Do not spend more than you can afford on Christmas tokens. Nothing justifies it. Friends who know your circumstances will worry if they do not criticize you for false pride or love of display. If you put thought into your giving it will save you pennies.

The following has been handed to us as a prize definition of a good husband: The bread of life for the moral heart of a woman is made of the flour of respect, moistened with the water of confidence, raised with the leaven of gracious temper, sweetened with the sugar of love, seasoned with the salt of common sense, shortened with truth and the whole made palatable by the free use of the potatoes of forgiveness.

Money Returned

A man homeward bound, chanced to lose his week's pay, which the same he had toiled hard in earning. He hunted in vain, and at last cast away all hope of it ever returning. A neighbor induced him to place a "Lost" ad. In "The Record" and 'twas seen by the finder—
The lost was restored, the loser made glad. And the view of his fellows made kinder.

To err is human, to brag about it is devilish.

Be enthusiastic, but don't mistake enthusiasm for mere hustling. A fly in a bottle might buzz its life away without getting anywhere. Enthusiasm finds the way and the means of accomplishing one's purpose.

Do you remember how delighted you were the last time you heard Howard Russell sing. You will have the privilege of hearing him again in Music Hall, Jarvis, on Thursday, Nov. 29. Plan of hall at drug store, Jarvis.

The remains of Mr. Chas. Reid, a former resident of Springvale, were interred in that Cemetery on Tuesday, Nov. 19. He was taken ill with pneumonia while in charge of the rural mail route from Carlisle to Hamilton and passed away after a few days illness. He was a brother-in-law of James Reidill and Thos. Bowman. His wife predeceased him nearly two years ago. Two sons survive.

Sir Wilfred Laurier was last Wednesday congratulated by his assembling followers in Parliament on being seventy-one years young. The Old Chief's desk, in his office in the Commons building, was decorated with bouquets of red roses, presented with the birthday congratulations of the Liberal party and of his hosts of friends in the capital. At seventy-one he is in as good if not better health and spirits than at any time in his life. He enters the session in splendid fighting trim, and is apparently good for many more years of active public service.

It takes money to run a printing office, the same as any other line of business. Wages, stock, and a hundred other things must be paid for in cash. We do not grow this cash in our back yard; it must come from those who owe us and it should come regularly before a big bill has run up. It is much easier to settle a comparatively small account than when it accumulates and becomes a formidable total. Some newspaper readers have a strange idea that editors do not count much on subscriptions. A dollar is one hundred cents, whether it is for subscription, job work or advertising. Also one hundred subscriptions two or three years in arrears amount to just two or three hundred dollars—a sum worth considering from a newspaper man's point of view. It might also be pointed out that "darning" is not a pleasant thing to do and if those who owe money would come around and pay up or explain that they can do so at some specified time, it would be much more satisfactory for all concerned.

It costs as much to lose as it does to win.

The glorious weather of the past week helped those western grain-growers wonderfully in the transportation of their grain by water from the head of the lakes. Yet it is not likely you will hear of any thanksgiving services on that account.

Poor Michael Fraser, the noted octogenarian bridegroom, has paid the debt of nature. Who can confidently assert that his end was hastened by the entanglements of the law? Many another bright young life has owed its premature close to the same source.

"Walter Bates, the Hamilton tenor, who has been through Western Canada and the United States on a concert tour ever since early fall, expects to be in Hamilton again about the end of this month. He was in St. Paul, Minn., the end of last week, his remaining engagements being Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit. He has had a most successful tour and won laurels everywhere."—Hamilton Times.

The bleak cold winter is coming, the time when life is hardest for the poor in a rural community. At a time when living is at its highest point the working man finds it hardest to obtain profitable employment. Many who suffer most at such a time have themselves to blame for their misfortunes. But if all men were provident, life would not be the same for all those who are now classed as successful. But speculations do not help much when the demand is for bread. One good plan to keep work going during a trying time is worth a dozen speculations. The very best help that a man of capacity can give is a plan for employment. Doles of charity are often humiliating.

Finger prints are convincing evidence, but they may be evidence of good deeds as well as bad. For example, the finger prints on a Christmas present are proofs of good deed. The recording angel will see them if nobody else does. They will thus be accepted in the highest court. Have you put these telltale marks on Christmas presents this year? If not, it is high time to begin. Finger prints can be used for few higher purposes than in picking Christmas gifts for our friends. But be sure to get your finger prints on the things BEFORE THEY HAVE BEEN PAID OVER BY EVERYBODY ELSE. If you wait, there will be so many finger marks on the goods that it will be hard to distinguish yours from the rest. Therefore Shop Early.

A jail is being constructed in the rear of the Town Hall, Port Dover. The building has a cement floor and the walls will be of cement blocks. A portion of the building will be used as a storeroom for the village's fire-fighting equipment.

It is very easy to drift into the habit of "roasting" people. If you will cultivate the habit of letting people alone, you will find it a good deal more satisfactory. I don't believe in meaningless praise, but I earnestly advocate letting people alone.

Canned peas, unless specially designated must under new regulations be prepared from the harvest of the year in which they are canned, and shall be the unripe peas of the crop of that year. If other peas are used, it must be stated on the label.

A correspondent asks if anyone can beat the record of a woman who was married at the age of 21, and in 19 years was the mother of 20 living children. We fear that instead of attempting to beat this record the impulse would be to beat the husband.

There is little if any betting upon horse show competitions, and yet it is to be observed that Canadian horses can hold their own with the best animals the United States can produce. Evidently it is not necessary for the improvement of the carriage horse and the saddle that people should bet upon them.

In almost every church in Toronto and in many churches throughout other parts of Ontario last Sunday addresses in favor of the abolition of the bar were delivered. Before the close of the year probably every church in the Province will declare against the continuance of the bar, Clergymen and church members, without respect to party ties, are a unit in demanding that the bar, with its open invitation to young and old to get drunk, shall go.

Two young women entered a street car and found only standing room. "I am going to get a seat," said one to her companion, "now you see." Selecting a sedate looking man she walked up to him. "My dear Mr. Green!" she exclaimed, "how delighted I am to meet you! You are almost a stranger. Will I accept your seat? Well I do feel tired, I admit. Thank you so much." The man rose. "Sit down Jane my girl," he said as he courteously pointed to the vacant seat. "Don't often see you out on a wash day. You must feel tired, I'm sure. How's your mistress? But the young woman hurriedly fled from her seat and got off at the next corner.

The roses growing along the prime-rose path of dalliance soon lose their fragrant beauty; but the thorns, as usual, still remain.

Work, but don't worry; work is a tonic; worry a poison; a day of worry will bring more gray hairs than a week of work.

Nearly all wives contradict their husbands. When a man tells a good story his wife says, "No, dear that's not right, etc., and spoils the whole effect.

Andrew Rodgers received a card from his son Robert at Quill Lake, Sask., showing a photo of 7 wild turkeys, 5 geese, 24 ducks and 1 prairie chicken, the result of seven hours shooting done by himself and companion, Burnett Lawson.

It is cheering to know that one instrument at least can be counted on to bring health and longevity to those who practice it. This is the flute. Doctors recommend it for incipient consumptives—as the operation of playing the instrument involves the precise motion of the lungs of most benefit to consumptives; that is, full inspiration, not too full or strained; followed by slow and gentle delivery of the breath.

It is not so hard to finance the churches of this community as it was thirty years ago, but it is a lot harder to get the men out to meeting. As religion gets deeper into the pockets of men it seems to yearn more and more to let the dollars do the shouting. The women are sensible on this point, they wear no pockets, and are able to flock to the churches unembarrassed. But the old days are still cherished by many, the days of the warm hand shake and hearty sympathy.

A sensitive man gets a lot of bumps in a lifetime to make him feel cheap, and some of them are very troublesome when the sun goes down. There are regrets, too, which persecute with their tearings and narrowness of judgement and feebleness of mind. But the man who shot Roosevelt must feel even more disappointed with the conduct of his faculties. He couldn't wait until the people had a chance to speak. The thing he mistook for a lion proved to be a poor little mouse.

A synopsis of the annual report of the provincial police, just published, furnishes interesting data. By the number of cases prosecuted and convictions secured, it proves that Ontario possesses an efficient body of men to handle its criminal element. As might be supposed, the major portion of its effort has been centered on the suppression of illegal liquor selling, and its success may be judged from the substantial amount collected in fines. The carrying of concealed weapons has also been vigorously combatted, and the soundness of Canadian legislation against this pernicious custom verified. All in all, the document illustrates much progress on behalf of law and order.

It is astonishing how little suffices to pay the social expenses of many families in town who are in a position to give. With the exception of taxes they pay nothing towards the cause of law and order in town, nothing towards the support of the churches and schools. And yet these people grumble at the amount of their taxes. As a matter of fact their taxes should be doubled to make up for their short comings in other respects. Those who will give to the support of necessary causes in the community for which no taxes can be levied, consider themselves fortunate if they can escape by paying just twice as much as the tax bill calls for. The old non-conformist, who abolished tithes and compulsory support of the churches imposed a greater burden upon the earnest christian than they suspected in their day.

Hicks' Forecasts—November

A reactionary storm period is in progress as we enter December. The Moon is on the celestial equator on the 2nd, and at last quarter on the 1st. The center of the Venus period is on the 3rd. We are careful to mention all these facts here and elsewhere, because they have direct relation as cause and effect in storm, weather and all seismic phenomena. Low barometer, much warmer weather, and electrical storms will be most natural on and touching the 2nd. Rain and winter thunder will touch many sections, followed by sudden and violent change to colder—a cold wave spreading far to the south and east.

An anchor for lifeboats has been invented that is hollow, and filled with oil, which will still the waves after it has been thrown overboard.

In the English city of Coventry there has been established a plant in which the city's refuse is burned. The heat generating steam for an electric light plant, while the ashes are compressed into paving blocks.

The latest reason given for general good roads is that they would make the establishment of a rural police force for the protection of small towns and villages practicable. This is a strong point in their favor, for this country needs protection against petty offenders, and needs it badly.
