

How to Care for Babies During Heat of Summer

People often say that babies are too little to feel the heat, and that for this reason, are not much to be perturbed in the summer as are their mothers and fathers, and big brothers and sisters. Yet I think if any one of us was once covered from head to foot with the agonizing scorching eruption called prickly heat, or have to lie for hours amid the suffocating pillows of a stuffy coach, we would find plenty of cause to lift our voices in quavering protest, and we would probably do it quite as often as the "bawling crying" baby, says a Cleveland Plain Dealer writer.

How can we make the baby happier during the heat? In the first place, nothing will lessen his suffering as surely as perfect cleanliness, not only of his own little body, but of everything round him. The tepid sponging off at night and five minutes at four or five times every morning will help him wonderfully to withstand the heat. Frequently found in the tender folds of the baby's skin during the hot weather. These must be treated with the greatest care. If he is to know comfort at all, after thoroughly washing every part of his skin, a piece of old linen (which has been previously boiled and may be a napkin for this purpose), may be well greased with lard or oil, or vaseline, and laid between the inflamed fold of skin, which will soon heal, particularly if this treatment is followed by a frequent dusting with talcum powder. An old-fashioned remedy, and one which is simple powdered starch shaken over the baby's body through a thin, old linen bag.

It is rather an open question whether or not the body should wear wool in summer. Personally, I feel that the child is three years old it is not safe for him to go one moment without some wool over his stomach. But I know there are many careful mothers who differ from me in this. No matter how well a baby may be, his stomach is always his most vulnerable spot. Sudden congestion, cold caused by wet linen or muslin next to his skin, even the usual atmospheric change after a thunderstorm may give him a serious illness. He needs great protection over his stomach. I feel that the ideal clothing for a baby is a "band"—a little woven band which has some wool in it. It is light, it simply covers the susceptible part of the baby's body, it leaves the neck and arms perfectly cool and free, and this garment is put on as he will need but two others, a petticoat made of the lightest summer weight flannel (which contains a little wool) and a slip, or dress, loose in the neck, short in the sleeves, and without starch. It need have no buttons in the neck, and it is still a baby that is unable to walk or exercise his limbs by himself, is it taking some risk, particularly in a climate of sudden changes, where there is no degree of permanent heat for any length of time?

The baby will feel the nervous strain of the hot weather less if he can be kept quiet hours every day. He must not be in the dining room or kitchen, and it would be well to arrange his little bed in a quiet, shady, upstairs, corner, where he may be trained to lie quietly amusing himself and also where he may sleep undisturbed when it is time to sleep. Instead, a rather hard mattress is quite sufficient, and the covering but a thin, knitted blanket thrown over him when actually asleep.

MAKING GOOD TIME.
Capt. Lawson was owner and pilot of the packet New Orleans, plying the Mississippi, the famous boat days of '50. Old Mississippi broke banks. There were miles of rushing water. Only an experienced eye could tell the channel. Capt. Lawson had been at the wheel for thirty-six hours. He was exhausted from loss of sleep. Rastus, a colored pilot aboard, was called to the captain.

"Do you see that North Star?" asked the captain.
"Yes, boss."
"Well, hold this boat on that star."
"Yes, boss."
When the captain awoke an hour later his boat was winding in and out among the trees. The captain was ignorant. "I thought I told you to hold this boat on the North Star?" he cried.
"Lar, boss, we's done passed dat star long ago."—Housekeeper.

Strained Back and Side.
"While working in a saw mill," writes C. E. Kenney, from Ottawa, "I strained my back and side so severely I had to go to bed. Every movement caused me torture. I tried different oils and liniments, but wasn't helped till I used Nervine. Even the first application gave considerable relief. In three days I was again at work. Other men in the mill were suffering with tremendous benefit too." An honest record of nearly fifty years has established the value of Nervine, price 25c.

THE FLY FIGHT.
(Montreal Gazette.)
The City Hall authorities are entering on a campaign for suppressing the disease carrying fly. They have issued instructions for householders advising that all decaying matter should be removed, disinfected or removed with promptness, that food should not be exposed, and that the cleanliness should be maintained not only in the house, but in their surroundings. All this is good, and the better it is observed the more wholesome will be the city. And if the city hall acts as well as advises cleaner streets and lanes will help on the good cause. THE CENSUS IN GERMANY.
Germany, like other countries, is taking the census this year, and, if we can trust a Paris contemporary, some of the questions can scarcely come within the category of "pertinent." Here are examples of the demands: "Are you lawfully married or not? When were you married? Have you been divorced? What age was your wife at the time of the marriage? Are you or your wife subject to nervous ailments? If you have children under 12 months, state how they are nourished? Are you blind, or simply in one eye. Do you use hognettes, spectacles or pince-nez? What size boots and shoes does your wife take? Do you drink alcohol? These questions, if they are correctly given by our contemporary, must recall Artemus Ward's account of how he took the census. "For instance, 'Have you had the measles, or, how many?'—New Orleans Picayune.

The orange blossom crowns her,
The bridal satin gowns her,
The happy anthers ring,
Girlishness every day is over,
She goes to meet her lover
While Eden's voices sing.

The marriage vow is spoken,
The wedding bread is broken
With blessings and with tears,
These two set out together
Through storm and sunny weather
To journey through the years.

Fate send your choicest dower,
Great joy and plenty shower
From blue and kindly skies;
Earth's music and its laughter
And gladness ever after
And love that never dies!

So life goes on forever,
Hands join no more to sever,
The roses crown the June!
And down the aisle a-swinging
We hear the angels singing
A joyous hymn to the Columbian.

POLLUTING THE LAKES.
(Belleville Ontario.)
We are beginning to understand that the fertility of our soils is going to the cities and the cities are sending it down to the sea in an effort to dispose of the sewage. The Great Lakes have become infected with typhoid fever. So extension is the evil that the House of Representatives has now taken the matter up. The southern end of Lake Michigan is a perfect plague spot of typhoid fever, because of the sewage dumped into it from South Chicago and neighboring communities. In the State of New York, a law goes into effect next month, prohibiting the disposal of sewage in any lake or stream. The sewage dumped into the Potomac river has given rise to three deaths a day from typhoid fever in the capital of the republic.

GLASS SHEATHING FOR SHIPS.

English Patent Provides for Novel Form of Protection.

After an ocean-going steamer has run for a few months its bottom becomes so encrusted with growth of barnacles that its speed is considerably reduced. In fact after six months the coal consumption will increase as much as 50 per cent. In some cases the coal consumption of a vessel has to be sent into drydock and scraped and painted, at great expense. Numerous methods of overcoming this very serious drawback to ocean navigation have been proposed, but nothing has ever really solved the problem. Barnacles will not attach themselves to glass, and so the experiment has been tried of covering the ship's under-water parts with glass plates. Steel and glass, however, have a different ratio of expansion and contraction, and a slight rise in temperature of the steel to expand until it broke the glass. An Englishman, who just taken out a patent on a process which is designed to solve this difficulty, instead of placing the glass directly on the steel plates of the vessel he first puts on a thin layer of wood pulp and then cements the glass to that. The wood pulp acts as a cushion and keeps the glass from breaking by expansion or contraction.

The Neglected Grave of General St. Clair.
Congressman Curtis H. Gregg is trying to induce Congress to erect a suitable monument over the grave of Major-General Arthur St. Clair, of Revolutionary fame, who lies in a neglected grave at Greensburg. In 1832 a plain monument of brown sandstone was erected over his grave and the Masonic fraternity of Greensburg continued to maintain it. The monument is fast disintegrating, and it will be but a matter of time before it will be a pile of rubble. The monument is now almost obliterated. Grass and weeds are suffered to grow on his burial lot, and only occasionally is it cleared, and many have passed it by judging not that the ashes of one of America's noblest men lay near—Philadelphia Record.

"No," said the doctor emphatically. "No. On the contrary."
"What's the contrary of eating two eggs?"
"Laying two eggs," came in deep solemn tones from Field.

AN INFANT'S STRENGTH.
Myth of Hercules Has Some Truth In It.
The myth of the infant Hercules, who strangled two serpents in his cradle, may not have been a myth at all, but a fact, says the London Aelegraph. Modern science has proved that it is quite a possible feat. The new-born babe is relatively much stronger than a full-grown man, according to the result of medical tests: "The muscles of the forearm are surprisingly vigorous. A few hours after birth a baby suspended by its finger to a stick, or to the finger of a person, can hold itself in the air for 10 seconds. In the case of a particularly strong infant, for as long as half a minute. At four days old the child's strength has increased, and the time is two and a half minutes for 98 per cent. of babies. The maximum is attained at a fortnight. Few infants can hang on for more than one and a half minutes, though one exceptional young Hercules remained suspended for two minutes and 18 seconds." "The average child, after that he still hung on with his left for 15 seconds longer." It is not that the babies were put through these horizontal bar gymnastics at an early age of from one hour to a fortnight.

BRITISH LABOR NOTES.

Newcastle shipyard laborers on Tuesday passed a resolution asking the executive to apply for an advance of wages in shipyards similar to that asked for by other centres.

The Welsh Miners' Conference, at Cardiff, have determined, failing a national strike, to recommend a general stoppage in South Wales coalfields, which employ 200,000 men.

A dispute between shipyard platers and their helpers resulted in nearly 1,000 men being thrown idle at Messrs. Cammell, Laird's Birkenhead yard, where a Dreadnought is being built.

The present state of the spinning section of the cotton trade is so bad that the general committee of the masters' federation have recommended a stoppage for the whole of Whit-week and the following Monday.

The miners employed at the Elsecar Main Colliery have unanimously accepted the new price-list agreed upon by the arbitrators. One of the men's representatives described those who had acted independently of the main body as "Judas-asses."

The Manchester District Institution of Gas Engineers held their 161st general meeting at Doncaster, on Saturday. An instructive visit was paid to the new colliery at Bentley, and, at the business meeting, there was an important discussion on an education scheme for gas-fitters.

Prior to the sailing of the White Star liner Olympic from Belfast Lough, on Wednesday, about 100 firemen ceased work, stating that they were dissatisfied with the terms of their engagement. They were conveyed in tugs to Belfast wharf, where substitutes were procured.

At a meeting of the executive of the General Union of Weavers and Textile Workers at Huddersfield concerning the demand of weavers in that district for more pay and shorter hours, it was decided that the result of the ballot of members now in progress should not be made public until June 10, when another meeting of delegates will be held.

Cheering and singing girl workers on strike at the Belfast rope works paraded the city to collect money for a strike fund.

By a ballot of trade unionists in the Leigh district, Mr. Thomas Greenall has been selected as the Labor candidate at the next election.

It has been decided to close the Stanley Drift Colliery, Durham, and the men and boys employed thereat, numbering about 500, have received notices, terminating on June 3.

About 400 miners at Langwith are still standing idle owing to a rope-breaking at the shaft of No. 1 pit last week-end. Work has been resumed at No. 2 pit, but not until next Monday is it expected that No. 1 pit will be worked.

Members of the Amalgamated Union of Labor on Tyneside have decided to apply for an advance in wages in the shipyards of 2s on time rates and 10 per cent. on piece rates. An advance of half this amount was conceded in February.

The moulders of Sheffield district have made a demand for an extra shilling per week, but have been refused up to 42s. A conference was held on Monday, but no agreement came to, and the whole of the men are to be ballotted on the subject.

The annual conference of the Railway Clerks' Association was held at Liverpool on Saturday and Sunday, 167 delegates, representing 11,000 members, attending under the presidency of Mr. Latham, Norwich. Conference declared in favor of the nationalization of railways; asked for the inspection of railway clerks' offices declared to be insanitary; protested against the North-Eastern's alleged attempt to force clerks to undertake other duties during strikes; condemned the Lancashire and Yorkshire for alleged underpayment of clerical staff; and demanded the reversal of the Osborne Judgment. The State Insurance scheme was also considered.

HAVOC WROUGHT BY A DIAMOND
A recent night inspection of a station on the Midland division revealed the fact that the only waiting room was poorly lighted. Some of the kerosene lamps had no chimneys at all. One lamp was spruced up a bit by having a mutilated half chimney that by comparison threw a respectable light.

In inquiry the agent explained that the duty of taking care of the lamp fell to the baggage-man, who recently bought a diamond ring which he wore on all occasions. Cleaning chimneys at this particular station is accomplished by blowing into the globe and rubbing it until daylight is visible. The diamond in this instance wrought sad havoc with the chimneys, which were so badly etched by it that a slight heat knocked them into smithereens.—From the Northwest-ern.

"Mrs. Perry had a horrid time with the custom house officers on her return from London."
"In what way?"
"She wanted to make her pay duty on the thirty-nine articles in her new English prayer book."

PAINT FOR YOU.
It is for you, because it is you who wants it good. You know it costs more to put on poor paint than to put on good paint. Your house should be painted with good paints, with
