FEEDING YOUNG HEIFERS. Good breeding will not make well developed heifers unless they are well fed. It is absolutely folly to expect that heifer calves will develop into first class cows if they are stunted when they are young.

SOIL MOISTURE AND WEEDS. Moisture is the limiting factor in crop production—this being the case it is impossible to get any crop out of the soil, but how much of it gets into the soil and how long it stays there is of great importance.

WHAT THEY LOST. British Railways Suffered Over £500,000 Worth. London, Aug. 28.—British railways lost considerably more than £500,000 as a result of two days' strike last week.

Many farmers are grazing all their stock in the same pasture fields. When stock are kept in conjunction with other stock, they pasture the grass so closely that the cattle may have trouble in obtaining enough to satisfy their appetites and their needs.

THE ONCE DESPISED POTATO. The potato was not always the popular and useful vegetable that it is today among civilized peoples. For instance, Turgot, the most eminent of all French statesmen, in so far as efforts to improve the agricultural and economic conditions of the country were concerned introduced the potato among other new food plants and grasses.

SOMETHING NEW IN BARNS. M. S. Yoder, a farmer living at Shipshewana, Indiana, is the designer and builder of a unique cement barn. He is now drawing up the plans and specifications for the construction.
