Frank Etiquette

Jan should never be spread with the fingers. It makes bad impression when you shake hands with any one.

Drinking from the saucer is not only a mark of ill-breeding, but also an indication of great thirst, and early morning usually best corrected.

Make as little noise as possible while eating. It is inconsiderate to draw the conversation.

Never speak when your mouth is full. Arguments punctuated with broad crumbs are not always convincing.

Endeavor not to laugh when you are drinking. Tea stains are not easily removed.

Do not unbutton your waistcoat when half way through the meal. It is better to let out the strap before you sit down.

Never say, "What's this?" when you know perfectly well what it is. If you don't like it give it to the owner.

Avoid looking intently at your neighbor's plate. He has to eat what's on it not you.

A Christmas Treat for Stockmen.

The annual Christmas Number of "The Farmer's Advocate and Home Magazine" embodies all the necessary characteristics of a holiday number of an agricultural and home magazine. The articles and illustrations, while dealing with rural affairs, are well suited to the spirit of the season. Stockmen will be highly pleased with the illustrated articles from writers in the home land. Sheep in "British Husbandry," by Arch. MacNeilage, is a very interesting and instructive article, setting forth the methods followed by sheep-breeders and feeders in Scotland. "Making Christmas Beef," written by a celebrated Scotch feeder, is an article which will interest all those who make cattle fattening a part of their farm operations. Prof. J. A. McLean, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College traces the history and development of the Morgan horse in America from its inception until the present time, proving that the breed has a place in the country's economy. The two articles, "A Canadian Prophet of Country Life," and "An American Prophet of Country Life," show the possibilities which lie before the country-bred boy, and should prove an incentive to all these who call the farm their home. "The Summer's Work at Weldwood," and "Forty-five Tons of Apples," will interest all the readers who have been patiently awaiting for results from the latest undertakings of the management of this agricultural journal. That it is of value to test and weigh milk is shown by "A Short History of Cow-testing." Humors in the form of a very excellent article by John M. Gunn, should cause a melancholy to brighten the face of the most languid. One man doing the work formerly done by two or three, is depicted, both in type and illustrations, by an article by J. H. Grisdale, which recommends the use of large implements as labor-savers. The Home Magazine is a most essential department of such an issue, and the beautiful illustrations, poetry and literary sections, go a long distance toward making this the greatest holiday number of the paper. All regular subscribers receive the issue gratis, and until the supply is exhausted, new subscribers also will receive a copy free. Non subscribers may obtain copies at 50 cents each. We feel quite sure that to a great majority of us the Christmas spirit is a very real and abiding spirit, says the Buffalo News; it is a time of kindness and unselfishness, of open-handed giving and tender thoughts. So true is this that we are quite sure that if the Christmas shoppers only realize just what useless procrastination and delay meant there would be no need for the annual appeal. It is only necessary to remember that before any of us can much enjoy Christmas there are thousands of men and women, young girls and boys who must wait upon us; they are required to be cheerful and to do their duty with alacrity, and yet because of our delays they are often compelled to work long hours overtime, so that the days just before Christmas, instead of being days of joyous anticipation to them are simply days filled with weariness and pain. If a selfish appeal is necessary all that is needed is to point out that it is the early shopper that gets the cream of the good things that are provided in the stores as aids to the good work of Santa Clause.

For Emergency Gifts

For the last moment gifts one should always have at hand some boxes of candy and perhaps a few very fine flowers. One, for instance, might rather have a single orchid than all the carnations in the shops while a gardenia is the most admired of all blooms by the average young girl. Either of these exotic gifts may be put up in a little box and decorated with a spray of fern or holly, so that it will look attractive. For the big hearted woman who always at the last moment adds another name or two to her Christmas list what could be better than silk stockings? These she may buy and have in hand in assorted sizes, and when a name pops in to her memory all she needs to do is to tie the silken affair in a pretty box and they are ready to send on their way. Having a few such auxiliary gifts in the house saves the busy woman much disappointment.

How Turkeys of 1901 Compared with 1911

From Hamilton Times

About this time of year the attention of all particularly householders, is generally focused on the market reports, and the paragraph that is accorded the most attention is that relative to the cost of poultry. The mothers are wondering if after expending a suitable amount on Santa Claus remembrances, they will be able to purchase for the "big dinner" a turkey, or if they will have to content themselves with a duck or chicken or roast beef. They are recalling the turkey tribe was as plentiful as could be desired, and the price was with the range of all. Following is the table of prices for the past ten years on the local market for December:

	1901	1906	1910	1911
Turkey, lb. 9-10	14-18	25-27	18-23	25-27
Ducks, pr. 60-90	75-81	1.50-2.25	1.50-1.50	1.50-1.50
Chicken " 40-70	50-51	80-1.50	75-82	75-82

The perusal of the prices fairly gives one the shivers if they try to figure out what the price will be ten years from now if the present rates are continued. Ten years ago turkey was much cheaper than chicken to-day. At that time there was plenty offered, according to the statements of the Times file. But evidently year by year the price was forced higher, until in 1906 turkey was 5c. a lb. higher than in 1901. Chicken had advanced 25 to 30c. a pair, and ducks had nearly doubled in price. The cry of the day was "remember the prices of last year." The Saturday morning market before the annual feast saw turkey at 25 to 27 cents a pound. Towards noon, however, the price dropped a little and the king of the feathered tribe were offered as low as 23 cents. Ducks and chicken had doubled in price in five years, however, a little better than for the past three Christmas seasons. Reports are that poultry of all kinds will be plentiful, that "Turks" will be offered in such quantities that the price will not be higher than 22c. According to those who claim to know, in the vicinity of London and up around Jarvis and Hagersville, from where the most of the turkey crop offered in Hamilton is brought, turkey is very much in evidence in the farmyards and the same condition prevails regarding chickens and ducks. The news will be welcome indeed to all, and the price column will be watched with considerable interest for the rise or fall as the case may be. It must be some consolation to many to feel, that the increase of the price cannot combine at the same time a good reason is offered. Farmers who for years had not raised turkeys and other poultry realized the immense profits to be made with that stock, and went into the business within the past two years. Now the supply is becoming large and according to the price will be forced down. "Let us hope to see the consumer the better," will probably be the slogan of all Hamilton householders.

The Reward of Thrift

"There is nothing more admirable than thrift, and there is nothing more pitiable than when the accumulations of thrift are pocketed by the rapacious harpies who prey upon the small investor," says the Economist, Eng.

It is therefore not only desirable, but it is absolutely necessary that we should have some plan of investment under which we may be putting aside from week to week or month to month a portion of our earnings make provision against the "Rainy Day," and this plan is afforded by the Canadian Government's Annuities Act, which was approved by Members of both Houses of Parliament. The benefits to be derived from the purchase of a Government Annuity as a means of making provision for old age, may be said, far more bountiful than these which may be derived from any other safe investment, and far greater than the people have any idea of, simply for the reason that with every payment of Annuity is returned a portion of the purchase money together with compound interest at 4 per cent. If the Annuitant lives the average number of years he may be expected to live according to mortality experience, he will receive back all that he paid in as well as the interest thereon. But this is not all, for should he survive this expectation the Annuity will not cease, but will go on until his death. It seems paradoxical that a man can use his principal without his income becoming less, but this is made possible under the Annuities System.

The age of five is the earliest age at which payments for the purchase of an Annuity may begin, but the longer it is deferred the larger, of course, will be the amount received. For example, the payment of $1 a week by a man of 25 until he is 65, would give him an Annuity from the latter age of $258.28, payable quarterly; while if he continued paying until he was 60, his Annuity would be $397.36. In either case, if he died before the date fixed for the Annuity to begin all his payments with compound interest at three per cent. would be refunded to his legal representatives. For a slightly increased payment the Annuity would be guaranteed for 10 years certain, or for life whichever should be the longer. Everyone should apply for information in regard to this most provident system of saving—a system if adopted will bring as its reward an old age of Comfort, Happiness and Dignity. Literature descriptive of its features, and tables showing the cost on different plans, may be obtained at the Post Office or on application to the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa, to whom letters go free of postage.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

Peter L. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay in bed in exhaustion and excess in youth. I became very dependent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, who an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Dr. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in medical doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so."
