, will be given against the defendant in the sum of $5.00 and costs. It is understood that the case will be appealed, and will be taken before Judge Robb at Division Court at Delhi, this month. — Simcoe Reformer.

Marburg

Mr. James Maxwell has moved from W. Wilkinson's farm to Mrs. Emily Sidway's. Mr. Breen has taken the Wilkinson place.

Miss Pearl Smith of Port Dover was the guest of Leila McBride on Sunday.

A few of our hunters were out on Saturday looking for rabbits. They captured six fine ones.

The bridge at James Chaland's has been taken down and a sign has been placed on it. Mr. Green, the seed sower, of Simcoe thought he saw a track so put his horse in. Guess he won't try it again, it being mud bottom and a good deal of water. If he had never been baptized he was that day. He was obliged to go to Hugh Awford's and get dry clothes. Have not heard how it affected him.

Arlof McCarter and Mr. Rankin were out hunting Saturday, but did not have very good luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mitchell called at Robert Marr's on Sunday.

Andrew Hewson and wife, Sidney McBride and wife and Willis Hewson took in the Orange supper at Dover on Thursday night.

Miss Stella Marr attended our Sunday School on Sunday.

Peculiar Case at Selkirk

Selkirk, Nov. 14.—For the past few months people residing in this village and vicinity have been very much worked up over the threatening letters received by Fred Smelser, and the burning of Mr. Smelser's barn on October 10. There was much speculation as to who the guilty parties were, and so much was Smelser worked up over the affair that he asked for and was granted permission by Crown Attorney Murphy to carry a revolver. The most sensational development in the case came on Saturday morning, however, when Noble detectives, who had been working on the case, arrested Mrs. Fred Smelser, wife of the persecuted man, Lloyd Smelser, aged 15 years and Leah Smelser, aged 14 years, son and daughter of the man. Lloyd confessed to writing the mysterious threatening letters and to the burning of the barn, and implicated his mother and sister in the latter writing. The prisoners were taken to Cayuga, where all three appeared before Magistrate Cline and Bunn. No evidence was taken, and Mrs. Smelser was granted her liberty, after giving bail in the sum of $1,000. Leah Smelser was allowed out on bail bonds to the amount of $500, supplied by her mother. The son was not allowed the opportunity to secure bail, and is at present in the Cayuga jail. All three prisoners will appear before Magistrate Harrison at Selkirk next Saturday. It was several months ago that the letters which brought the villagers to the gossiping point, commenced to arrive at the Smelser home. They threatened that if Smelser did not move away from the farm he would be killed, and that all his estates would be burned. Smelser was game, however, and paid no heed to the letters at first, but when they began to arrive more frequently he notified Crown Attorney Murphy of Cayuga who started an investigation. On October 10 people were seen lurking around the Smelser home, and early that morning Smelser was awakened by cries of fire, and looking out of the window saw his barn ablaze, and at once realized that the person who had threatened him had carried out one of the threats. The barn was totally destroyed and all of the cattle and stock consumed by the flames. There was talk of a man named Heisheld being implicated but he was proved innocent. Murphy then pleaded the matter in the hands of the Noble detective agency with the result that Assistant Superintendent John Magee of Toronto, and an assistant were detailed on the case. The sleuths went over the ground inch by inch, and a startling discovery was made. Some of the letters which had been written to Smelser had been turned over to the crown attorney, and the remainder kept in the house. Those that were kept in the house disappeared shortly after the detectives arrived in the neighborhood. The theft of the letters made things more complicated than ever, and the detectives were not long in taking note of the peculiar incident. An interview with Smelser revealed another important fact which the detective kept dark. When asked whom he suspected of being the instigator to the effort to ruin him and drive him from the farm he had worked and resided on for 22 years, could not think of anyone who had a grudge against him to such an extent that would lead him to attempt to drive him from his home. The unfortunate farmer, however, told the detectives that his wife and family had been trying to induce him to sell the farm and move to the city. This he objected to. The detectives soon became convinced that someone connected with the homestead was at the bottom of all Smelser's troubles. By hard work the detective secured sufficient evidence to warrant an arrest, but before making one they confronted young Smelser and accused him of being implicated in the case. The youth broke down and confessed that he had written the letters at the instigation of his mother and sister and that he had set fire to the barn. At the time the detectives were doing their work they were disguised as workmen and in that manner came in touch with members of the family. Two weeks ago acting on the advice of the detectives, Fred Smelser decided to sell his home and an auction sale held on the grounds. The detectives were at the sale helping in no little manner to clean up the place and clear up the mystery which proved successful. With the arrest of the wife, daughter and son, the people of the district are very much worked up and all though many claim that the burning of the barn was an accident, the authorities claim to know different. The conference which they claim to have secured from Lloyd Smelser disposed of that theory, they point out.

Bearing Down Pains

What woman at sometime or other does not experience these dreadful bearing down pains. Mrs. E. Griffith of Main street, Hopworth, Ont., says: "A heavy bearing down pain had settled across my back and sides. I was often unable to stoop or straighten myself up. Many times each night I would have to leave my bed with the irregular and frequent secretion of the kidneys and just as done out in the morning as on retiring. I was languid and would have to let my housework stand. Nothing I had tried would benefit me. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and included I would try them, which I did, and soon found the long sought relief. My back strengthened and I began to feel better and stronger. I now enjoy my sleep without being disturbed and feel grateful to Booth's Kidney Pills for what they did for me."
