December

Why talk of "chill December?"
The best month of the year!
It brings us mirth and Santa Claus
And God's own Christmas cheer.
Why talk of "bleak December?"
When the great Yule log burns high,
With children clustering round the fire
And the dear old friends nearby.
O! Here's to "old December,"
With its laughter and its fun;
And here's to all the friends we love
God bless them every one!

"Farm and Dairy" protests against the disfiguring of farms by bill-boards and barn signs. Art is the expression of a man's joy in his work, and the farmer's pride in his farm should save it from glaring disfigurements.

The trouble with so much giving is that we give to those who do not need gifts of the cost and trouble that our gifts entail, while we fail to give where our little sacrifices would count for something. We are afflicted with "useless giving."

Canada's annual fire loss per head of population is $3.40, the greatest in the world. This is not an advertisement for the cement trust. It is an argument for lowering the cement duty so that fire waste may be lessened by increased use of non-combustible materials.

Bryan, of Simcoe, at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boulter, near Port Dover, William Orton Ford, of Griffin's Corners, formerly of Bloomshurst, to Miss Alice Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hammond, of Woodhouse.

Shop early. Selfish considerations alone should send Christmas shoppers on their rounds early. The stock of goods are fresher, the salespeople are more fit for their duties, the chances of error are reduced and the opportunities for correcting mistakes are greater. The shopper herself is in better form, more alert and less liable to be disappointed in what she buys. The Christmas shopper awake and at leisure has a great advantage over the shopper tired and hurried. Pick early.

The progress of the aggressive campaign being waged against tuberculosis in Ontario, and the pressing needs of the work, was the subject of sermons in at least 1,000 pulpits throughout the province Sunday. The plan of observing Tuberculosis Sunday, which originated in the United States some years ago, is being adopted with general approval by the clergymen of Ontario, and the result is expected to be a mighty impetus for the forward movement in the combatting and stamping out of the disease. The Boy Scouts of the province eagerly fell in with the proposal that they co-operate in the exercises of the day, and in many churches throughout Ontario they were present in uniform to distribute instructive literature on the subject of consumption.

By the condition of the weather at present it looks as if winter had come at last, but this has been such an uncertain year that we won't prophesy winter until someone has got stuck in a snow-drift or the mail train is a couple of days late. Some say we will have an open winter, others say it will be cold with plenty of snow. Guess they don't know much about it, so we'll just have to wait and see.

On Wednesday, the 27th of Nov., at 2 o'clock, in the afternoon, a quiet home wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. R. L. Jones, 7318 Prairie Ave., Chicago, when her daughter Rose, who was married to Mr. Samuel Newton Jones, of Peoria, Ill. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Bradford Penney, rector of the church of St. Edmunds, who is a Canadian from Woodstock, Ont. The bride party came in to the strains of the Mendelssohn's wedding march headed by the flower girl, little Miss Edith Townley, strewn flowers on the way, the bride on the arm of her brother A. Maxwell Jones. There were no bridesmaids. The bride's gown was of white satin, trimmed with silk fringe and set with and in this, and under an arch of smilax the ceremony was performed. The Stauffer-Coutts-Bain Concert

The concert held in the Music Hall, Jarvis, on Thursday evening last, under the auspices of the Jarvis Improvement Committee was a decided success, the hall being well filled. Miss Annie McKay the accompanist opened the program with a splendid selection. This clever pianist has a wonderful mastery of the piano and her selections were chosen from the great masters, classic English, Scotch and Irish melodies. The delicate of her playing, her sympathetic interpretation, and her mastery of technique were captivating to the end. Madam Coutts-Bain makes a most favorable impression. Her voice is a powerful and sympathetic soprano, delightful to listen to, and her rendering of the Scotch songs showed that she can interpret them with the true native expression and culture. The sketch, "A half hour with 'Grannie'" and the fish wife song was most enthusiastically applauded. A delightful charm of manner adds to her exceptional merit. Howard Russell, who appeared before a Jarvis audience two years ago, was again warmly greeted, and his singing is hauntingly any listener to-day. He possesses a vibrating baritone voice that goes straight to the heart, combined with a most attractive appearance. Millard Stauffer kept his audience laughing from start to finish with his several selections and was recalled on each appearance. He puts his soul into his singing, feels the sentiments of his songs and delights his hearers with his splendid expression and sweet tones, with a personality of the genial kind that greatly adds to the general effect. The Stauffer-Coutts-Bain Company fully sustained their excellent reputation and we feel that we do the company but simple justice in ascribing to it the honor of giving the best and most interesting entertainment ever given in Jarvis. The Committee deserve credit for securing such a good concert for the people of Jarvis.

Communication

To the Editor of Jarvis Record.

I read with interest the obituary of Mrs. Columbus in your last issue. To few people does the Township of Walpole owe so much as to this good woman now gone to her reward. For more than thirty years, over good roads and bad roads, at all hours of the day and night, and in all kinds of weather, she went as a ministering angel to hundreds of homes. The need of her sister woman was the only inducement necessary and the comfort and safety she was able to bring the only reward she wanted or would accept. In the years when the ordinary home had not two many comforts or conveniences and when a trained nurse was yet unheard of, Mrs. Columbus was nurse at hundreds of thousands of births in Walpole and she was as capable as she was kindly. The writer was one of a large family; his wife was one of another large family; and Mrs. Columbus attended at the birth of every member of both families and this is true of most of the families for miles around where she lived. She was a devout Catholic, yet hers was a kindness too broad and genuine to be bounded by creeds. Every physician knew and respected her and valued her assistance. May we who have reason to hold her memory in grateful remembrance tell again to our children the story of the days of fifty years ago in Walpole and of the unassuming cheerful kindly woman who went lovingly and not for pay from one humble home to another to render service.

Of her life and memory he said:—
"Like the vase in which roses have once been distilled.
"You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will,
"But the scent of the roses
"Will cling round it still!"
That the rest and happiness of Heaven will follow her earthly life of true Christian service is the belief and prayer in which hundreds will join.
