Fall Wheat is Damaged

The outlook for the fall wheat crop in Ontario, which was regarded as very bright a few weeks ago, owing to the splendid condition in which it had come through the winter, now points to only a fair crop at the most. Few complaints of the crop being winter-killed have been made, and most farmers who report damage attribute it to the intermittent periods of unusual warmth and severe frost that marked the early stages of spring. Gradually as the season advanced the wheat was observed to be wilting, instead of developing new shoots and now in parts of many fields the crop has taken on an ashy, deathlike color. These conditions are reported from areas that are unprotected, and it is believed that the general crop is by no means as seriously affected. Advice received at Guelph indicate that the loss will fall heavily upon some individuals, but that the majority of farmers will have at least average crops. Parts of the Western Ontario and along the lake from east and west of Toronto are reported to be more or less affected. According to a press despatch more than half the total area sown in fall wheat in the central States was winterkilled.

A Sensible Editor

George Waterman of Sidney, Iowa, has been editor of the Sidney Herald for twenty-six years, and in speaking of his twenty-six years' experience tells a great deal of truth in a few words regarding the newspaper business. In part, Mr. Waterman says: But it has not been all sunshine and roses. We have made a few enemies along as we have friends, and we can't expect anything else. Many a fool editor has made the fatal mistake of trying to please everybody. That sort of an editor has not yet been born, and his mother is dead. To publish such a paper would be necessary to palaver all persons and all factions, only to find that the immediate subject of the "plush" was the only party pleased while all others entered strenuous objections. The newspaper that cares for support should stand ever ready and willing to boost any enter prize calculated to bring good to the town and community which it represents. On the other hand should any person or anything become an object of censure—not from the editor viewpoint merely, but echoing the sentiment of the populace the facts should be published to the world without fear or favor. It is the editor's province to lend all praiseworthy undertakings; it is his mission to mourn with the sorrowing; it is his pleasure to rejoice with those who are glad. But it likewise is his bounden duty to expose crime, denounce fraud, oppose intolerance and bigotry, take the part of the persecuted, puncture the high blown pride of the insolent, and above all decry immorality.

Teachers, you might tell the boys not to rob the birds' nests. Even the sparrow has its moral, if not legal rights.

After a woman has been married three or four years, she begins saying of her husband: "He used to wait on me, but now half the time he doesn't know I'm on earth."

About Things

Seeding is now in full swing in this district and farmers are very busy preparing the ground for sowing the seeds. The ground in most places is in splendid condition and everything promises well. Spring has fairly set in; the Canadian choristers are out in force every night and the trees are shooting forth their buds. The spring housecleaning campaign, also, is fairly on and every person is busy. We live in a glorious country and cannot be too thankful for the innumerable blessings and privileges we enjoy.

Maxims for Newly Weds

Begin well and end better. If you give and take, no heart will break. Concession of a fault makes half amends. Silence is often the golden key of happiness. Trust in Providence, but keep the kettle boiling. Make no display of the sacrifices you make for each other. Never deceive; confidence once lost can never be wholly regained. Don't both be angry at the same time; it takes two to make an anger. Bitterness dies before a temper sweet. Avoid "touchiness," and cultivate cheerfully the give-and-take spirit. Always remember it is better to hear the laughter of children than to see an orderly room.

Hicks' Forecasts for May

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on the 18th, 19th and 20th, with Moon at perigee and extreme north declination. Atmospheric tides, or wind currents, will be strong from the south, causing high temperature and low barometer, with ret in of rain and thunder storms at this period. The moon being nearest the earth on the 19th, and furthest north on the 20th, will necessarily bring its disturbing influence to bear most forcibly in the northern hemisphere. Ocean tides and perturbations will be greatest in latitudes corresponding to the Moon's north declination, hence—why not atmospheric tides, as well as electric and magnetic concentration? A cool wave will follow this period from the northwest.

Does it pay to Advertise

Two farmers were not long since discussing their local paper. One thought it had too many advertisements in it. The other replied; "In my opinion the advertisements are far from being the least valuable part of it. I look them over carefully and save at least five times the cost of the paper each week through the business advantages I get from them." Said the other, "I believe you are right, I know that they pay me well and rather think it is not good taste to find fault with the advertisements after all. These men have the right idea of the matter. It pays any man with a family to take a good local paper for the sake of the advertisements if nothing more. And if business men fail to give farmers a chance to read advertisements in the local paper they are blind to their own interest, to say the least of it. "You never trade with me," said a business man to a prosperous farmer. "You have never invited me to your place of business and I never go where I am not invited; I might not be welcome," was his reply.
