Waddle--Stamp

A very pretty but quiet wedding took place at Port Dover, on Saturday, March 23rd, 1912, when Miss Bessie, the suitable daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stamp of Port Dover, gave her heart and hand to one of Woodhouse's most popular young men, in the person of John Bruce Waddle, eldest son of Robert Waddle of Woodhouse. The wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate relatives being present and the ceremony was performed by Rev. John Robtson at 2:30 a.m. The bride looked bewitching indeed being attired in a handsome and becoming travelling suit of silver grey, and carried an exquisite bouquet of carnations. They were unattended. After partaking of a dainty wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Waddle left on a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Buffalo and Lockport. They will settle down to the stern realities of life at the groom's old home, one mile east of Simcoe, on the Scotch Line. May their sky be unclouded and their path strewn with roses is the wish of their friends and they are legion.

McPherson--Waddel

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waddle, Woodhouse, was, on Thursday, March 21st, the scene of a very pretty event, it being the marriage of their youngest daughter, Miss Nina, the lucky man being Bruce McPherson. As the sweet and dainty strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by little Audrey Slater, niece of the bride, floated through the parlor, the winsome bride, clothed in a beautiful cream costume and carrying cream roses, entered and took her place beside the groom. Her attendant Miss Bessie Stamp, also presented a handsome appearance, being gowned in grey satin, and carried pink carnations. Bruce Waddle ably supported the groom. The interesting ceremony was performed at two o'clock by Rev. Dr. Dey, of Simcoe in the presence of only the immediate relatives. The gifts received by the bride was of a high order. After a sumptuous repast the bride, gowned in a neat and becoming travelling suit, left with her husband, on this for Toronto and points east, where the honeymoon was spent. The young couple will make their home in Petrolia, amidst the best wishes of their friends, and may their future life be one of joy and prosperity.

Hicks' Forecasts for April

A Reactionary Storm Period falls centrally on the 3rd and 4th, but it is more than probable that storms of thunder and rain will develop a day or two earlier, or on the 1st, with Moon at full and on the celestial equator. The Venus equinox, also Earth's equinox, bear upon this period, making very active storms possible and probable. Keep your eye on your barometer at this and the storm periods in this month. Change to much cooler, with snow northward, may be expected behind and after the storms. A seismic period, centering on the 1st, covers three to four days before and after the date. A Regular Storm Period covers the 6th to 11th. Change to much warmer, with falling barometer and threatening clouds, will appear westward on the 6th and 7th, and during the 8th, 9th and 10th, these conditions will grow into active storms of rain, wind and thunder, as they pass eastward over central and eastern parts of the country. Your barometer, thermometer and hygrometer will at the time tell you what is coming, if you will watch them. Hail, rain and thunder, with marked drop in temperature, and sleet and snow, possible far northward, are among the probabilities at this period all followed by high barometer, cold nights and frost northward.

Case Tried at Hagersville

At the sittings of the Division Court, held at Hagersville, on Wednesday, a decision given by His Honor Judge Douglas, in the case of John W. Waddell which is an action by the plaintiff against the defendant who is an hotelkeeper, duly licensed, for the loss of a buggy and harness in a fire at defendant's stables which were burned. The plaintiff hired or loaned his horse, buggy and harness to his servant to drive to a friend at the time of the Fall Fair. The plaintiff's servant, being a traveller, put the horse, buggy and harness in defendant's stable, where they remained that night until the fire took place about a.m. The horse was saved but the harness was not. The loss is about $50, about which there is no dispute. The plaintiff sues the defendant on the ground that he is an insurer of his property left in his care, as this was. It was sworn to and not denied that the man in charge of defendant's stable was paid the defendant's charges for keeping the plaintiff's horse and carriage. Under the License Act the defendant is required to have a accommodation for horse, etc. in addition to other hotel requirements, while the innkeeper's liability at common law is to some extent modified by R.S.O. 1897, Chapter 187, Sec. 2, still this section exempts horses and carriages. If, therefore, the relationship of hotelkeeper and insurer is established, then I do not see how the defendant can escape liability, for like common carriers, in the absence of plaintiff's negligence, the act of God and the King's enemies, the innkeeper is liable. I quite agree that if the defendant was simply a bailee of plaintiff's property he would not be liable unless gross negligence was proven. It is argued on the plaintiff's behalf that undoubtedly the plaintiff's servant was a guest in the ordinary acceptance of the term, and being a traveller, used the defendant's stable for his accommodation, paying the usual charges, apparently a guest is one who resorts to, and is received at an inn for the purpose of obtaining the accommodation which it purports to afford. It has been held in both England and America that one who leaves his horse at an inn to be kept there, he becomes a guest. Counsel on both sides stated that they could not find a Canadian case exactly in point, but I have found one which is really on all fours with the present case I prefer to follow this decision and find, therefore, in favor of the plaintiff for $50 and costs.

Church Union

Toronto April 2— Official figures of the Methodist vote on the proposed union between the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches of Canada were compiled to-day, and show a proportionate vote of almost eight to one in favor of organic union on the present proposed basis. The figures show that over 500 quarterly official boards have completed the vote, and almost 200 congregations from all parts of the Dominion. A very peculiar state of affairs is shown on the quarterly official board vote. Of the 500, twenty boards voted for union, while one voted against. And yet this great proportional vote by the boards is reduced to eight to one in individual votes, with all the figures taken. Only about 25 boards of the 500 cast a straight vote again at union. Over 100 voted unanimously for the amalgamation on the present proposed basis.

Welland and Haldimand

Welland and Haldimand are the latest counties to adopt a scheme for the building of good roads, and work in these counties will be commenced as soon as spring opens up. Mr. W. A. McLean, Highway Engineer for Ontario, returned to Toronto Wednesday from attending meetings of the County Councils of Welland and Haldimand, at which he explained the system and organization to be adopted. Welland has passed a by-law to raise $100,000 for this purpose, the Ontario Government will add $50,000 in accordance with the custom.

Toward Church Union

Within the last few years several Christian denominations have drawn closer together. The old time spirit of rivalry or dubious approval is giving way to the spirit of cooperation. Stress is now laid upon things more essential than minor differences of creed and petty details of organization and Government. The new spirit has a noteworthy illustration in Canada, where the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches have come together, not mere in a truce or under a working agreement, but completely, in a union that recognizes but one organization and one statement of faith. The movement toward union began some twelve years ago, in an effort of the three denominations to avoid rivalry and confusion in home mission work. The effort was so successful that Christianity has now been placed above denomination, and religion above creed; and as a result there is at hand a real union, in which the Calvinistic emphasis on law, the Methodist fervor for conversion and the Congregationalist love of democracy are the source of strength in a power and progressive united church that will be the next to the largest body in the Dominion.
