DOANIMALSTHINK?

Will Instinct Explain All Their Wise Performances?

Do animals think? asks C. Lintern Sibley in the January Canadian Magazine. The question, old as civilization itself and new as the day, is being more warmly debated now than ever before. Judging from the diversity of opinions expressed, we seem to be as far from a solution as ever.

Some scientists, experimenting with animals in the laboratory, deny the old, all embracing explanation of Descartes that pure instinct is the controlling factor in a creature's life, and declare that the animal "forms habits precisely like ourselves, stores up as habits many common experiences of life."

The new school of nature writers and observers, represented by such men as Mr. John Burroughs, claims that animals "act mainly through inherited habits and instincts, and that their acquired habits, so far from being a controlling factor in their lives, hardly have to be reckoned with at all." But this school, too, denies that animals possess any power of reasoning. They say that animals have intelligence, but that it is "the kind of intelligence that pervades all nature and which is seen in the vegetable, as well as in the animal world, but which differs radically in its mode of working from rational human intelligence."

As one who has long been a student of animal behavior, I maintain that neither of these schools is on the right track. Instinct, which Mr. Burroughs defines as "the kind of intelligence which pervades all nature, and is seen in the animal as well as in the vegetable world," is not a sufficient explanation of animal behavior, nor is the new psychology, that the key to animal behavior is neither reason nor instinct, but habit or experience.

I cannot see how either school can yield anything more than negative results, but I do think that another modern school, composed of those who rather glory in the sneering title of "nature fakirs," is contributing substantially to the understanding of animal behavior, and to the solution of the problem, "Do animals think?"

HUNTING THE CHEETAH.

The cheetah hunt which the Viceroy witnessed recently at Hyderabad reminds one that cheetah hunting was an extremely popular sport with Indian princes in former days, although the initiation of European forms of sport has done much in these times to rob it of its ancient vogue.

It was practised both by Hindu and Mohammedan chieftains over the greater part of India, [illegible] the cheetah even now is not a rare beast, and a century or so ago must have been common enough.

Another animal used in the same way by Indian nobles was a sort of lynx, spelled variously as "shoegoose," "Syahgush." But this was used much more rarely than the cheetah. However, it was not only Indians who indulged in this form of sport.

It was enjoyed and practised by Europeans as well in the days when they were content to abide in India for fifteen years at a stretch and when they lived a l'Indienne in a way unknown to modern times. More than one of the Company's nabobs kept their own cheetahs, which were frequently presents from friendly chiefs.

It may easily be imagined that cheetah hunting was very good sport and welcomed by the servants of the Company as an excellent substitute for the coursing which was familiar to them in England, and which, like the cheetah hunt, has vanquished before the spread of games such as tennis and golf.—Madras Mail.

COLORS FOR 1912.

They are splendid.
And they are soft.
There's Egyptian blue.
And there's Pompeiian red.
Watermelon pink is a lovely tint.
Sky blue and navy are as good as ever.

Soft foliage green shades rival emerald, apple and olive.

Russets and tans range from brown almost up to cream.

Violet, heliotrope and orchid mauve shades appear quite as usual.

There's yellow, too, though the reds greens and blues seem to be the leaders.

And black and white are as good as ever.

TO GIVE WARNING OF ICEBERGS.

The marine mierothermometer of Louis V. King of Montreal is designed especially to give warning on shipboard of the neighborhood of icebergs made invisible by fog. The instrument depends upon the change of electrical resistance with temperature, and consists of an iron wire coil of high resistance sealed water tight between two copper cylinders, and connected by suitable conductors to the electric battery and to a Wheatstone bridge in the chart room. The coil is supported about five feet below the surface of the water. The bridge gives measurements of the resistance variations, accurately indicating both absolute temperature and the small changes, and a suitable modification and combination with a chronographic recorder makes it possible to obtain an automatic and continuous record of the temperature to the 100th of a degree. Experiments near Labrador have shown no perceptible change in water temperature at more than a mile from an iceberg. On nearer approach there is first a sharp rise and then a rapid fall, and in the case of a ship that at 7 p. m. passed within half a mile of a very large iceberg, the microthermometer showed a rise at 6.45, reaching a maximum of 40.28 degrees Fahrenheit at 6.50, then a very rapid fall to 36.14 degrees at 7.03, and then, as the iceberg was left, a rapid rise to 39.48 degrees.—Springfield "Republican."

DREAMING.

(From the Catholic Standard and Times.)

I hate to read of millionaires
Because such reading seems
To hypnotize me utterly
And start me dreaming dreams.
How many times I've figured out
What I'd be apt to do
If I were in that fellow's place
And had a million too.
Of course I'd use my fortune well,
More sensibly than he,
For I'd give ten per cent. at least
As worthy charity.
Another ten per cent. would go
To help along a few
Of my deserving relatives
Whose bills are overdue.
And then my duty to the church:
Of course a goodly share—
Say, twenty-five per cent. or so,
Would be devoted there.
I'd give this latter quietly,
Insisting that my name
Must be withheld that none might know
Whence this donation came.
I'd only let the pastor know;
He'd have to know, you see,
Because my name upon the cheque
Would show it was from me.
Another twenty-five per cent.
Would do myself and wife
The income we'd derive from that
Would keep us both for life.
Then after that—well, after that
I dream away and plan
To spend still another ten per cents.
To help my fellow man.
And finally my dreaming gets
A bit confused and then
I take a tumble, and my feet
Touch solid earth again;
And common sense assures me, as
It stops me with a jerk,
I've wasted time enough to do
A dollar's worth of work.

Bright's Disease

(By a Physician.)

A good many men are constantly in fear of Bright's disease and physicians often receive calls from men who believe they are sufferers but are not. However, it is a disease not to be trifled with and when it has obtained a seat the question of a cure can be decided only by a thorough diagnosis of the case by a competent physician. The symptoms of Bright's disease are pain in the loins, swelling of the ankles, fever, chilliness, nausea, vomiting, anaemia and nearly always there is a marked increase in the kidney secretion.

IF.

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting, too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way in hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise.

If you can dream and not make dreams your master;
If you can think and your thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same,
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools.

If you can make one heap of all your winnings,
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the wil which says to them: "Hold on."

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings—nor lose the common ouch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a man, my son!

—Rudyard Kipling.

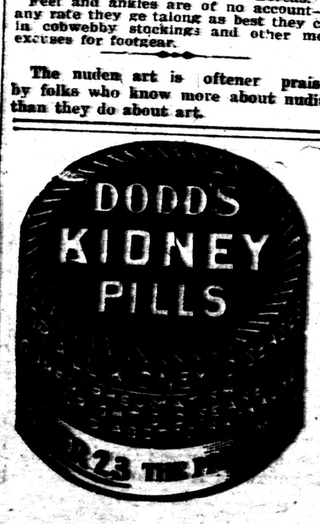
KEEPING WARM.

The girls know how.
Just watch some of them.
They're tender of their coiffures.
They pull for toques over their hair.
They pull for toques over their hair.
And judging by the muff sizes, they love their hands.
Shoulders stand well, too, if the fur scarfs count.
The greater part of the body is considered also, fur coats being prevalent.
But the throat is evidently of little account, being quite exposed to Boreas.
Feet and ankles are of no account—at any rate they go talong as best they can in cobwebby stockings and other mere excuses for footgear.

The nuden art is oftener praised by folks who know more about nudity than they do about art.



YOU CAN'T CURE CATARRH BY SWALLOWING DRUGS

Cough Syrups, Tablets and Sprays Sicken the Stomach But Don't Reach the Cause of Catarrh—Hence Their Failure to Help.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to root out Catarrh or Asthma, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure.

Catarrhozone has entirely discarded the old-fashioned remedies, such as cough syrups, sprays, tablets, and inhalative powders. It contains none of the opium, chloral and dronag narcotics so commonly found in liquid cough and catarrhal remedies.

Couldn't Breathe—"Catarrhozone" Cured.

"Now one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago," writes Mr. E. Root, a well-known resident of Bridgetown, W.I. "My head ached terrifically, I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief, so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone last two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SUN YAT SEN.

(Maurice Morris, in New York Sun)

Have you heard the news they've cabled
Here from old Nankin
(Where the trousers brown are labelled)?
Sure the King thing has been tabled.
All the Manchus have been stabled.
The republic's on the screen!

Yes, the dynasty they've licked out
With its guilt and guile,
And the regency they've kicked out
With its gold and gauds all tricked out,
And a President they've picked out
Quite in U. S. style.

Ere the ruction well got going
He'd been spotted unaware;
And we knew without a showing
That his cause would keep on growing;
'Twas inevitbale owing
To the cognomen he bears.

There's a subtle sort of something
Like a syllabled refrain
In his name. A kind of hum thing—
Yes, a sort of singsong, thrum thing—
And we all do the succumb thing
May he win through the campaign.

It will be no easy matter
To survive the twist and shock.
Foes without and in will batter
And there'll be a fearful clatter
Fro mprogressive and standpatter.
Here is luck unto the Doc.!

IN DAYS OF YOUTH.

Don't you recall when apples grew,
Oh, twice as big as now?
When fish, however, they were few,
Were monster ones, somehow?
When Gaine's mill-dam made a roar
As though the water hurled
Were gathered in a mighty store
From all the wide, wide world.

The oak trees and the beech,
Don't you remember when the trees,
Were lost in clouds on days like these
And eyes could hardly reach
Their waving tops? When noonday skies
Were oh, such deeper blue?
When Jack's great bean-stalk in our eyes
Just grew and grew and grew?

And there were bells, so more than fine,
Of blue and white and red,
Upon the morning glory vine
That climbed u pon the shed?
To be a wonder and delight,
So fresh and full of dew,
To bud an dopen in a night—
I see them now—don't you?

Don't you remember when the caves
Were thick and full of gloom,
Where cantice maidens, once like slaves,
Were chained in some damp room?
When twilight rustling in the brush
Was some fierce beast? A cow
It was, but cows at dusk are—Hush!
I think I hear one now.

Come take a little trip with me,
Forget the things that fret,
For you may close your eyes and see
Some things that I forget.
Why, I've seen Bluebeard's hidden room
And Cinderella's shoe!
And I have seen where violets bloom—
So blue! So blue! So blue!

WELL MATCHED.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Really modern couples are just as apt to be truly mated as the old-fashioned sort of which we read about in the romances. A young Clevelander, who is often described as a "man about town" became engaged not long ago, and he spoke as follows to the lady who had honored him: "I don't want to have anything that I must hide after we are married, dear. So I may as well tell you that I play poker, I stay out late and I bet on the races."

"I'm so glad to hear you say so," said the up-to-date girl, brightly. "I was so afraid that you and I wouldn't be perfect companions."

COSTS LIKE SIXTY.

(Philadelphia Record.)

And now that New York has had an armada show-down of Atlantic Sea power, the Pacific yearns and heaves. Seattle and San Francisco clamor for a bigger display on their bigger sea front. It is a beautiful game. It dazzles the eye. It inflames the imagination. It awes and abases the lesser Powers. It tickles the popular vanity. It tickles the cash registers. There is louder swagger and bolder strut at Oyster Bay. But it costs like thunder. The taxpayers whose wits draw down into their pockets to pay the score.

COMPARATIVE EXPORTS OF WOOD-PULP—1910.

(Forestry Press Bulletin, No. 62.)

Canada's export trade of wood pulp is increasing annually and during 1910 amounted in value to five million, seven hundred thousand dollars, according to information furnished to the Dominion Forestry Branch by the Department of Trade and Commerce. The three hundred and twenty-nine thousand (tons of pulp exported was an increase of forty-eight thousand tons over the amount shipped in 1909. Wood pulp exportations in 1910 amounted to seventy-per cent. of the total produced in Canada, whereas, in 1909, the proportion was only sixty-three per cent. Eighty-eight per cent. of the export was mechanical pulp, and the remaining twelve per cent. was chemical pulp. During 1910, over three-quarter s of the pulp exported went to the United States, while shipments to nearly all other countries decreased. The United Kingdom takes most of the remaining one-quarter, although exports to these countries have fallen off greatly. Particularly is this so with emenical pul- not one-seventh the amount being shipped in 1910 as in 1909. The average value per ton of the pulp exported in 1909 was $14.67, for the mechanical, and $36.35 for the chemical pulp. This is a combined average of $17.31, or 14 cents less per ton than for the previous year. The prices paid to Canadian exporters by the various importing countries were per ton for mechanical pulp: United States, $16.09, or exactly the same as in 1909, and United Kingdom $15.78, or $6.52 more. For chemical pulp, the amounts paid were: United States, $36.32 per ton, and United Kingdom, $41.60 per ton.

THE MINCE PIE.

(Niagara Falls Journal)

This is the festal season of the mince pie. When the icy blasts growl about and the cold clouds hang low in the sky then brings on the mince pie. It celebrates the solstice. It makes winter sweet and kind. With a big slice of mince pie in one's hand one can look out the window on a scene of snowy desolation and feel warm and comfortable.

A mince pie is a trust, an aggregation of great wealth. There is apple, meat, suet, spice, sugar, syrup and a dash of spirit, intended to tickle the appetie with a far away fragrance. Some people think that this combination bodes ill to the human stomach. We have well-supported testimony to the fact that it has been able to cure sick headache, dyspepsia, liver complaint, ataxia, tuberculosis, scoffula, rheumatism and a score of other troubles, but of these matters we can only speak by hearsay.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 8, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Try Cold Water

"Drink hot water in the morning" is a stock bit of advice for those suffering from constipation. And it is good advice, too—for some people. Hot water, with a little salt added to make it "go down" is a splendid laxative in many cases. But there are folks upon whom the hot water won't act in the desired way. It makes them sweat, and the water is thus diverted from the stomach and bowels. If you are one of these people, try cold water. Drink a full pint of cold water immediately upon rising. Of course, you think you can't, but try. After a while you can learn to drink it. This expedient works splendidly with some people.

"FOR THOSE IN PERIL ON THE STREET."

(Toronto Telegram.)

"Those who go down to the sea in ships" and "do business in great waters" are somewhat safer than citizens on foot in these great days.

The prayers of many a congregation are asked for members who are on the sea. Members who have to pass in front of automobiles or street cars are in greater danger, in more need of prayer. And, in the light of modern dangers, the old hymn of supplication should be revised so as to offer a prayer FOR THOSE IN PERIL ON THE STREET.

A MOMENT OF TRIUMPH.

(Lippincott's Magazine.)

Browning had just finished his poem "Sordello."

"There, by George!" he ejaculated as he signed his name at the end. If that hasn't got Henr- James and the sherman Law skinned ninety-two ways at once in the line of periphrastic ambagiosity and nubiferous obfuscation. I'll go in for vitrified diaphaneity from this time on."

A TRAGEDY.

(Montreal Herald.)

A schoolmaster had been relating to his boys in class the story of Lot's wife, how she looked back and turned into a pillar of salt.

A small boy rose and said:

"Sir, as I was walking along Cadieux street this morning, I saw a woman who looked back and turned into a grocer store."

NOT UP TO IT.

Harry Lehr's favorite story has to do with a couple of ambitious aspirants for admission into the exclusive social set of Chicago.

They were wealthy, a circumstance, it seemed to the young wife, that should make their progress a month over but their was one obstacle to their success this gave her no little uneasiness, and that was the utter lack of confidence displayed by her husband in his ability to "play the game."

When on one occasion they were talking things over and she had offered various suggestions as to his future line of conduct the unhappy husband interrupted to offer this observation:

"It's no use in me trying, Marie, I'm not qualified for this game at all. When I talk I have to stop eating, and when I eat I have to stop talking. I was never cut out for a society man."—New York Herald.

Ozonized Air for London Subways.

Ozonized air is to be introduced into one of the underground railways of London, where, particularly, during rush hours, the air is very offensive and consequently injurious. The proposed plan is to filter the air at each station and then pass a portion of it over ozonizers. Then the two will be mixed and part of it be forced into the tunnel.

SILK EMBROIDERED ADDRESS.

The rebellion in China and the sudden death of his colonial secretary prevented Sih F. G. Lulaw, the Governor of Hong Kong, from coming to India for the coronation durbar. The addresses from the colony will be sent to London and presented to the King on his return.

The silk embroidered address of congratulation from the Chinese community of Hong Kong will be one of the most elaborate that King George will receive. It is said to be the most magnificent specimen of the Canton embroiderer's art ever produced.

It is about 18 feet in length and 3 feet in width. The Chinese characters of the address are worked in deep crimson on a yellow field, and the wide border is filled with many artistic conceptions. At the foot the conspicuous features are two embroidered peacocks, the royal standard and the Union Jack crossed, and on either side of the flags a lion couchant.

A silver chain is provided for hanging the address. At the hanging point is the symbol of prosperity in jade, and on the top pole on which the address is suspended are two designs of dragons' heads worked in cloisonne on silver. The ends of the weighting pole are capped by carved ivory balls within balls, there being nineteen balls in each piece.

(Doris Webb, in Women's Home Companion)

I love to watch the street at night,
All quiet underneath the light
That swinging makes great shadows go
In dancing circles to and fro.

And when the night wind whispers by,
The leaves leap off the trees and fly
A long way down the street—so far
That soon I can't see where they are.

Then all at once I jump in bed
And almost cover up my head—
I'm not afraid, or cod at all,
But nurse is coming down the hall.

AIR GUNS.

(Rochester Herald.)

A 10-year-old boy killed his mother at St. Louis on Christmas Day with an air gun which he had received for Christmas and at Lawrenceville, Ill., a boy put out one of the eyes of a companion in the same way. We have always wondered why parents gave their children such dangerous weapons to play with.

A BUSY TOWN

Edson, Alberta, the first divisional point on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway west of Edmonton, has become a busy point. Teams are leaving every day for the Grande Prairie country. Up in the Peace River district road houses have been erected, and good accommodation for horses is assured. The route is the favorable one to reach the Peace River county at this time, and it is surprising to see the number of people that are going in.

THE BIRDS.

During the spring and summer the birds are the farmers' best friends, eating millions of insects and eggs of insects which injure crops, fruit trees and other growing things. It is well to remember this during the cold winter days and to throw out a little food for them.

DRINKING CUP CRUSADE.

(Buffalo News.)

The crusade against public drinking cups seems to have had a chill. Perhaps the weather has something to do with it just now. But the News hopes that Commissioner Fronczak will without delay push it along. The testimony as to the evils arising from the indiscriminate use of the cup is overwhelming. Literally, it is one of these armaments that is sickening when the fact sare assembled and the consequences of such use are shown.

Dr. Fronczak has stated that the public drinking cup and the roller towel are to go next from public places, and he ought to be able to make them go without standing on the order of their going. The more swift and vigorous he is in that work the better he kwill be appreciated and the more he will be applauded by the public.
