Skim Cleanest Turn Easiest Are Simplest Most Sanitary Last Longest

That is a strong statement but we'd make it stronger if we knew how, because we are sure that the De Laval will more than make good every claim.

We don't ask you to take our "say so." We prefer to let the machine itself talk for us.

Why not let us set one up at your house? You can test it yourself alongside of any other machine you like for capacity, cleanness of skimming, and ease of operation.

We don't ask you to buy a De Laval upon "claims." We do ask you to be sure and give it a fair trial before you purchase any cream separator. Don't put it off. Do it now.

Used Exclusively by 98% of the World's Creameries

He will carry with him to his new charge the good wishes of his congregation and a very large circle of friends in other churches. The Widow's Property

Hard is the lot of the woman who has to fend for herself in the business world. Men still hold to certain habits and traditions of chivalry. They will open a door for a woman and allow her to pass through it first. They will give her a seat in a car, but in matters of business, in far too many cases, they seem to regard her as a child, and treat her, indeed, as they would be ashamed to treat a child. If some one could gather and print the experiences of the widows of farmers who have attempted to live in their homes and tried to carry on the farm, the book would be an astonishing arraignment of many of the men with whom the widows have had business dealings. It would disclose broken promises, failure to perform duties for which oral contracts had been made, cheating in measures, unfair prices and other means, not often attempted with men, because it is understood that men are better able to protect themselves against them. No less instructive a book could be made of the experiences of women left without a protector in the city, town or village, especially those whose husbands have bequeathed to them ample means for their support, but have neglected to provide safeguards for the investment and protection of their property. It is not enough that a man makes will, however carefully it be drawn, unless the execution of the provisions of the will be placed beyond the possibility of doubt. The executor should be chosen for intelligence and well established probity rather than friendship; and adequate bonds should be required. Rather let us say the executors, for it is better that there be more than one; and among them the law should be represented. It is sometimes advisable that a property be not devised without restriction, but instead be placed in trust. If the heirs are without business experience or a knowledge of investment, this plan provides a measure of protection against the sharks and harpies of wildcat speculation, who regard women of means as their legitimate prey. In many cases a trust company offers the best solution. It is usually hedged about with laws to which the individual is not subject. Its system of accounting, with its checks and counterchecks, makes dishonesty difficult, if not impossible. Its knowledge of investment is greater than that of the majority of individuals. Its returns are made promptly and at stated intervals, and it is a "continuing person", not subject, like an individual, to the vicissitude of death.
