J. J. COONAN

Nanticoke.

Edward Turner of Buffalo is visiting at W. F. Jackson's. John F. Ross has returned to Toronto after spending the holidays here. Miss Jean Reid of Willow Grove visited friends in town last week. Miss Lillian Jackson returned home last week from a two weeks' visit with friends in Buffalo. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ross are guests at J. C. Harvey's. Mrs. T. Evans is on the sick list.

Sandask

Miss Nellie Lindsay of Nanticoke spent the latter part of last week with her sister Mrs. John Westoby. A large number attended the Assembly given in the Music Hall on Friday eve. The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. J. R. Pond on Friday afternoon of last week. After the business was over Mrs. Joseph Peacock gave a paper on "Work." Mrs. Awde, on "Worry is worse than work." Mrs. Westoby on "Supper," and Mrs. C. Nichol sang a solo. The hostess treated the ladies to an oyster supper.

Marburg

If any wants any colder weather than this, they had better go west. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mar returned to their home in the West on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney McBride visited at Carl Smith's on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Austin of Lynn Valley visited the former's sister Mrs. J. A. McBride one day recently. Mrs. George Cruise had her telephone set outside because she could not get central only once in a while, however you can get it alright now, guess they pay attention better.

Springvale

Mrs. John McKeen is on a few weeks' visit to her son Emerson of Belmont. Miss Kindree of Cayuga and Miss Mitchell of Hagersville are the teachers in our school for the coming term. Mrs. E. Holbrook has returned from her visit in Hagersville. Mrs. E. Snell and daughter were visitors in our midst during the week. We are pleased to report that Mrs. J. N. Howard, who has been ill, is convalescing. Mrs. C. Benn has returned from her visit in Tilsonburg. The Threshing Co. held their annual meeting on Friday, Jan. 5th.

Reckford.

Rev. J. W. Kitching delivered a grand discourse on Sunday evening from the text "Be not conformed to this world but be ye transformed." Next Sunday he will speak on some phrase of Sunday School work and then on Wednesday following Jan. 24th the annual Sunday School Convention will be held in this church. A meeting of the Farmers Club was to be held in the schoolhouse on Thursday evening last, but on account of the condition of the roads Mr. Smith of Simcoe was unable to get here to address the meeting but it was held on Tuesday evening of this week instead. J. A. Marlatt is having auction sales of store goods, one this Thursday afternoon for the ladies and in the evening for the men. Nathan Miller wields the hammer. Inspector Cook of Simcoe visited our school on Monday. John McPherson has the contract to supply our school with fire wood for this year. We are pleased to state that Henry Lemon is able to attend to his duties again. Earl Kenney was home over Sunday from the O.A.C. Guelph. Miss Gertie and George Jones returned home last Friday from visiting friends at Forestville. Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith, Miss Cocking and Geo. Marston of Simcoe spent Sunday last at the former's parents Mr. and Mrs. Arth. Smith's. Miss Emma Ward of Townsend Centre visited over Sunday with the Misses Beaulaugh.

Easy to Get Rid of Dandruff

Dandruff means that down near the roots of your hair there is a vast army of little invisible germs or microbes.

And this army never sleeps; it wages a war of destruction night and day. It destroys the nourishment that the hair must have in order to grow vigorously and abundantly.

Parisian Sage now sold all over Canada will destroy the germs and at the same time furnish the hair roots with just the proper nourishment to make the hair grow lustrous and luxuriant.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed by T. E. Morrow to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp or money back. It is a delightful hair dressing and wins instant favor with refined women. Sold for only 50 cents a large bottle by T. E. Morrow and druggists everywhere. Girl with Auburn hair on every carton and bottle.

Reveal not to a friend every secret you may possess, for can you tell but what some time or other he may become your enemy? Likewise, inflict not on an enemy every injury in your power, for he may afterwards become your friend. The matter you wish to preserve as a secret, impart it not to anyone, although he may be worthy of your confidence, for no one will be so true to your secret as yourself. It is safer to be silent than to reveal one secret to anyone, and tell him not to mention it. O, good man, stop the water at the spring head, for when it is a full stream you can't arrest it. You should never speak a word which may not be related in every company.

Disease in Cigar

(By a Physician.) There is generally speaking, little danger of disease being communicated by getting the end of a cigar in one's mouth. To be absolutely certain a man should use a mouth piece. The old filthy habit of cigar-makers, shaping the cigar end by moistening and rolling between the lips has given away very largely to more sanitary methods. I would strongly advise smokers to refrain from clipping the ends of their cigars as a tobacco store clipper. I have seen men put cigars in their mouths, then in the clipper, and of course the man who followed stood a chance of getting some of the mouth secretions of the first.

Mechan-Parkinson

"Pleasant View" the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parkinson of Garnet, was on Tuesday, Jan. 16th, the scene of a quiet, but pretty home wedding when their daughter, Mary Ethel, was married to Andrew Mechan. Promptly at 12 o'clock, while Miss Ada Bisdill was playing the wedding march, the bride, Mary Parkinson, sister of the bride, acting as bridesmaid, the groom being supported by his brother, John Mechan. The bride was escorted to the room by her father who gave her away. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Arthur Clare Eddy, B.D. Both bride and bridesmaid were gowned in white, embroidered lawn. After congratulations the guests were ushered to the dining-room, where the wedding-dinner was served. The groom's favor to the bride was a double pearl brooch, to the bridesmaid a brooch of pearl and diamonds, his gift to the groom's favor being a maple-leaf scarf pin, set with pearls. The bride's going-away costume was a suit of blue silk, blue hat with white plume and fur-lined coat. Buffalo. Their wedding trip will also include New York City. The many friends wish the newly married couple a long and prosperous married life. The record also breathes fond sentiments over the happy pair.

Letter from California

Riverside, Cal., Jan. 3rd, 1912 Thinking that perhaps you would like to hear something about the weather in Southern California, I will submit a few facts gathered from observation and inquiry. It has been very cold for this part of the west for more than a month, and it culminated on Christmas. The thermometer that was left on the doors at and around San Diego to 14°, at different places, ranging from that up to 20 and 25° all through the so-called orange belt, which, of course, reached up to the north of Los Angeles as far as San Bernardino on the east. It is the general opinion of most people with whom you talk and who have been residents here for a good many years, that a large proportion of the crop of both oranges and lemons are badly damaged, if not entirely ruined; the trees they do not know. I came down to Ontario last Monday and visited with Wm. Plueman and family for a couple of days. Walking out with him among the orange groves in that vicinity we found the outer tips of the branches all frosted and shrivelled; we also found the same to be the case in most of the groves we passed. On our way down here this morning the orange groves were, those that were planted on the higher levels and nearest to the foot of the mountains suffered very little damage. At Corona, just south of Riverside the supposed best section of Southern California for lemon culture in the state, if not in the world, where you could not offer a price high enough to get an orchard or grove, the crop is mostly destroyed, according to the statement of a Riverside resident, something that has never happened since the settlement of that and in some instances ice.

The following poetical effusion is from the pen of one of our readers. As news was scarce and evenings long. To fill this space I'll write a song. It's about the men of this small town, Who keep the business moving along. The first to mention in J.A.B. Who is in business most extensively. The man of the town, the citizens say, And will use you well if you come this way.

There is J.A.C., who stands in rank, Equal to any chartered bank; A book-keepers' place he does fill: And from long experience fills the bill. Then comes J. R., a mechanic old, A plan he will furnish if so told; On house or barn, and will build complete And rest assured it will be done up neat. Then next comes Smith who grinds the grain, And gives the farmers their right change. You will find him here, rain or shine, And he deals on the square every time. Now comes Mr. Coonan, who reads the news, And also does repair the shoes; A harness he can neatly make, And you will find it up-to-date. A. B. and Pond, the blacksmiths two, From the iron can make a very nice shoe, And for your horse they will place it neat, For they are men that are hard to beat. F. N. is a fine young man, He has the wire at his command, The news he sends with lightning speed, It is a mystery to me indeed. Drs. Newell and Howell so very prim, They'll stick to you through thick and thin, They'll feel your pulse and then they'll say "How are you off for dinner to-day."

T.E.M. who runs the store, And he's a Conservative to the core, His assistant is a man of note, And he also knows which way to vote. J. H., our auctioneer, Who is a man that no one need fear, He sells the farmers' chatties And buys their hogs, sheep and cattle. There is Squire Chambers, Sout or and McCarter, Three implement agents who are hale and strong, And buy something new that will cut your ground clean.
