Something of the Saturday Reviewer was afterwards discernible in Lord Salisbury's speeches, perhaps not to his politient advantage, for that which would he smart in an article may be too smart in & Minister's speech. He offended the Irish vote by a philosophic remark on the inequalities of political capacity and the imprudence of giving democratic intitutions to the Hottentots. "Master of flouts and gibes and sneers," he was called by Disraeli. As the guest of Hope at Bedgebury, where we had very pleasmeetings, I was thrown much into Lord Salisbury's company, and I always felt and expressed more confidence in his indement and rectitude than in his strength. Bismarck in his slashing way mid of him that he was a reed painted to look like iron. This was exaggeartion. But Lord Salisbury used to speak both in public and private of Disraeli's diaracter and designs in terms which it might have been thought would make their union impossible. His ultimate entenission to Disraeli was ascribed to the pressure of his aspiring wife. His consent to the attack on the independence of the Transvaal Republic, being the man of honor that he was and clearly committed on the question, may prob. with be ascribed to the dominant infinonce of Chamberlain,-Goldwin Smith, in the Canadian Magazine for November.

A TROPICAL SEA AT SUNRISE. carth there is nothing more beausiful than the sea-foam touched by the first rays of the tropic sun. Then, and for a moment after, a breeze from some senshore of the golden age seems to fill the world with youth; a moment after, and the sun, freeing himself from the see that seems to cling to him, rises in the blue rapidly, hurriedly, like a king stening to ascend his throne, and the tremendous day of the tropics has begun. SUCKS UP THE ASHES.

An Economical Device for Use With a Boiler Plant.

One of the latest and most effectual devices for economically handling ashes in boiler plants, says the Engineering Magazine, is the suction system now in successful operation in a number of plants. A line of heavy eight-inch or ten-inch cast iron pipe extends beneath the ash pits with such inlets at each. This duct leads directly to the "receiver," an air-tight chamber of concrete or steel lined with cement mortar. Just before entering the receiver a water spray is introduced. Draught is induced by an exhauster fan, direct-connected to an electric motor or steam turbine, maintaining a partial vacuum in the receiver. On uncovering one of the suction inlets dust, ashes and clinkers are drawn swiftly through the duct and into the receiver, passing through the water spray which quenthes the ashes and prevents the dust mingling with the air drawn through the fan. When the receiver is filled, it is discharged into the storage bin, we if desired, the functions of storage bin and received may be combined. Eresion occurs chiefly at the bends in the dust. These are provided with heavy detack able backs of chilled cast iron or manganese steel, and require replacement ordinarily at intervals of about eighteen months.

The operation of this system is very satisfactory, particularly as regards simplicity and freedom from dust in the boiler room. The suction action is quite powerful, clinkers being handled easily -even brickbats thrown into the ducts are drawn up into the receiver under the impulse of the strong, induced draught. As generally installed the capacities run up to 16 or 18 tons per

Catching Cobras With Hook and Line

It was our privilege a short time ago to revisit Kurnool, where we spent five years as missionaries. Almost the only old workers we saw were faceb and his wife. I appointed Jacob as colnorteur. He sells more books than any other I know of anywhere in India: find him everywhere, at the new milway station, in the bazaars, at the schools and bungalows of the officials, and he will not leave till he has sold some hooks.

Jacob is a geneus. When a cobra killed some of our children's pet rabbits "Pil eatch the snake with a fishhook!" He put a frog on the hook, tied s strong string at the other end of the hook and let the frog hop around infront of the wall in which the snake lived. Sure enough the snake swallowed the froz and the hook, and when Jacob pulled in his line, he pulled the deadly cobra out of the wall and killed it .-

TODACCO FOR PRISONERS.

(Lingston Standard.) It does seem a great pity-both for themselves and the officers of the institutions that the prisoners in our penitentiaries are not allowed tobacco in moderate measure. The nerves of a man secustomed to the use of tobsero must suffer through sudden deprivation; and by his consequent very iraseibility and irritability he must be a harder man to handle and to discipline. Would it not, therefore, be well to allow tobaccousers a moderate amount of tehneco each week? It would make it easier ail around: and it then a prisoner were still refractory he could be punished by a complete deprivation of the weed until a complete deprivation of the week until reasonableness of the thing.

HOW THE WORLD WENT ROUND.

Little Margaret had just heard from her friends in the geography class that the world was round, and that it turned once in every 24 hours. She put that information into a little corner of her brain and thought very hard about it.

That night after she went to bed she could not go to sleep. Nine o'clock came and 10 o'clock, and still she held her eyes wide awake, staring out into the Eark. Then grandmother peeped in and found ittle Margaret still awake at half-past 10. "Why, child, what is the matter? Why aren't you asleep?"

Little Margaret finally said. "Why, grandme, I am afraid to go to sleep, because when the world turns around I am fraid I'll fall off it."

YAWNING.

A good, wide, open-mouthed vawn is a splendid thing for the whole body. A vawn is Nature's demand for rest. Some people think they only yawn because they are sleepy. But this is not so. You yawn because you are tired. You may the Laurentian range of mountains. be sleepy also, but that is not the real cause of your vawning. You are sleepy because you are tired. Whenever you feel like yawning, just yawn. Don't try to suppress it. If you are afraid of offending somebody, suppose you step out of the room. Then yawn to your heart's of the giobe, these mountains came upcontent. Put your hand over your mouth if you want to, but let the yawn come. And if you are where you can stretch, at the same time that you yawn, just stretch and yawn. This is Nature's way of stretching and relaxing the muscles. Don't be afraid to open your mouth wide and yawn and stretch whenever you feel like it. Indeed, if you are very tired, but do not feel like yawning, there is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight back chair and, lift. ing the feet from the floor push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide, and make yoursif vawn. Those tense nerves will relax, the contracted muscles will stretch, and the whole body will be rested. Do this two or three times when you are tired, and see what it will do for you.

CHILDREN AND MONEY. (The Christian Herald.)

My father was a minister with children. My mother was ready to enter college with her brothers before the day of the woman's college. Now that I have children of my own I am thankful for the thoughtful training which we six children had. We each had a small allowance, and at the close of the year. if in our home-made diaries we could show a balance in our favor, the amount of money we had saved was doubled and placed to our account in the savings bank. We then became the proud possessors of a bank book. The habit of saving, with wise supervision to prevent miserliness, makes all the difference between plenty and want in later years.

MOUNTAINS WEARING OUT.

According to Agassiz, the Laurentian Highlands Oldest Land in World.

Stretching across Canada, north of the St. Lawrence, and ending in the regions about the source of the Mississippi, runs These hills are really mountains that are almost worn out, for they are the oides land in America, and, according to Agas siz, the oldest in the world, says the Atlantic Monthly. In the days when there was nothing but water on the face a long island of primitive rock with uni versal ocean chating against Its shores. None of the other continents had put in their appearance at the time America was thus looking up.

The United States began to come to light by the gradual updfing of this land to the north and the appearance of the tops of the Alleghenies, which were the next in order. Later, the Rockies started up. The United States grew southward from Wisconsin and westward from the Blue Ridge. An early view of the country would have showed a large island which is now Northern Wisconsin, and a long, thin tongue of this primitive rock sticking down from Canada into Minnesota, and these two growing States looking out over the waters at the mere beginnings of mountain ranges east and west. They were waiting for the rest of the United States to appear.

The douche massage, the most fun of the Aix treatments, consists of gen era! massage, done usually by two skilled operators under a continuous flow of sulpnur water at wny temperature proscribed, the douche lasting about ten minutes. The effect of this treatment is really marvellous, and besides its efficacy is very scothing and agreeable to the patient.
