LESSON IV—JULY 23, 1911.

Josiah's Devotion to God.—2 Chron. 34: 1-13.

Commentary.—1. Josiah's moral excellence (vs. 1, 2). 1. Josiah—He was the son of Amnon and Jedidah. His name means, "Jehovah supports," and from his having received this name it has been inferred that his mother was faithful to the God of Israel.

During the early years of his reign he must have been under the guidance of elders, and these, no doubt, were loyal to Jehovah. We may reasonably suppose that his mother exerted a beneficial influence over him. 2. Did... He left the brightest name for piety and religious zeal among all the successors of David. He shares with Hezekiah the praise of walking perfectly in the way of his father David.

11. Destroying idolatry (vs. 3-7). 3. Eighth year—When he was sixteen years old. Yet young—he was still young, although yet young—he was still young, although yet young—he was still young.

12. Repairing the Temple (vs. 8-13). 8. In the eighteenth year—At twenty-six years of age Josiah had sought the Lord, and had been long engaged in the task of enjoying idolatry.

13. The money—Josiah followed the example of Josiah in collecting money to repair the temple. The money had come not only from Judah, but also from the remnants of the other tribes of Israel.

honest and its services earnest efforts will be used to keep it in good repair. could skill of instruments of music.

PRACTICAL SURVEY. Topic.—Independence of Christian character.

I. The outgrowth of personal conviction. II. The basis of successful religious reform.

The outgrowth of personal conviction. It can not be said of Josiah that he was controlled by heredity or environment. His history proves rather that God dealt directly with every soul and "lighted every man that cometh into the world."

II. The basis of successful religious reform. Josiah and his country reaped great good as a result of his early devotion to God.

PRINCE OF WALES' INSIGNIA OF OFFICE

King and Queen Take Part in Quint Ceremony in Wales.

Carnarvon Castle the Scene of the Prince's Investiture.

Carnarvon, Wales cable—In the old and well preserved castle of Carnarvon, the young Prince of Wales was invested to-day with the insignia of his high office.

The quaint town, in festal attire, made a holiday, and drew within its borders thousands of Welshmen from the surrounding country. The weather was matchless, and two hours before the arrival of Their Majesties, with the Prince, great crowds had gathered along the route from Griffith's Crossing, where the Royal party alighted, to the castle gate.

From Castle Square to the first entrance into the castle, there were two processions, that of the Prince of Wales preceding that of Their Majesties by a few minutes.

The party proceeded to a raised platform in the centre of the great inner court yard, where the investiture took place, and the King and Queen appeared in the open air, and the choir sang "God Save the King."

This concluded the ceremony, with the exception of the procession outside the walls. Their Majesties' party and the Prince's party united, made a complete circuit outside the castle walls, and re-entering by the main front entrance, passed to their apartments and distributed preparatory to the return to Holyhead.

At the opposite end of the castle stands the Queen's gate, composed of two great towers, and at one time it have been part of the keep.

impregnable. It was here that the presentation of his son by King Edward I. The history of Carnarvon Castle is practically that of the relationship between Wales and England.

The first event in its war record occurred when the castle was still under construction in 1283, when the Welsh patriot Madoc in a successful raid destroyed part of the works.

Montreal reports to Bradstreet's say trade generally has held a steady tone during the past week. Very hot weather has had a tendency to lessen the volume of business actually moving.

Winnipeg reports say a good steady trade is reported from all parts of the country. Seasonable merchandise is moving briskly and a fair amount of sorting orders are coming forward.

Hamilton reports say retail and wholesale trade here continues seasonably good, and local industries are actively engaged.
