Two Newspapers that should be in every home in this District

By special arrangement we are able to offer our own paper along with The Weekly Mail and Empire, the two together, from now till January 1st, 1913. for 35e or from now till January 1st, 1914 for $2.00. This is an opportunity for getting the two most valuable papers for the homes and tiresides of this district, and we are hopeful that the full value of this unprecedented offer will appeal in the most practical way to all within the limits of our circulation. The Weekly Mail and Empire is conceded to be the best town and country paper published in Canada, and its special department devoted to agriculture, horticulture, dairying, poultry-raising and stock breeding, renders it invaluable to the rural and farming interests. Its magazine see ion contains the best of the current literature of today, its scientific and legal columns supply information on practical subjects and problems; while the news section gives the latest happenings of Canada and all the world. To the people of this community the merits of our own paper are well known, so surely the best local paper and the great metropolitan weekly— the two together at little more than the price of one should mean many new subscribers. Send all orders to the office of this paper.

Hicks' Forecastsee October

A regular storm period, central on the 9th, covers the 7th to 12th. Earth Mercury and "Vulcan" will unite in this period, with Moon at perigee on the 7th, on the equator on the 8th, and new, at a total eclipse node, on the 10th. Great atmospheric disturbances are probable at this period. Severe West India storms are very likely, and the barometer readings should be carefully watched along al' southern coast regions. Tidal disturbances are to be expected. Thunder, rain and high winds. rain and high winds will visit many interior parts of the country, turning in northern sections to sleet and snow. An early cold wave, for the season, will come with the rising barometer behind these storms, sending frosty nights far towards the south. A very marked seismic per iod involves the 7th to the 13th, central

SOME FAMOUS DRINKS.

"Thirst" Incidents Which Have Come Down In History.

The proposal of the Dutch to esect at Zutphen a statue to Sir Philip Sydney recalls to mind the world-famed episode of the dying soldier, with which his death is inseparably connected. It occurred when that Paladin on September 22, 1586, received his death wound before the walls of Zutphen. Parched with thirst, he called for a drink.

As he was putting the bottle to his mouth his eyes fell upon a desperately wounded soldier, who as he was being carried past threw him longing glances, which Sir Philip perceiving, took the bottle from his lips before he drank and delivered it to the poor man with these words: "Thy messasity is not greater than mine."

In the murder of Edward the Martyr in 979 a cup of wine played a tragic part. Wearied with the hunting the young monarch was persuaded to seek refreshment at Corie Castle, in Dorsetshire, the abode of his step-mother, the widowed Queen Effrida. Upon his entrance she greated him with a kins and then, as he resisted her invitation to dismount, brought from the castle a gobiet of wine. Even as the King raised it to his lipe one of her retainers drew his dagger and with fatal effect plunged in into his back. Every June the quaint old town of Rothenburg celebrates by a costume festival which goes by the name of "Meister-Drank" the mighty feat of a former town councillor who in 1691 saved the town from destruction. In that year Rothenburg fell before the arms of the savage Tilly, who at the head of the forces entered the vanquished town, where at the town hall he gave orders for the execution of the civic magistrates. Before, however, the doomed men were led forth to the scaffold the burgomaster's daughter presented herself bearing an immense flagon of wine, out of which the conquerer drank and passed in around to his officers. All quenched their thirst and yet the flagon was only half empty. Seeing this, the fair Hebe remarked that one of the councillors present was able to empty the stoup at a draught. "If such be the case," cried Tilly, turning to the condemned magistrates, "I will pardon you all for the drinker's sake. Fill the flagon to the brim."

This was done, and then one of the city's magistrates, stepping forward seized the vessel, raised it to his lips, and neither drew breath nor set it down until he had quaffed its contents to the last drop. Then only did he reverse the flagon in proof that the feat had been accomplished. Tilly kept his word, and every year in com-memoration of their deliverance do the citizens of Rothenburg enact over again this famous event in their town's

The Correspondence of Royalty. If one were asked to speculate as to the sovereign whose daily mail bag was the greatest one would hasthe Kaiser, says The London Globe. But no. Then most will say it ought to be. On the unimpeachable authority of a Paris contemporary we learn that the Pope is the recipient of the greatest number of missives. The mail of his holiness consists on the average of 23,000 letters, newspapers, etc. To go through this mass 35 secretaries are kept employed. The President of the United States receives nearly 1,000 letters daily and about 4,000 journals and books. The Kaiser's mail consists of 4,000 letters and frequently the same number of books and papers. Our King, we learn, is favored with 1,000 letters a day and over 2,000 newspapers and books. The Czar is not papers and books. The Czar is not overworked in this respect for a sovereign, his majesty's mail being given at 650 letters, etc., per day. The kings of Italy and Spain have to deal with about 300 letters each. Queen Wilhelmina is still more favored, with 150 letters, etc. But President Falliance is still more fortunate. dent Fallieres is still more fortunate, for we are told that he receives few letters and hardly any papers.
