Which of These Pictures Best Represents Your Stable?

If your stable interior is of wood, you'll do well to tear down those old, unsightly stalls and manure pits—and build new ones of concrete.

In fact, the entire stable—inside and out—should be built of concrete.

This is the modern material—it has the merits of sturdiness, endurance, and economy—and is sanitary.

The farmer himself can, by its use, make many little improvements that, with any other material, would require the employment of skilled labor.

If you would know something of the possibilities of concrete, fill out the coupon and send it to us. By return mail, we will send you a copy of our free 160-page book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete."

In this book you'll find complete instructions for the construction of almost everything you can think of, in the way of farm buildings, floors, vats, troughs, etc., etc.

Nowadays, for a farmer not to know how to mix and use concrete, is to confess himself away behind the times.

"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete" will not only inform you—it will also interest you.

"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete"

Tells you how to use concrete in constructing:

Resignation of Two Ministers.

A special meeting of the Hamilton Presbytery was held in Hamilton last week to deal with the resignation of two ministers and a call extended by the congregation of Binbrook and Saltfleet in the presbytery of Toronto. After 16 years service Rev. Charles H. Lowry resigned from the pastorate of St. Andrew's Church, Hagersville, giving as his reason for doing so that he considered a change would be beneficial to congregation and a concerned. The members of the congregation did not want him to leave and a committee was appointed to ask him to reconsider the matter but he remained firm and the resignation was finally accepted, to take effect on October 23rd, and the necessary arrangements were made to declare the pulpit vacant. Rev. D. M. Buchanan was appointed interim moderator.

Buried in Gravel Pit.

A fatal and most deplorable accident took place at Fawcett's gravel pit, about two miles west of Hagersville, on Thursday morning, whereby one of Walpole's most highly respected and prosperous young farmers, in the person of George Ward, lost his life, and his hired man Alfred Smith was injured, although it is hoped not seriously. They were drawing sand and reached the gravel pit shortly after seven o'clock, starting to dig on the west side of the pit under an overhanging bank of earth. When about one-third of the load was on and the men were working directly underneath the bank it caved in burying Mr. Ward completely beneath about 18 inches of earth. Mr. Smith partially escaped but was covered to the shoulders, being unable to extricate himself or to render any assistance to his employer. It was almost three-quarters of an hour before any person were cognizant of the accident. Messrs. James Fawcett and a young man named King went over to do some stripping and hearing moans rushed to the rescue. James Aude, who was driving by, also rendered assistance but by the time Smith was released Mr. Ward was beyond earthly aid. It is supposed he died about the time Mr. Fawcett arrived as the latter claims to have heard him gasp two or three times and then all was still. Dr. McDonald was soon upon the scene and after attending to Mr. Smith, ordered the body of the unfortunate victim conveyed to his home, deeming an inquest unnecessary. Mr. Ward leaves a widow and one child to mourn his untimely end.

The Hunting Season

Local hunters are asking each other what they will do about their hunting trips this fall, now that it is decided to extend the time for shipping dogs out of the infected rabies district from September 7th until December 7th. Muzzels will probably come off the animals on September 7th, but according to a new edict it will be forbidden to take dogs out of the infected districts until three months later, or December 7th. This practically includes all the hunting season. Some hunters may abandon their trips if they cannot take their dogs along. The penalty for taking dogs from infected districts is $200. The infected district is bounded on the east by the counties of Simcoe and York, so that every town in Western Ontario comes under the prohibition.
