

Red Fife Grown Successfully in England and in Australia.

Something About the Grain That Has Made Manitoba Famous.

The best grades of Canadian wheat reaching us at present are the so-called Manitoba Harde, No. 1, No. 2, etc. These are required by law to contain minimum percentages of the wheat known as Red Fife; and, as a matter of fact, the finest samples we receive are approximately pure Red Fife, with only a casual mixture of other sorts.

DEFINITIONS. A Fashionable Dictionary for Use of the Elites.

Genealogy—The art whereby the coachman is put inside the coach by his wealthy grandson—provided the old man has been dead long enough.

Vanity—A purely personal opinion that is pathetic because it is so lone-some.

Virtue—A costly fable that we spend more time praising than practicing.
Modesty—Keeping your right hand behind your back while your left hand drops a button into the plate.
Forethought—Making over your property to your wife a sufficient time before the crash to prevent the court from setting aside the transfer.

Wisdom—The ability to wear a pair of spectacles impressively and to get people to tell each other how much you know.—D. B. VanBuren in April Smart Set.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff. POWER SCHEME FOR INDIA. Sir George Clarke, the governor of Bombay, in inaugurating a scheme to supply Bombay with 30,000 horse-power from a storage of reservoirs in the Western Ghats, protested against the ignorant croakers who belittled Indian progress and enterprise.

Nearly twenty years ago a young farmer returning to England brought with him a quantity of Canadian wheat and planted it, I believe, in the neighborhood of Kidderminster. It grew sufficiently well, and was soon found to be of more than common value as a spring wheat. Its cultivation gradually extended, and the wheat is now distributed fairly generally over the Midland and Western counties, where it is known locally as Cook's Wonder.

Tommy's Mamma.—Willie Byjones is a nice little boy to play marbles with, isn't he?
Tommy.—Yes, ma'am.
Tommy's Mamma.—Then why don't you play with him, instead of with all those rough boys from the back street?
Tommy.—I won't all his yesterday.

True Cause of Appendicitis

Dr. Hamilton Clearly Proves That Stomach and Bowels Are at Fault.

A close study of that so frequently fatal disease, appendicitis, has quite convinced me, writes Dr. Hamilton, that its cause is directly traceable to indigestion and constipation.
When a protracted case of constipation develops, the stomach and bowels are almost sure to be clogged with a mass of sour, putrid, half-digested food. Germs develop in the rotting mass, penetrating the appendix, and cause a severe inflammation which is apt to spread and if not controlled, the appendix is partially or entirely walled away.

But there is even better than a cure for all this—there is a way to prevent, and that is simply the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, a mild, healthful remedy that cures constipation, indigestion, fullness after meals, belching of gas, sourness, heartburn, nervous and sick headache. To always feel well, healthy and vigorous, to sleep, eat and digest well, regulate your system by Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarroxo Co., Kingston, Ontario.

THE HAND AND THE MIND. As dexterity with the hands frequently demands considerable mental effort, so manual training appears to react upon the brain in a stimulating way. This is the conclusion of Professor Black, of Austria, Poland, and Dr. Scantley of America, who, at the recent international congress of school hygiene, at Paris, advocated the view, based upon experimentation, the manual training has the effect of developing mental qualities of reading and concentration.

PORTABLE OFFICE

Used by Railroad Conductors and Messengers of Business and Convenience.

A man who actually carries his office in his hand is the railroad conductor. Usually it is a box specially made and ornamented with bright brass trimmings and brass handles and with the conductor's name neatly engraved on a brass plate.
When his trip is finished you will see him leave the train carrying his office with him. The railroad has no rent to pay for him and yet he is one of the busiest of employees, with many accounts to keep.

In this hand office of the conductor's are all the records of his trip and it is a model of neatness and compactness. There is a place in his office for all the tickets collected, and envelopes for his cash fare receipts and many blank forms which he is required to fill out with particular care of the run.
Usually the conductor opens up his office in the baggage car or in an empty seat after his train has left the last station of the run. For some time thereafter he is a busy man.

His portable office, when opened is transformed into a little desk, having pigeonholes and writing materials, and with it open in front of him the conductor counts his tickets, sorts them among the proper pigeonholes and makes up his accounts. It is all done generally before the train gets in, and upon arrival at the terminal he takes his office with him and departs with the rest of the passengers.

Catarrahal Deafness—How Cured. The inconvenience of slight deafness is known to tens of thousands. It is very frequently due to catarrhal inflammation of the middle ear. Drugs or sprays cannot possibly reach the affected parts. But you can breathe Catarroxo, a germ-destroying and healing agent, and by compressing it into the passages of the ear, you bring about a speedy improvement in hearing, and remove the catarrhal condition there. Does this not seem a rational way of reaching Catarrh of the middle ear? Tens of thousands throughout the world have been relieved of catarrhal deafness by the use of Catarroxo. Sold throughout the world in 25c, 50c and $1.00 sizes. Refuse any substitute for "Catarroxo."

PUT BY THE FLUTE. Oh, Love, put by the flute! Too slight the tender, liquid strain We heard amid the April rain Of wild white blooms, to voice the spell Whereof our lips are mute. Let orzan diapaasons tell The music of the waves which roll From that unthommed sea, the Soul. So, Love, put by the flute. The flute, oh, Love, put by! For the tender rhythm of the land Are come, from out the valley land, Upon the Great Adventure bound. Within the larger pulse of sound. Let, listening for the luring call We lose a wistful rhythm of the ear. The flute, dear Love, put by! Put by the flute, oh, Love! And yet so piercing keen the tone Of heart, in you far fainter wind blown Down that bright stream, whose brim We twain.

With laughter leaned above, The joy thereof do we retain; Among our mighty chorals, that spew From the south all men may know. Put by the flute, oh, Love! —Gertrude Bartlett, in the February Metropolitan Magazine.

ELECTRICITY AND CLIMATE. In a recent lecture before the British Institute of Electrical Engineers, Signor Ferranti made a startling declaration to the effect that the weather of the island of Great Britain could be controlled by means of electricity. The entire island would have to be gridged with an electrical discharge capable of warding off the vapors of the sea and preventing them from precipitation on the land. The sunlight hours could thus be increased as desired.

ARGENTINA'S EXPORTS. Argentina is the greatest exporter of cold meat in the world; she sends abroad more chilled and frozen meat than any other country. Only Russia, says the Century, excels her in wheat exports, and only Australia contributes more wool to international trade. The story of her occupations is told in the fact that nearly $4,500,000,000 of working capital is represented in the pastoral and agricultural pursuits and in the allied industries, while less than $100,000,000 is involved in manufactures, and this includes electric light and power plants used in the larger cities.

FEWER FOGS IN LONDON. "Twenty years ago there were fifty-five foggy days in London during the winter months, whereas in 1909-10 there were only eleven during the same period. The fog fiend has been scolded, if not killed," said Sir James Crichton-Browne at the annual dinner of the Sanitary Inspectors' Association. The reduction in the number of fogs he attributed chiefly to improved sanitation.—From the London Chronicle.

PUZZLING IT OUT. When telegraph poles were first set up they had a most disquieting effect upon various species of animals. In Norway, for instance, at the time of the introduction of these useful articles, the bears were much perplexed to determine their purpose.

The Norwegian bear, hearing the moaning of the wind in the wires, such a buzzing as he had somewhere heard before, proceeded in the ursine fashion to "put two and two together." Such a buzzing must mean the presence of a small bird, the poles must be gigantic ladders, so the bear set to work to root the poles out of the ground.

The strange humming also attracted the attention of the woodpeckers, which concluded that innumerable insects were concealed in these tall poles. Therefore, the birds, went to work to find the treasure, boring holes to extract the insects. In time, however, they all became wiser, and the telegraph poles or wire came to be used by more than one species of bird as a safe place for its nest.

A BOOK FOR MOTHERS. Every mother is naturally anxious for information that will aid her to keep her little ones in good health. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. has issued a little book which contains a great deal of information on the care of babies and young children that every mother ought to know. The book will be sent free to any mother who will send her name and address, with the name of this newspaper, to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOST ISLAND OF DEAD SEA. The Dead Sea is encroaching upon the land about it so rapidly in this decade that whole forests of trees which grew as high as some distances from its banks are now partially submerged. Maps of the sea made twenty years ago show an island near the northern extremity of the lake which was not found during a recent survey, and it is supposed that this has been lost in the rising waters. The Turkish Government sold the mining rights on the shores to Turkey at last year's auction, and a syndicate for about $250,000, and if times to rise these holdings will be almost unobtainable.—From the Chicago Tribune.

THE CYNICAL PHILOSOPHER. A woman in the case may be all right; it is when there are two that there is likely to be trouble. When a woman dresses to please the men, she doesn't have much success with the one who is trying for her.

THIS WAS NO JOKE. The other day over in the town of Guelph, Ontario, Mrs. R. came into Mr. B's store and asked for a couple of packages of Dye. He was selling the Old Style Dyes that require a separate Dye for Wool and Cotton, and asked her if she knew what KIND of cloth her goods were made of. Mrs. R. said she wasn't sure, so he advised her to go home and make the following test: Take a small piece of the threads each way of the cloth, then put a match to them. Cotton would be apt to burn freely with little odor, Wool might merely singe and would be apt to give out a disagreeable odor, something like burning hair. Silk would burn less freely than Cotton and smell like burning Wool. Now, if it did not smell very much, she was to use Dye for Cotton; if it did she was to use Wool Dye, but she was to look out to see that it did not smell too much or too little.

LITTLE WILLIE'S CAMEL ESSAY. A boy in Oklahoma City submitted the following essay on the ship of the desert: "The caminal is a sheep of the desert. It is called a caminal because it has a hump on its back. The caminal is very patient, and will lie down and die without a groan, but when it is angry it gets its back up, which is called taking the hump. The shepherds of the caminals are called Arabs. When they live in the towns they are called street Arabs. When the caminal goes on a journey it drinks as much as it can to last for many days. Such animals are called acquidules. Those that cannot carry enough are called inberates."
