Entries for the Prize Farm's Contest

As the date approaches for the closing of the entries in the Interprovincial Prizes Dairy Farm's Competition that will be held this year throughout Ontario and part of the Province of Quebec, interest might succeed in capturing the interprovincial honors inasmuch as some exceptionally fine farms in that province are being entered in the contest.

This year Ontario has been divided into four districts. Ten prizes are being offered for the best farms in each of these districts. The farms will be judged in July. Entries close June 15.

A fifth district includes a portion of the Province of Quebec. Next year there will be a special contest between the prize winning farms this year in each of the four districts in Untario and extra prizes to decide the best farms in Ontario and Quebec. As some of the Quebec farms have been through several competitions last year, the First Prize was won by R. cease our efforts until it has been annihil-A. A Toronto Daily last week man aged 101 years had gone to the Coanand he is said to have gone at his own request. But how the report startles us that a man after fighting the battles of life for over 100 years has to end his days in a poorhouse! The despatch further stated that the old man had a son of 75 and two grandsons over 50 living in the same County. Naturally, the reader would think it strange that so bad a course inner history were known, it would probably be revealed that the son and grandsons are in almost as bad a plight as the old man, and that he preferred to go to the poorhouse rather than add to their burdens. The case is a pathetic one, but terrible is an old age of penury, and how important is it that we should regard youth, "as the springtime which soon departeth, and wherein we ought to plant and sow all provision for a long and happy life." If the old gentleman had been in receipt of a Canadian Government Annu ity, only $200 his presence in the homelo the son or the grandsons would have been a boon rather than a burden, and the coay corner would, no doubt, have been kep for him. He may have been a sober and industrious youth, but he hud no system of investment which was absolutely safe which would yield him a bountiful return for the amounts which he might from time to time save; and so his money was Briefly stated, the Fielding-Knox pact spent or lost as fast as it was carned But there is no such excuse for the boys for by the Canadian Government Annui ties Act they are provided with a system by which their savings will be taken care of and invested by the Government, and under which they will receive a return larger than it would be possible to secure from any other safe investment because Grass seed, garden, field and other when the Annuity begins each payment absorbs a portion of the purchase money the Annuitiant lives the average number of years he may be expected to live he will get back all that he had paid in with accumulated interest at 4%. If he lives cease but will be continued to him every a wage earner or person on small salary can provide for the rainy day.

American Grange and Reciprocity

The National Grange Monthly, the official organ of the United States National Grance, puts into even clearer and more concise form the views of that body re grows. It begins to look as if Quebec garding reciprocity with Canada than was done when representatives of the Grange appeared before a committee of the United States Senate at Washington. The reciprocity agreement, says The National Grange Monthly, will involve "a fearful injustice" to American agriculture. The putting forward of the agreement, we are told, creates "the greatest agricultural crisis in the history of the United States," involving as it does the abolition of protection to the American farmer against outside competition, while leaving him still under obligations to buy his supplies in a protected market.

More significant still, from a Canadian standpoint, is the declaration of the official organ of the American Grange as to held by the Quebec government, they are the attitude which that body will assume in good condition for the contest which if reciprocity is adopted. If the treaty is leads many to believe that some of them ratified, says the journal, and American are likely to carry off the interprovincial "then the whole protective system of the honors. In the provincial contest held United States must go, as we will not ardson of Caledonia, Haldimand County, trade basis that is being forced upon the Third to E.
