Health

Health is a matter which was once very opular, but it hos long since grown into disfavor. In these strenuous days the securing of nealth consumes altogether too much time. It cannot be acquired wilhout detention from business. only does it interfere with business, but with pleasure as well Health requires too much sleep, too much fresh air, too much food of a vulgar simpliety and too many clothes which are more comfortable than stylish. Health is liked anything else. In order to have it one must give attention to securing it, but when the ecuring of money engrosses all of one's time, manifestly health must take a back We still have travitions about health much like the traditions of secondary place. Doctors, like ministers, are called in only when it is too late. Health made a manful struggle for supremacy with bank balances, but it lost out.

Hints for Travellers

No greater mistake can be made than do they lean out of car windows conversing excitedly with friends on the plac this sort are a sure mark of provincialism | Belleville. and ignorance- Consideration for others is an indication of good-breeding; thereare not entitled, and ignore the fact that someone else is in search of a seat. If come. someone inquires if the seat is reserved politely, and not with a grudging, reuctant air.

Olive Schreiner on Marriage.

Schreiner are well worth consideration by people contemplating marriage :

Have you thought of what love is between a man and a woman when it means marriage? That long, long life together, day after day, stripped of all romance and distance, living face to face, seeing each other as man sees his own soul? Do you realize that the end of marriage is to make the man and the woman stronger than they were; and that if you cannot, when you are an old man and woman and sit by the fire, say "Life has been a braver and a freer thing for us, because we passed it hand in hand, than if we had passed through it alone," it has failed? Do you care for him enough to live for him, not to-morrow, but when he is an old, faded man, and you are an old, faded woman? Can you forgive him his sins and his weaknesses, when they hurt you most? If he were to lie a querulous invalid for twenty years, would you be able to fold him in your arms all that time, and com fort him, as a mother comforts her little

Household Helps

A sweet red pepper should always hang in the canary's cage. Bread for little children should always be stale enough to crumble. Ink stains may be taken out of silk vith sour milk. Hold a hot shovel over varnished furniture to take out white spots.

Shirtwaists should always be ironed on the wrong side first. Wrap cheese in a cloth dipped in vine gar to preserve it.

To keep clothespins from freezing to the clothes put two handfuls of salt in your blueing water. To take castor oil easily, put orange juice in a glass first, then the oil, then more orange juice.

Sponge black silk with clear coffee to freshen it, and iron on the wrong side when partly dry.

Mend the boys' trousers on the sewing machine and the patch will not pall out as if done by hand.

When washing Irish croehet lace, lay it in shape and pin it flat to dry, as you would a lace curtain, and it will keep its new look.

Put raisins and other small fruits in a corn popper when you want to wash them. Put them in it under a faucet. Put a little salt in the starch and it will not 'freeze out' of the clothes when they are hung out to dry in cold weather. To freshen the air of a sick room, if windows cannot be opened. carry a burning roll of newspapers through it or throw shovel.

The particular lady always likes shelves looking clean and dainty. It contains no opium or other She can always have it so by using implicit confidence. Sold by all dealers. The Record Book Stere.

It is very pleasant no doubt, to be abl to put away large stocks of butter into cold storage when butter can be obtained for twenty cents a pound and to take it out of cold storage when it can be sold for forty cents a pound. As the banks will ferd on warehouse receipts fifteen of the original twenty cents, it is possible to anke a profit of fifteen, or maybe twenty rents a pound on butter on an original red investment of five or six cents, and one is able to do that he cannot in very much. But what is to be said of the case of a man whose wages are so small and whose family so large that the bulk of his weekly expenditure is for food, and whose food supply is limited to the most elementary products, such as bread and butter and eggs and meat and veg tables. Ten cents a dozen too much for eggs, ten cents a pound too much for butter, anything at all that is too much for meat or vegetables, brings this man and his family directly in view of the problem of hunger.

Death of Miss Bannister.

(Intended for last week) Georgina Alma Bannister, daughter of Charles and Ann Bannister, of Townsend Township, was born Sept. 28, 1864, and passed to the spirit world Dec. 11, 1912.

That we are mortal till our work is done to imagine that noise and display are seemed fully exemplified in her life. One marks of a person's importance. These of the elder daughters of a large family, things are vulgar and stamp a person as she was called at the early age of sevenignorant. Persons with good manners do teen to assume no small share of the renot enter a car talking in loud tones, nor sponsibilities of the home, because of an accident which deprived the mother of her sight. Then, with the mother she cheered and tended the father, for years confined to his chair, and then with failing health did what she could for the mother in her last illness.

Afflicted in early life with a slow, insidious disease which gradually reduced These pointed questions put by Olive her strength and vitality, she kept even death at bay with a strong will and invincible courage, praying only that she might be spared so long as she was needed.

Truly, she did what she could. Her task finished, she slowly sank until, wrapping the garment of the Resurrection around her, she passed over the river where many glad hands, we are assured, were stretched out in welcome.

roads and greater enterprise, if we may count on that, motor-cycles will replace the mail drivers' overworked and slow horse, and much time will be saved. An extension of the parcels post system is in order, and by these means the isolation of the farmer will almost cease. Parliament is now sitting. and every farmer should write his representative at Ottawa, calling attention to these necessities. Parliament is just now in a panie to spend many millions to protect the Empire from a danger that, to say the least, is not very urgent. Such expenditures are spectacular and impress the voters with the great loyality of the politicians. They should not be allowed to act here as they do in Great Britain where attention is distracted from social problems by declaring that the country is in danger from foes without Improvement of con-

Use Your Influence for Concrete Roads

There's no need to point out the advantages of good roads.

The kind of good road, however, is another matter.

It used to be that there was little choice. Macadam for the country and smaller cities was the only material used. Then, twenty years ago concrete was introduced. And for these twenty years concrete has been proving itself.

It is now acknowledged to be one of the best known materials for roads or for street pavements to be as far superior to ordinary macadam as macadam is superior to sand.

Estimating the Cost.

It is not the first cost of a road that determines it's real cost; nor is it the first six months of service that determines whether it's a good road or a poor one.

The only sure way to find out what a road has cost, is to add to the first cost all that is spent for repairs in fifteen or twenty years.

Now, that's where concrete roads win every argument—their first cost is practically their only cost; they require little or no upkeep cost. Concrete, instead of needing repair, actually becomes stronger with age. How You Can Help.

You can help your community to come to a wise decision the next time the question of roads comes up. Your influence will be a factor in providing yourself and your neighbors with thoroughly satisfactory highways.

We wish to convince you first-we know that when you are "backed up" with facts which we will gladly furnish you, you will be able to convince your neighbors.

Make it your business to get these facts. We have a special department which will not only give you the facts, but will also supply valuable assistance to any community desiring to build concrete
