Boughner-Matthews.

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 13, at seven o'clock, a very quiet wedding was solemnized at the Waterloo St. Methodist parsonage, Stratford, when Alfred M. Boughner and Lulu M. Matthews, both of Woodhouse, were united in marriage by the Rev. W. E. Milson. After spending a few days at the home of the groom's brother-in-law, L. A. Fleming, the happy couple returned to Simcoe on Saturday morning. The best wishes of numerous friends will follow them to their new home near Lynn Valley.

Berry-Edwards.

On Monday of this week—Xmas Day—the home of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Edwards was the scene of the marriage of their only daughter Clara May to Mr. William H. Berry of Niagara Falls, the marriage ceremony being performed by Rev. A. C. Eddy, B. D., pastor of the Methodist Church. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Laura Smetzer of St. Thomas, Wesley Edwards acting as groomsmen. Following the congratulations a sumptuous repast was served in the dining-room. Their Jarvis friends will wish the newly-married couple happiness and prosperity in their home at Niagara Falls.

Have you seen our new line of tooth brushes. They are a good sample. The Record.

A group of half a dozen physicians all eminent; a sheet of paper; a pencil. With the latter one of the group draws a pulley, a cord over the pulley, a tree, a bough from which the pulley hangs. To one end of the cord is attached a stone; to the other end clings a monkey. The stone balances the monkey. If the monkey proceeds to climb up the cord, what will happen? Will the stone rise or fall? Heated discussion; break-up of the party; no result. Can any reader help to settle this question?

"Be reverent before nature and honest with yourself and your art will ring true every time. All of you, it is true, will not sing the song of the nightingale, because you were not all born nightingales; but blackbird's lay is sweet, and the oriole fill the woods with melody. Even the homely robin and linnnet have modest little notes of their own which are pleasant to the ear of a dewy April morning. Of all the songsters in creation there is only one, I believe, whose lay is universally condemned—and that is the parrot.

Just as you make others happy will you be happy yourself.

Her Last Sleep.

(In memory of Mrs. David Vokes, Sr., who died Dec. 11, 1912.)
She is sleeping, sweetly sleeping,
Do not mourn for her sad weeping;
Stay not, watchful vigil keeping;
Come away and let her sleep.
She is sleeping, gently sleeping,
With arms folded o'er her breast;
Do not bend above her weeping;
Come away and let her rest.
She is sleeping, calmly sleeping,
Let us therefore turn away,
From the graveside gently weeping,
She has gone to realms of day.

Don't be a Fault-finder.

From the time you enter the workshop, store or office where you are employed to the time you leave it at the close of your day's work, it is your duty to use your time and attention in such a way as to be of the best service possible to your employer. During working hours your time belongs to the man for whom you are working, and time saved is money earned. So don't waste your employer's time finding fault with your job, the poor tools you have to work with, etc.

The man who never met with obstacles never lived. We all have our troubles, always had them, and so long as we maintain our material lives we will have them and you must expect to have your share. To grumble and worry about your troubles is to make your way so much the harder.

If your employer happens to give you a difficult piece of work to do don't lose time kicking and fussing about it, but go ahead and do the best you can. The successful men are those who know how to obey orders to the best of their ability without finding fault. He who would command must first learn to obey. And the obedient, trustworthy employee is not the man who wastes his employer's time by grumbling and finding fault with circumstances.

The ability to do the right thing at the right time with a willing hand is a talent; better than that—if it is an art, and one than which there are few more valuable. So don't waste time grumbling and fretting o'er your difficulties. But learn to keep your tongue still and your hands busy doing the right thing at the right time.

Greeley's Retort

An acquaintance met Horace Greeley one day and said: "Mr. Greeley I have read your paper." "Have you?" said the editor; "well that's too bad," and he went his way. The next morning Mr. Greeley met his subscriber again, and said: "I thought you had stopped the Tribune." "So I did." Then there must be some mistake," said Mr. Greeley. "for I just came from the office and the presses were running, the clerks were as busy as ever, the composition was going on the same as yesterday and the day before." "Oh," ejaculated the subscriber, "I didn't mean that I had stopped the paper; I stopped only my copy of it, because I didn't like your editorials." "Pshaw!" retorted Mr. Greeley. "It wasn't worth taking up my time to tell me such a trifle as that. My dear sir, if you expect to control the utterance of the Tribune by the purchase of one copy a day, or if you think to find any newspaper magazine worth reading that will never express convictions at right angles with your own, you are doomed to disappointments."
