CARBOLIC POISON.

Vinegar Used Either Externally

In such eases one has to act with promptness and vigor, especially where one is a long way from the doctor and cannot afford to wait for his arrival.

Heretofore alcohol was been the great antidote to carbolie acid poisoning. But alcohol is not always at hand; and even when it is its use requires great discrimination, or as much harm as good may be done by its administration.

Readers will be glad to know that common eider vinegar is equally good, and that it is an article which may be found in practically every well-regulated household. Where the acid has been spilled over the skin the vinegar may be applied pure, and will quickly restore the natural condition of the skin that has been injured, removing the soreness and other ill-effects. If the acid has been swallowed the vinegar should be diluted one-half or two-thirds, and given slowly in teacupful doses.

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc. DON'T OVERDO YOUR WORK.

(By A Physician).

This is spring housecleaning time. The annual turning inside out of the house may be health-making or health-breaking. It may be done sanely or insanely! The subject may seem a strange one for consideration by a physician, at first thought. But there are scores of women who are obliged to seek the doctor after the annual scrub-out for the simple reason that they have not done it sanely. In other words, it is part of the duty of the woman in the home to stop before she overdoes her strength. In her effort to preserve health through cleanliness in her house she must remember that it is possible to over-estimate her own endurance, thereby paying an unreasonable, unnecessary price for clean windows, dustless floors, bright walls and shining woodwork. The woman works until she drops; tries to get two days' labor into one and makes herself the slave, instead of the mistress, of her household duties, is in the healthbreaking business. The woman who maps out her work according to her strength forbids her ambition to run away with her calmer judgment and divides her duties into reasonable daily doses is health-making for her whole family. Many a long illness could be traced to an overdose of work which might have been cut up into sections to fit the muscles and strength of the woman eafled upon to do it. Carry a little of your sane judgment into your spring house cleaning and save a doctor bill or a nervous breakdown.

A USEFUL COURT.

(New York Sun)

A keen and general interest we be tel in the working of the Morate Court which sat for the first time in Chicago yesterday. Its purpose, as we understand it is to prevent rather than punish the sou of offences that come before it, to return characters rather than merely to check and interrupt temporarily evil courses In the matter of women of the town, in particular, salutary and fruitful efforts are awaiting from it. In wise, prudent and thoughtful hands meh a tribunal should be able to accomplish much; nor should it be discouraged by many failures. A little improvement, a little gradual game: that is how the reclamation of character works, and not by cataclysms.

242 DAYS BEFORE MIRROR.

Lovers of statistics may be interested to know the calculations just made by a well-known authority here to the amount of time the average woman spends before her mirror between the ages of 6 and 70.

He reckons that between 6 and 10 years she remains on the average seven minutes before the glass every day; from 10 to 15 years a quarter of an hour; from 15 to 20 years 22 minutes; from 25 to 30 years half an hour or 35 minutes. At this period the maximum The downward curve allows 24 main-ates between the ages of 35 and 40 years. Finally, between 50 and 60 the elderly woman finds six minutes enough to study her reflection.

The figures of a lifetime reach the total o 13-9,575 minutes, or nove than 242 days. - Paris Cor. New York Times.

TOMATO CULTURE

New Pamphlet By Dominion Horticulturist.

Almost anyone with a garden or farm in a temperate climate can grow tomatoes with greater or less success, but LINIMENT myself as well as prescribed there is a great difference between the it in my practice where a limiment was prescribed another expedition had taken the next in my practice where a limiment was most likely route. Amundsen had no there is a great difference between the extent and quality of the crops grown by different persons in the same locality. These differences are due to several causes, among which the varieties grown and methods of cultivation practised are perhaps the chief.

According to experiments carried on for years at the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, Earliana, of which there are several strains, is the best early sort, but Bonny Best, Chalks' Early Jewel are also good early kinds. Of later varieties Matchless Trophy, Livingston's Globe and Pientiful rank high.

It is the early fruit that makes the profit. In growing plants what should be aimed at is the production of a tees, peas or beans, a very little dry stocky, sturdy plant which will have some fruit set upon it when set in the field. After planting the chief work in cultivation, which should be done both ways in the plantation.

In order to protect tomato plants from diseases, of which there are several, they should be repeatedly sprayed. leven when quite young, with Bordeaux mixture. These and many other points. which cover practically the whole field of tomato culture in the greenhouse, as well as in the garden and field, are fully treated in pamphlet No. 10 of the Central Experimental Farm, prepared by the Dominion Horticulturist, Mr. W. T. Macoun. This work is for free distribution to all who apply for it to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.
