ISSUE NO. 10, 1911

EXTERNAL CLEANLINESS NOT THE WHOLE THING.

If There is Not an Occasional Housecleaning Inside, Ill Health and Disease Surely Follow.

The most important of all health rules is activity and cleanliness of the bowels. Any doctor will tell you there should be one or two free movements of the bowels every twenty-four hours.

Most people resort to salts, harsh pills, senna tea, griping waters, etc., with the result that for one day's relief they pay up with a week's misery of binding and constipation, necessitating the same heroic measures over and over again.

If your system requires aid, don't whip it like a tired horse—don't destroy the life of your bowels and intestines by harsh medicine—be sensible and use a time-tested medicine that cures constipation by removing its cause. What you should take is Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which regulate the bowels and get them into the habit of performing their necessary function and at a certain time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills accomplish this by toning, strengthening and enlivening the muscles of the stomach and bowels, there restoring natural conditions.

Thousands of men, women and children, who to-day are in the throes of misery, weaknes and ill health, can cure themselves quickly by Dr. Hamilton's Pills—can prevent backaches, bilious attacks, constipation, indigestion and all sorts of stomach distress by the use of this grand laxative tonic. REFUSE ANY SUBSTITUTE FOR DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS, price 25c. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

FAMOUS MISSIONARIES.

—They were many.

—How devoted they were.

—They went to all parts of the world.

—The golden jubilee of missions reminds us of them.

—There was Lidelia Fiske, pioneer of women's education in Persia.

—Beulah Woolston founded the famous Lochaw girls' school in Japan.

—Eliza Agnew was 'mother of a thousand daughters' in far-away Ceylon.

—Ann Husseltine Judson called the attention of our country to Siam.

—Mrs. Titus Coan began the education of Hawaiian girls in Hilo.

—Jane Williams, one of the earliest English missionaries, went to New Zealand in 1823 and worked there 68 years.

—Dr. Sarah F. Norris treated more than 15,000 patients annually at her dispensary in Bombay, India.

—Dr. Nanny J. Butler, sent to India in 1880, was the first English woman medical missionary.

—The first American medical missionary was the famous Dr. Clara Swain, a graduate of the Philadelphia Woman's Medical College, who died December 26, 1910 aged 76 years.

—Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, of Philadelphia, president of one of the first of American women's medical missionary organizations, was instrumental in sending Dr. Clara Swain to India in 1869, and thus in founding the first woman's hospital in all India.

THE BISHOP'S SILENCE.

(Munsey's Magazine.)

Judge Harlan is the master golfer of the Supreme Court. He can hold his own on the three-mile links at Chevy Chase with the youngest of his colleagues. These links, by the way, were the scene of one of his most famous stories.

He was playing with an Episcopal bishop who was a better churchman than golfer. The cleric struck at the ball five times, missing every stroke and finally hitting himself on the shin; but he said nothing, although his look spoke volumes. Justice Harlan, who had watched the proceedings, stepped up and said:

"Bishop, that is the most profane silence I ever heard!"

BIRDS KILLED BY GOLF BALLS.

Not long ago one of the players in a golf tournament at Melrose while making an approach shot killed a seagull and another player on coming on from his drive found that he had annihilated a weasel. Such incidents are not uncommon.

A player on the Girkdale links driving from the tee struck with his ball a bird at a distance of about forty yards. The ball travelled on with scarcely abated speed. The bird fell to the ground and when picked up was found not only to be dead—that was expected—but neatly decapitated. — From the Countryside Monthly.

NEW RAILWAY LINES.

Approximately 3748 miles of new railway lines were laid down in the United States in the year 1909, as compared with 2214 miles in 1908. The 1908 record was the smallest since 1897, when 2,109 miles were built. The net increase during the year is about 1 1-2 per cent., and 28 per cent. less mileage was built than in 1907.

WHY THE WIND BLOWS.

The Basic Principle, the Tendency of Hot Airs to Rise.

From "Nature and Science" in March St. Nicholas.

The wind, like other things of everyday life, rarely invites notice, unless it is unusually "high," and rarely do we hear the questions, "Why does the wind blow"

What is this wind that rushes "out of the nowhere into the here? Why should it blow at all, or why sometimes so gently and at other times with the resistless force of the hurricane?

The wind could have no power, it could not even exist, if the air had no weight, this weight having been shown to be about thirty-one grains for each one hundred cubic inches of air. When air is put in motion the effect is like that obtained by throwing a ball against an object. The harder you threw the ball the harder it will strike, and the greater the number of balls thrown at one time, the greater will be the force of the blow. When the wind is blowing, it strikes what it blows against, and the harder it blows (that is, the greater the speed of the air) the harder it will strike against the resisting object.

What causes the wind to blow, or why the air should be in motion is not easy to explain. Simply stated, it is caused by the tendency of hot air to rise and thus to form a partial vacuum, into which the cooler surrounding air rushes, in mush the same way as water, will rush downward to seek its level. If the earth were smooth, if it did not rotate, and if there were no sun, the air would be motionless. When the sun shines on a wide space of the earth, the air of that region becomes heated, this great volume fo warm air rises, and the cooler, heavier, surrounding air flows in to take its place. As the earth rotates, there tends to be formed a ring of heated and rising air with currents inflowing at the bottom and both sides. This is the condition that prevails near the equator, and causes the trade winds that blow so steadily. The rotation of the earth causes the wind south of the equator to flow toward the northwest, and that north of this line to flow toward the southwest.

What to Do for Sick Stomach

Do you belch up gas? Does your head feel light and dizzy. Is your tongue coated. Do you hawk and spit? Have you distress after eating and a gnawing sensation in the stomach? Is there a constant bad taste in the mouth and a rush of blood to the head? Do not despair of cure if you have not used "Nerviline;" it's the best stomach tonic known to science. It can be relied upon to cure every case promptly. It sends warmth and comfort to the tired organs that need assistance, corrects fermentation and gas belching, drives out dyspeptic pains, clears away bile and bilious feeling. Your appetite becomes enormous—and you digest and assimilate all you eat—this means you gain enough reserve vigor to cast off depression and thought of sickness. Nerviline will "set" you up— will make you well. Every doctor who has seen the formula of Nerviline is surprised how many ingredients of wonderful power and merit it possesses. Being suited to young and old alike, no household should be without Nerviline.

THE FIRE COMPANY DOG USEFUL

New York Sun.)

"Most people imagine a dog in a fire company's quarters is merely a pet, a sort of mascot; but they are badly mistaken," said an old member of the city force. "A good fire dog is a most valuable adjunct of the city's fire alarm system. His value comes in the late night and early morning hours. The gong strikes an alarm. The dog is on his feet at the first tap. Horses, aroused from their sleep are drowsy and slow. So are the firemen. But the dog is dashing about madly, yelping, barking and snapping at the horses' noses and legs. They are thoroughly aroused dodging the little animal's teeth, and so are the firemen by his incessant racket. The instant the chain drops on the door the horses are under full headway almost at the first jump. If it were not for the dog they wouldn't be aroused, and under good headway in less than a block."

GRANITE OF THE SOUTH.

When one speaks of granite the mind naturally reverts to Vermont. It is difficult to associate granite with any section of North America outside of New England, yet it must now be acknowledged to the credit of the South, that Georgia, North Carolina, Maryland and Virginia are producing large quantities of ston of good quality which insures the South a place in the market at any rate.

The annual output is now worth about $3,500,000 and the industry is growing. It may be of comparative interest to know that New England's output is about $9,000,000 worth of stone annually.—From the Chicago Tribune.

VICAR OF ONE PARISH 71 YEARS.

The Rev. Henry Martyn Sherwood, who recently completed seventy-one years as vicar of the parish of White Ladies, Ashton, has placed his resignation in the hands of the Bishop of Worcester.

Mr. Sherwood was graduated from Oxford seventy-six years ago and was ordained deacon in 1836. He accepted the living of White Ladies in 1839, and four years later was also appointed to the incumbency of Broughton Hackett, which he held until 1898. It is claimed for the retiring vicar that he is the oldest clergyman in the diocese of Worcester.—From the London Evening Standard.

FEBRUARY 27 IN HISTORY.

(Toronto Globe.)

1881-1900—These famous dates make a rare historic coincidence. The first is that of the disaster to a small British force on Majuba Hill: the second is that of the surrender of General Cronje with his whole force at Paardeburg. The Majuba Hill fight was an incident in the war which resulted from an attempt of the Transvaal Boers to regain the independence of which they had been deprived by a British decree of annexation a few years before. British legislation against slavery in 1833 was unsatisfactory to the Boers, who were then British subjects in Cape Colony. They migrated first to Natal, but in 1843 their colony there was broken up by the British Government. Again the Boers migrated, this time to the Orange River Valley, where in 1848 their settlement was again suppressed. The next migration was across the Vaal River, and the colony there, after having been recognized in 1852 as independent, was annexed by Britain in 1877. In December, 1880, the Boers once more declared themselves independent, and the resulting war was closed by the Pretoria convention of August, 1881, which granted them autonomy with some limitations. The discovery of gold in the Transvaal in 1884 was the beginning of further trouble, which led to the South African war of 1899-1900.

THE BROKEN DOLL.

In a dusty, sunless corner,
'Twixt the bureau and the wall,
Unlamented and forgotten,
Lay a poor, old broken doll.

Baby hollered when she smashed it
On the looking glass one day,
Hollered hard for half a minute,
Then forgot it right away.

Cuddled up a beauteous creature
With blue eyes and fluffy hair,
All forgetful of the other,
Lying bruised and battered there.

Then I said to Little Mother,
Trying hard to make a joke,
"Don't you see how Human Nature
Soon forgets a man that's broke?

But a day or two thereafter,
Baby started in to fret,
And we never could console her
With her fluffy, blue-eyed pet.

So we bought a raft of dollies,
Dollies big and dollies small,
But she threw them in a corner
And continued still to bawl.

Then it chanced, as I was trying
Once to coax her into play
That I crawled behind the bureau
Where the broken dolly lay.

So I threw it out to Baby,
And she clapped her hands in joy,
As she toddled out to mother
With her poor discarded toy.

How she covered it with kisses,
How she stroked its battered head;
How she hugged to her bosom
When she lugged it off to bed!

And I said to Little Mother,
As we knelt beside her cot,
"See the great eternal lesson
That our little child has taught.

"For as long as we are human
We shall never be content,
Till we grasp our first ideals,
Though they're battered, bruised and bent."

AMENDING THE UNIVERSE.

They (politicians) do not stop at advice. They actively interpose, take into their own hands matters that God seems to be mismanaging and undertake to set them right. It is clear to them that been so carelessly provided for, that without their vigilant management all wil go wrong.

EDUCATION VS. INSTINCT.

(Success Magazine.)

Jacob Wendell, jun., who plays the part of the dog in Maeterlinck's drama, was dining in a restaurant recently when a man, recognizing him as the actor, approached and said:

"Pardon me, but you take the part of the dog in 'The Blue Bird,' do you not? Of course, you don't know it, but I can really bark lots more like a dog than you."

"Well, you see," answered Wendell, "I had to learn."

"Here's where the Sheriff has the drop on me," remarked the murderer as he stepped on the scaffold.

NEW FRENCH TOYS.

Not long ago M. Lepine, the prefect of police, organized an annual toy competition, and the toy that wins a prize becomes, so they say, hall marked and is certain to attract attention.

The chief feature this season is called "Le Circuit de l'Est," thus named after the great aeroplane race through France a few months ago. It is very cleverly contrived and shows a biopiane and a monoplane revolving at a great speed around a church steeple.

Another contrivance, half toy, and half racing game, consists of four aeroplanes turning around a mast and rising one abovet the other. It contains the genuine sporting element. I noticed too, that wild beasts are plentiful, especially bears and tigers, although monkeys also are very well represented. Altogether toys have been very ingeniously treated this year.—From the Gentleman.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

The wisdom of William Sharp (Fiona Macleod): Those clear in soul are also clear in sight.

Our evil is too finite to disturb the infinite of god.

We all are wind harps casemental on earth, and every breath of God that falls may fetch some dimmest echo of a fain' refrain from even the worst strung of all of us.

People won't be preached to. Truth can be inculcated far better by inference, by suggestion.

I do not reverence the Bible or the Christian theology in themselves, but for the beautiful spirituality which breathes through them, like a vague wind blowing through intricate forests; and so far I reverence this spiritual breath in the worship of those whose views are so very different from my own.

I, too, will set my face to the wind and throw my handful of seed on high: it is loveliness I seek, not olvely things.

THE WHITE PEACE.

It lies not on the sunlit hill,
Nor in the sunlit gleam
Nor ever in any falling wave
Nor ever in the running stream—

But sometimes in the soul of man,
Slow moving through his pain,
The moonlight of a perfect peace
Floods heart and brain.

Every breath of God creates a new convolution in the brain of nature; and with every moment of change in the brain of nature new loveliness is wrought upon the earth.

Solomon says there is no delight like wisdom, and that wisdom is the heritage of age; but there is a divine unwisdom which is the heritage of youth, and I would rather be young for a year than wise for a cycle. There are some who live without the pulse of youth in the mind; on the day, in the hour, I no longer feel that quick pulse I will go out like the flwon flame. To be young, to keep young, that is the story and despair of life.

DIRECTLY TO GOD.

Massachusetts Man Files a Strange Conveyance With Taunton Registrar.

A unique instrument was filed a few days ago with the Taunton Registrar of Deeds by Richard A. George of North Attleboro, in which a tract of land in New Boston, a suburb of North Attleboro, was conveyed to the Lord of Hosts.

So far as known it was the first instrument filed in New England making such a conveyance.

In the deed the Lord is named as the grantee and the representatives of the Lord in the transaction were Charles Carpenter, E. S. Barstow, and A. H. Jemison, all of North Attleboro, who are described in the paper as being trustees of the Christian Workers' Union, says the Boston Globe. The grantor was Richard A. George.

The deed is couched in the ordinary legal expression, and declares that Richard A. George, of North Attleboro, in consideration of $1 and other valuable considerations paid by the Lord, represented by Charles Carpenter, E. S. Barstow and A. H. Jamison, trustees of the Christian Workers' Union of North Attleboro, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, do hereby give, grant, bargain, etc., unto the said Lord and representatives, a certain lot of land situated in North Attleboro, on the easterly side of the road known as the New Boston road." Then follows in the deed a more particular description of the property.

The land was purchased in 1904 by the Christian Workers' Union of North Attelboro, but the instrument setting forth the transfer was not presented to be recorded until last week.

It is supposed that the matter of tax assessments will have to be borne by the trustees of the Christian Workers' Union unless some special exemption from taxation is secured. This will be determined later.

New Boston is a small village some three miles from North Attleboro, on the road to Foxboro. A number of years ago some of the villagers formed a religious society and meetings have been held by the twenty-five or thirty members. The body took the name of the Christian Workers' Union.

In 1904 the society decided to erect a small structure as a place of worship. The land was purchased of Richard A. George, one of the members, and he deeded the property to the Creator, naming as temporary custodians the trustees of the union.

THE OAK OF BEAUMARCHAIS.

The famous oak of Beaumarchais, which formerly flourished on the Quai d'Orsay, has fallen to the woodman's axe. The spot is historic, for in days past it was the locus of the residence of the author of the "Barber of Seville." The tree has seen vicissitudes. It was under its spreading branches that Beaumarchais instructed the daughters of Louis XV. in music, and there were heard the harp of Madame Victoire and the violin of Madame Adelaide. In later times the sweet strains of music gave place to the fumes of a tobacco factory which was situated on part of Beaumarchais's lands.—From the London Globe.

THE LAST LEAF.

(By Oliver Wendell Holmes).

I saw him once before,
As he passed by the door,
And again
The pavement-stones resound,
As he totters o'er the ground
With his cane.

They say that in his prime,
Ere the pruning knife of Time
Cut him down,
Not a better man was found
By the Crier on his round
Through the town.

But now he walks the streets
And he looks at all he meets
Sad and wan,
And he shakes his feeble head,
That it seems as if he said,
"They are gone."

The mossy marbles rest
On the lips that he has prest
In their bloom,
And the names he loved to near
Have been carved for many a year
On the tomb.

My grandmamma has said—
Poor old lady, she is dead
Long ago—
That he had a Roman nose,
And his cheek was like a rose
In the snow;

But now his nose is thin,
And it restes upon his chin
Like a staff,
And a crook is in his back,
And a melancholy crack
In his laugh.

I know it is a sin
For me to sit and grin
At him here;
But the old three-cornered hat,
And the breeches, and all that,
Are so queer!

And if I should live to be
The last leaf upon the tree
In the Spring,
Let them smile, as I do now,
At the old forsaken bough
Where I cling.

SAYINGS OF ANN.

Here are a few of the bright sayings of the smart little Southern girl who in "The Annals of Ann" tells in the first person a delightful love story:

There are two kinds of people who keep diaries—single ones and married ones. The single ones fill theirs full of poetry; the married ones tell how much it costs to keep house.

All famous people keep a diary • • • but I'm going to keep mine to hand down to my grandchildren, for nearly every lady can count on them, whether she's famous or infamous.

Dr. Bynum is a bacteriologist, which is worse than a prohibitionist, for while he won't let you drink whiskey in peace the other won't let you drink water in peace.

If thers's anything on earth sweeter than a girl baby it's a boy one.

Mammy Lou says: "If you want a good, wood cuttin' baby tendin' husban' choose one that's fat in the face."

I've often heard Dr. Gordon say that diseases have a period of "incubation," but I believe that love is one disease that doesn't incubate. It just comes, like light does when you switch on the electricity.

But marryin' for riches is like puttin' up preserves. It looks to be a heap bigger pile beforehan' than afterward.

SPOILED THE VIEW.

(Philadelphia Record.)

Mrs. Mary T. Metcalfe, discussing the pure food question at the Gotham Club's recent meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, smiled and said:

"I heard a food dealer once declare that chemicals in food must be all right, since salt itself was a chemical.

"A queer argument, eh? It depends, you see, on the point of view. What won't we say under the influence of the point of view?"

"Once, at Niagara, a gentleman said to his hotel proprietor, pointing toward the falls:

"'Glorious, isn't it?'

"'Ah, but it ain't what it used to be,' the proprietor sadly returned.

"'No? Why not?' said the guest.

"The hotel proprietor shook his head.

"'Too many hotels,' he said."

(Harper's Weekly.)

"Whats' the matter?" asked Blobbs. "Somebody taken a bath without accounting for it?"
