OUR ARGUMENT -- Why it Pays to sell for Cash

We Save a collector's salary. That goes to our customers. We have no bad accounts. The "good pay" man doesn't have to settle for the dead beat. Therefore we feel it's better to give our customers the benefit of a "pay-as-you-go" business, rather than tax a little more on each sale to pay for Sunday losses and poor accounts.

SAVE YOUR HAIR

They do things better in Scotland. These sons and daughters are compelled to contribute to the support of their parents if in need.

Don't Use Preparations Containing Poisonous Sugar of Lead or Sulphur

Even if you have healthy hair you ought to use a little PARISIAN Sage once a week as a hair dressing. It keeps the hair healthy; prevents scalp itch, falling hair and dandruff, and—baldness.

But be sure you get PARISIAN Sage. There are many imitations. The girl with Auburn hair is on every carton and bottle of PARISIAN Sage.

It banishes dandruff, stops falling hair and scalp itch, and imparts to the hair a brilliancy and lustre that all women; as well as men, love so dearly. PARISIAN Sage is a daintily perfumed and refreshing hair dressing. It's the best hair tonic you can buy. Large bottle 50 cents at T. E. Morrow's and dealers everywhere.

Hicks' Forecasts—August

A regular storm period embraces the 11th, to 16th, central on the 13th. The moon is new and in perigee on the 12th, and on the celestial equator on the 15th. The centre of the Venus period is on the 13th, coincident with the centre of the Vulcan period. The autumnal equinox of the Earth is also present at this time. Look for marked fall of barometer in western parts by the 12th, and during the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th, violent storms of rain, wind and thunder, with destructive hail northward, will pass eastwardly across the country. West India hurricanes and tidal waves very probably in the gulf and south coast regions. An unseasonable change to cooler, with frosts, possibly, in the north, will come with the rising barometer behind these storms. A seismic period—one that will be heard from—involves the 9th to 15th, central on the 12th. Watch and see! A reactionary storm period has its central days on the 18th, 19th and 20th. The growing combination of astronomic causes, shown in the storm diagram, promise renewed and violent disturbances at this time—another time when your barometer and hygrometer will prove your best friends. Another change to cooler will follow during the 22nd to 23rd.

Happiness for the Blind

Thomas Jefferson wrote that all men are endowed by their Creator with unalienable rights, including life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Henry George said in "Social Problems" that men so constituted that it is utterly impossible for him to attain happiness save by seeking the happiness of others. There are more than 2000 persons in Ontario—men, women and children—approximately one out of every thousand of the general population—who, from causes usually ascertainable, are deprived of the sense of sight. What chance would the blind have in the pursuit of happiness if left in ignorance, idleness and dependence? Fortunately some provision has been made to brighten the lives and improve the condition of these afflicted ones, though much remains to be done to bring Ontario into line with the more advanced states in America and countries in Europe. For forty years the Legislature of Ontario has maintained at Brantford a school for the education and instruction of the blind children and youths of the province of both sexes, without charge for board tuition or books, and in that school hundreds have been taught to read and write, to sing and play on some musical instrument, and to do some useful work, the remuneration for which suffices or assists to provide an independent livelihood. Of course no amount of instruction can make a blind person as competent as he would be with sight, but it is surprising to see how much can be accomplished by touch and hearing under proper guidance. There are in every country many more blind adults than blind children, and the Institution in Brantford provides to all applicants free appliances by which the adult blind can be taught at their homes to read with their fingers. Children can be much more easily and more thoroughly taught in the school for the blind, therefore, the principal makes his annual appeal to the readers of the Record to send him the names of any children in their vicinity who are blind, or whose sight is so defective that they cannot be effectively taught in the Public Schools—together with the names and post office addresses of parents or guardians. It is only by the kindness of those who seek the happiness of others that communication can be established between the school and the children who should enjoy its advantages.

Mother Who Made Me?

(By Lady Cook.)

It was said not very long ago by Lombroso, the great criminologist, that all women were born liars, yet I have not heard of any one challenging that amazing statement, or of any duels being fought. Perhaps he was right. The environment of women and their teaching for thousands of years concerning the most sacred duty of motherhood leads them to tell a false hood, which proves he is correct. A little child comes running up to its mother and asks: "Mother who made me?" The mother's past teaching that she was born in sin and brought forth in iniquity, and that to have procreated and brought forth a child was a deadly sin, makes her seek some subterfuge. "I found you under a gooseberry bush," or some other lie, such as, "The doctor brought you." The child, looking into the mother's face, knows that she is telling an untruth. When the child's character is forming for good or evil, instead of hearing the truth from a good mother, he goes into the streets among his little companions, where it is told to him in a very different manner to that in which it should be imparted by the mother. But let us look at the other side. A child comes up to its mother, and says: "Mother, who made me?" "Who made you darling?" Your parents are responsible for your life. Your mother carried you under her heart for many months and went through the agony of death to bring you into the world. Now, you see, my darling, why mother loves you so, and why she would give her life to save yours. And for many weary days and nights I have watched over you to bring you to your present age. Now, you see, why I am called "mother" for "mother" means trouble, and you have cost me much." Do you suppose that any child, learning that from a pure, intelligent mother, could ever do anything to bring the blush of shame to her face? Do you think he could ever go into the street and insult or debauch any other mother's daughter? Never for his character is at once formed, and from that moment he learns to respect his mother, and in doing so he respects every mother's daughter. (Applause.)

Selling Young Veal

The revised Ontario Statutes for 1912 have been sent out, and one of the new sections is worth noting by those who have been in the habit of selling very young veal. Section 102 provides that no meat of calves under four weeks old shall be kept for sale, and the penalty of this law is a fine of from $10 to $50. Moreover, in the case of such meat being found in anyone's possession, the onus of proving that it is not for sale is to rest on the person having the meat. It has been a matter of common knowledge for some years that calves of two days old and upwards have been sold each year to be used in one form or another for human consumption, and it is against this practice that the law is aimed.

Some people pretend to be fooled to see what you will do.
