

4 Ways to Cook APPLES

Apple-sauce cake.—This cake keeps from longer than any other, except fruit cake. It is put together like common stirred cake, made rather stiff. The apple sauce is used to moisten it, instead of milk or water, and adds very greatly to the flavor and keeping quality. The ingredients are two cupsful of flour, one teaspoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, one egg, butter size of walnut, spices to taste, one cupful of smooth apple sauce.

Fried Apple Charlotte.—Soak four slices of stale bread in water and when soft press very dry. Add to bread three apples pared and cut in small dice, one-half cup of sugar, a dash of nutmeg, and a pinch of salt. Beat two eggs, whites and yolks separately and add mix all well. Fry a spoonful at a time in hot fat. Sprinkle lightly with sugar.

Apple ice cream.—Put two pounds of peeled and sliced apples in a saucepan; add one cupful of water, a small stick of cinnamon, one cupful of sugar, and the rind and juice of one lemon. Cook quickly till soft, then rub through a sieve, and mix with two cupsful of cream and two cupsful of custard. Freeze, and serve in dainty small cups decorated with large seedless raisins.

Best Apple Juice.—Wash a half dozen good sized apples. Bake until thoroughly done in the skins. Over them pour a quart of boiling water. Stir and set away in a cold place. Serve with a little sugar, if desired.

Death After a Scratch

Morris Quatman, an eleven-year-old Windsor boy, fell off his bicycle and scratched his wrist. He thought nothing of the injury, but blood poison set in and he died.

Such incidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest flesh wound.

Take a simple illustration. When a knife, a rusty needle, a splinter or a dirty wood, a barbed wire fence, or a thorn, scratches the hand, the latter is inoculated with germs, of which the air about us is full.

The way to avoid serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a powerful, yet painless germ-killer, and when applied to the broken skin it absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and stopping the pain and smarting. That is why Zam-Buk is so popular with children.

The flesh thus soothed and purified, the wound is made perfectly healthy, and all poison and cause of festering removed. Having done this, Zam-Buk then proceeds to heal the wound or sore, and new healthy tissue is built up in a quick, painless and perfect manner.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, possessing antiseptic, soothing and healing qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, chafing, ulcers, ringworm, etc., it is without equal. It is also used widely for piles, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

SIGNS OF A POOR HORSEMAN.

Horses handled roughly and rushed into stalls without rubbing, cleaning or sponging.

BURGLAR'S CURIOUS MISTAKE

New Package of Stolen Jewelry Came into the Hands of the Police.

Jewelry and gold watches to the value of £200 have been handed in at Scotland Yard under extraordinary circumstances.

A woman was travelling outside an omnibus from Paddington toward Edgware road carrying with her a brown paper parcel containing two pounds of soap. She alighted at Westbourne Grove, taking with her what she thought to be the parcel she had been carrying.

During her journey a well-dressed man sat next to her, also carrying a brown paper parcel. He left the omnibus a short time before she reached her destination. Reaching home she was astonished to find instead of the soap the jewelry and watches, which she conveyed to Scotland Yard.

It has been ascertained by the police that the jewelry forms the proceeds of a burglary at Maiden Vale a week ago. It is believed that the man was on the way to the receiver at the time he made the singular exchange of parcels.—London Evening Standard.

CHINESE BURIAL SERVICES.

The many curious customs of the Chinese have been a constant source of wonder and amusement to the tourist in China. By far the oddest, but most impressive of their ceremonies is the burial rites for their dead. The Chinese hold their dead in high esteem, and shower honors upon their memories by carrying incense and candles daily. They also honor their relatives who have died many years before. As soon as a Chinaman dies his relatives embalm him. Dressed in his richest garments, he is placed in a teakwood coffin, solid and airtight, and the coffin is closed and sealed. It is then placed in front of the family altar. The altar is hung with rich embroidered draperies, and decorated with flowers, vases and josses. The period of mourning begins at once, especially among the women of the deceased's household. They start a daily lamentation over their loss, and are joined in their occupation of weeping by relatives and friends. The male members of the family are busy digging the grave, while the women folk, assisted by the professional mourners, do the wailing. The grave is half under and half above the ground, and is enclosed by a crescent-shaped wall about two feet high. Another thing to be prepared for the dead is a miniature house, which is provided with miniature furniture. The idea is to provide the deceased with all the comforts of a home in the regions where he is going. An image of the deceased, together with drinkables and eatables and money, is placed on the coffin the day of the funeral. The image is not buried, but is burned in the presence of the mourners, who, during the process, shriek and make the most frightful noises. This is to drive out the evil spirit with which the dead man is supposed to be possessed. When the funeral services are over the mourning banners are taken home and used as ornaments on the bare white-washed walls of the rooms. The more the banners the greater the honor paid to the dead. The miniature house preceded the mourners to the grave. Then follows the elaborate hearse, draped with rich dark blue velvet with silver fringes, borne by the natives. The mourners, too, are supposed to assist in carrying it, which they do by holding on to the white cords attached to the hearse. Refreshments are served at the burial ground, and at the end of the ceremony the friends and relatives partake of the food to show their appreciation.

DAN AS A HIGHER CRITIC.

(Toronto World.)

Mr. Dan D. Mann, who, to the arduous duties of a railway magnate, has added that of thrower-off of articles in leading European and American reviews, is now completing a critical examination of the first eleven chapters of Genesis. He is not at all in accord with the Hon. Samuel Blake. Probably he has in view a D. D. at the end of his name as well. The University of Bobaygon, of which he is visitor, should see that he gets it.

Omissions of History.

Romulus, having built Rome, was constructing a wall around it.

"What's the use of putting a wall on the north side?" jeers Remus. "Evanston will never try to break in."

Then ensued the first boxing contest in the new city, with the result, as all the world knows, that Remus was permanently knocked out.

A WOMAN'S FRIEND

Inspiring Testimony That Tells How a Sick Woman Got Quickly Back to Health and Strength.

"For years I was thin and delicate. I lost color and was easily tired; a yellow pallor, pimples and blotches on my face were not only mortifying to my feelings, but because I thought my skin would never look nice again I grew despondent. Then my appetite failed. I grew very weak. Various remedies, pills, tonics and tablets I tried without permanent benefit. A visit to my sister put into my hands a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. She placed reliance upon them and now that they have made me a well woman I would not be without them whatever they might cost. I found Dr. Hamilton's Pills by their mild yet searching action very suitable to the delicate character of a woman's nature. They never once gripped me, yet they established regularity. My appetite grew keen—my blood red and pure—my rings under my eyes disappeared, and to-day my skin is as clear and unruined as when I was a girl. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

The above straightforward letter from Mrs. J. V. Todd, wife of a well-known miller in Rogersville, is proof sufficient that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful woman's medicine. Use no other pill but Dr. Hamilton's. 50c. per box. All dealers, or The Catarrhoxone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

UNDER THE MICROSCOPE.

(Toronto Star.)

Not many would care to have all their savings and doings investigated in the microscopic and inquisitorial way that was used in the case of the young woman in this case. No two enquiries of the kind would bring out the same revelations, the same vanities, frivolities and insincerities, but each enquiry would reveal much that would stand out strangely if thrown against a scarlet background of tragedy. Vain and irresponsible sayings and flighty doings, that meant nothing at the time, would rise out of idle yesterdays.

There is a large number of foolish persons in the world—they mean no ill, but many of their sayings, doings, and goings are unwise, yet as a rule get them into no serious trouble, for no reckoning comes. Should it come, many would be amazed at the showing they would make in the sinister light of a criminal court. It is a good place to get out of it.

THE GUTTA-PERCHA TREE.

On account of the extreme usefulness of gutta-percha in constructing submarine cables, every effort is being made to save the tree that yields the valuable gum from destruction. No satisfactory substitute for gutta-percha found in the forests of the Malay Peninsula and in Malacca has been discovered, but the natives, in order to get quick returns, are destroying the trees so rapidly that a gutta-percha famine is feared. To prevent this, the French, Dutch and British governments are striving not only to prevent the waste of the trees already existing, but to increase their number by transplantation and cultivation. Experiments with transplanted trees are being made in Reunion and Madagascar.

THE WAIL OF HENRY PECK.

(By William Carroll.)

Behold in me a character. Who is very widely known. Of circumstances a victim. I have ample cause to moan: The sting of persecution's lash Has made my life a woe.

Oh, Christians, ye with tender hearts, Come, pray for Henry Peck.

When my wife's temper is aroused, I then receive my "whacks." The club she wields quite successfully. And most deftly swings the axe. When riled some day I fear she'll make a target of my neck.

OPEN AIR LIFE.

Get out of the house whenever you can. If you have only a little leisure time at your command spend it out of doors. If you are compelled to stay in open doors and windows and make your indoor surroundings as nearly outside surroundings as is possible. Also, as the house has been pretty well closed all winter, now is the time to open it up and let the sun and air have access to every room in it.

There is nothing like fresh air and sunshine and outdoor exercise for promoting bodily vigor and mental contentment.

Another Failure.

Tempted by the warm rain the angle-worm wriggled out of the ground and started across the cement sidewalk.

When it was about half way over the sidewalk a sudden change in the weather and the worm from fast to the wall.

This thing of being a harbinger of spring is all right in poetry, but in reality it is rough on the harbinger.

BRICKS FROM REFUSE.

English Process Which Turns Garbage Into Building Blocks.

At Woodhead's and of Nelson, England, garbage is incinerated in furnaces. The combustion gases, after heating boilers in which steam is produced for the generation of an electric lighting current, flow through tubes surrounded by air, which is thus heated to 300 degrees F., and is then blown through the furnaces. The operation leaves a large quantity of clinkers, composed of silica, alumina, lime and iron, with a little magnesia, potash and soda, which is utilized in making sand-lime brick. The ground clinkers are mixed with quick-lime and about 10 per cent. of water, to form a soft mortar, which is stored in brick cisterns for a day or two to insure the complete slaking of the lime, and then goes to the brick-making machine. The fresh bricks are placed in closed vessels and subjected for eight or ten hours to the action of steam at eight atmospheres pressure. When taken out the bricks are sufficiently hard for immediate use.

The hardening is caused, as in the case of ordinary sand-lime brick, says the Scientific American, by the combination of the lime with the silica of the clinkers, at the high temperature of the steam. The quality of the Nelson garbage brick is equal to that of good blue Staffordshire brick, except that it is rather more hygroscopic. Large building blocks and pavement tiles are made by similar processes.

NOTHING FOR NOTHING

E. Phillips Oppenheim, the popular English novelist, apropos of the many banquets given in his honor, said in Boston:

"If these rich banquets continue, I shall grow like Rossini—a fat gourmet. But I hope I shall never grow as ungainly as Rossini."

"One of his admirers, a beautiful marquise, desired to meet the great composer. To her emissary, Rossini said:

"I do nothing for nothing. If the lady brings me a very fine bunch of asparagus she can take a view of me at her leisure."

He then glanced down at his enormous abdomen, and, patting it with his hand, he said:

"The lady may even walk around me if she pleases, but that will cost two bunches of asparagus."—Washington Star.

Snow White.

While this is by no means a white season, as many of its predecessors have been called, the white gown and the all-white toilet are in strong evidence among the most fashionable sets. But the white gown with colored accessories, such as hat, parasol, girdle, and often coat and scarf or ruff, is more prominent. Rose shades, khaki color and the golden browns and soft dull blues are popular tones for such combinations.
