VALUE OF SPAC

SPACE VALUE IN THE JATVIS RECORD IS worth more to those wishing to reach the homes of Jarvis than by any other method or use. This journal goes into all the homes all the time. It is appreciated and READ BY HUNDREDS.

If you want to rent an office, home, etc., there is no better way than through these columns. Likewise the sale or attention of any article. It is true our rates are just a little higher than some other journals, but value counts. There is more value in Janvis advertising than the rate warrants.

THE AEROPLANE WEBS!

Affords Bride and Groom a Chance to Get Even With the Guests.

Let us indicate briefly a few salient features of the new social institution, the aeroplane wedding, says a magazine writer.

The seroplane wedding solves the problem of the getaway. When the happy couple depart in an airship their loving friends cannot scare the horses into running away and breaking the bride's neck. Nor is it possible for them to throw high enough to black the bridegroom's eyes with old shoes. The newly-wedded pair are, in fact, in a position to bombard the wedding guests if they so desire. A five-pound boot dropped on a Get The Best-It pays wedding guest from a height of 250 feet ought to bring him a tremendous amount of good luck, according to the traditions of wedding festivity. An aeroplane honeymoon ought to be fascinating. Imagine sailing along all day without having to stand the bold, bad gaze of a patent leather drummer in the seat across the aisle. Fancy being too far up in the clouds loafers at the railway station. But airship honeymoons are as sure to come to an end as the other kind. In a careless moment the

to hear the ribald whistle of the young bridegroom will say:

"You do very nicely at the levers, my dear, but your figure eights, are nothing like mother used to make." A new form of wedding announcement will have to be prepared for the society reporters, in part as follows: 'Mr. and Mrs. Winger left immedi-tended aviation tour in France. If they return they will reside at 26 Laurel Road." Aeroplane marriages are highly dangerous perhaps, but all kinds are, for that matter.

Great Scientists Not College Men. It is a remarkable fact that neither Darwin, Pasteur, Koch, Newton, Franklin nor Edison ever had a university education. A writer adds to this list the name of Ehrlich, whose eminence in the field of medicine has so recently been emphasized.

"Paul Ehrlich," he says, "could not even graduate, and, horrors and horrors, in chemistry he was worst of all. He was always trying to do things differently from his teachers, who had never done an original thing and were merely teaching him what had been taught to them. He was considered a failure as a sudent at the very time he was the best student of his decade. If education is merely pouring facts into the pupil's skull with a funnel, as the majority of teachers practice it, then we are training the memory alone, but if it is to be a real drawing out of mental faculties then the graduate may be permitted to be as ignorant of old, useless facts as Ehrlich was and the world profit by it. Let us think a bit over this matter and then realize that we want workers and thinkers, not memorizers."

Now. Who Could Blame Him?

A thin little woman who couldn't corner with a heavy baby in her arms. The rest of her stepladder family, ranging from three to seven, were grouped around her. She wanted to flag a motor bus, and a passer-by saw her difficulty. He hailed one, put the tribe aboard and paid the fares, as the little woman's hands were so fully occupied with the fat baby. He was beginning to feel that glow over doing a decent thing decently when he heard a woman in the bus say: Lock at that great big man allowing his poor little wife to carry that big child!"

Then he got sore.

Tumbiers and Hot Water.

Incredible as it may seem, a thin tumbler stands hot water better than a thick one. Glass is a poor conductor of heat, and when very hot water is poured into a thick tumbler the inner layers of the glass are soon heated to a much higher temperature than the outer ones. The higher temperagreatly and to burst the out layers. In the case of a thin tumbler the whole thickness of the glass is raised almost at once. Consequently, as all parts expand equally and at the same time, no excessive strain is produced and the glass does not break.

Was It Worth It?

A lady had told a tramp that she would give him some food if he chopped up a pile of wood. Wishing to show that he was no mere loafer, he started work, but fifteen minutes later he came to the kitchen door. "Have you finished?" inquired the lady kindly. "No'm," he replied, mopping his presplying brow-"no'm, I haven't. I just thought, before doing any more, I'd ask if I could look over your bill

Changed His Tune.

Counsel for a man charged with pocket-picking pleaded with such earnest and pathetic eloquence as to move the court almost to tears. Even the prisoner was rubbing his eyes, using a silk handkerchief for the purpose. Counsel, happening to glance less and luxuriant; to cure all itching diseases of the scalp, or money abruptly and then exclaimed, "Why, the rascal is using my handkerchief!"

THINGS THEY DO IN SIAM

Dote on Penfumes and Chew Tea Instead of Drinking It.

Perfumery is extensively used in Siam, and eau de Cologne, Florida water, scented hair lotions and oils, face creams and cosmetics are in constant demand. German, French and English firms send out salesmen every year or six months to look after this trade. Few, if any, western perfumes are to be found on the Siamese market. The people prefer jasmine, rose and violet scents.

Ordinary kerosene lamps are used in most Siamese houses outside of Bangkok, as only that city has electric lighting and coal is too expensive for use in producing illuminating gas. The greatest demand is for wall lamps, which are used in the thousands of houseboats, which line the rivers and canals of Siam, and in the homes of the peasants.

Instead of being used as a beverage, the leaves of the tea plant, after being fermented, are rolled into balls, one of which is placed in the hollow of the cheek and allowed to remain there until the soluble contents have been exhausted by the saliva. The sloping.

which went to Hong Kong. The tobacco leaf grown is said to be of peculiarly fine texture and would Paris and the other in Vienna, who probably displace foreign tobacco in were attacked by rheumatic ophthalthe local markets if it were cured by modern methods.

At present the leaves are kept in the dark until partly dry, then folded lengthwise one upon another, cut into cross sections and exposed to the sun for a day or two, after which they are ready for consumption. One of the chief uses for tobacco here is for cigarettes. A considerable quantity of native tobacco is mixed with areca nut and betel leaf and used for chewing, the imported tobacco never being used for this purpose.

That Was All.

A young girl who is always trying some new thing was present once when the doctor set a neighbor's broken arm. She was sure that she knew exactly how it was done and was anxious to put her knowledge into practice. Some time later a hen out in the chicken yard broke its leg. The girl directly announced that she meant to set it "and make it as good as new." Accordingly it was put into a plaster cast and left for the proper length of time to knit. When the day came to take off the cast the girl ran out to the henhouse in great eagerness to see the result. Presently there was a scream that brought every member of the family to her side. The chicken was jumping miserably over the ground sidewise instead of directly forward. You know a hen's leg has a crock. Well, she had crocked it the wrong way; that was all.

A Bran Pie. Alfonso, king of Aragon, attended by weighed a hundred stood on a several of his courtiers, called on a jeweler to inspect some of his wares. No sooner had he left the shop than the proprietor came running after him and complained that he had been robbed of a diamond of great value. The king returned to the shop and ordered a large vessel filled with bran to be brought and placed on the counter. He then commanded each of his courtiers to insert his hand closed and then withdraw it open. He was the first to begin, and after all had had their turn he asked the jeweler to empty the vessel on the counter. By this means the diamond was recovered and nobody was disgraced.

The Price of Reform. When the circus was in town the other day an inquisitive visitor interviewed the manager of the sideshow. "You used to have a very remarkable glass eater," began the noisy one. 'Is it possible that y u have discharged him?" "Alas, yes," was the answer." "If you remember him you will recall that he used to eat beer bottles. Well, a few months ago a temperance orator got hold of him and made him sign the pledge. After that he refused to eat anything but mineral water bottles, and they were too expensive. Se he had to go. Too bad. He was one of our best attractions. Carried Too Fer.

He had an invariable way of asking the wrong question or making the wrong comment. So it was when at a dinner party his neighbor, a lady, said to him: "I am a thorough believed. er, you know, Mr. Smith, that men s clothes should match their hair. A black haired man should wear black clothes; a brown haired man should wear brown clothes. Don't you think-80?

"That may be," bungled Smith, 'but suppose a man is bald?"

Resources of Genius.

The editor looked over the manuscript submitted by the village poet and frowned. "Here is one line," he said, "in which you speak of 'the music of the cider press.' How would you undertake to imitate the 'music' of the cider press?" "I should think it might be done with a juice harp," answered the poet.

The Constellations.

It would seem that the ancients, who are responsible for the fanciful names the constellations are burdened with, went far afield in their efforts. While the marvelous beauty of these jewels of sidereal space is apparent to all, it is difficult to find appropriate reason for such monstrous names as the Dragon, Scorpio, the Great Bear, the Great Lion and the Fishes.

Y PATHY IN TW NS.

Curious Cases of Dual Suffering In-Case of Children of Same Age.

Improbable though it may seem, there is good foundation for the statement recently made to the Chertsey Bo d of Guardians that a girl, now sixteen years of age, was struck deaf and dumb when she was two and a half years of age, following the sudden death of her twin sister. Scientific investigation has revealed some curious instances of "sympathy," as it has been termed, between twins. For instance, of thirty-five specially noticed cases, in no fewer than seven did both twins suffer from some special ailment or other exceptional peculiarity.

One curious instance is of two girls who, at the age of twenty, both found they experienced great difficulty in coming downstairs except very slowly and awkwardly. Two twins, at the age of twenty-three, were attacked by toothache and in each case the same tooth had to be removed. There were also curious cases of coincidence in the falling off of the hair.

There is another case of twins in a Government office, one of whom tea plant grows wild on the hill sickened and died of Bright's disease. Seven months later his brother died Most of the tobacco produced in of the same complaint. In nine out valued at $500,000, is consumed at they sickened from the same disease of two twin brothers, one living in mia at the same moment. Each was certain, when consulting a specialist, that the other was suffering from a like complaint, and mentioned the fact. Subsequent letters confirmed this. This case recalls that of the twin sons of a Birmingham manufacturer, who were passionately attached to one another. For close upon twenty years they had never been separated. Then one of them went to London. One day he was knocked down by an omnibus and killed. At the identical moment, as it was afterwards proved, that the accident occurred, the brother in Birmingham complained of beirs attacked by sharp and violent pains in the head, and he too died, a few days later, from some mysterious disease that the doctors failed to diagnose.

The Theban Sphinx. The Theban sphinx was said to be a monster sent by Juno to lay waste the country around Thebes. It had the head and bust of a woman, the body of a dog, the wings of a bird, the paws of a lion and a human voice. It at once become the terror of the neighborhood and devoured all who could not solve the riddle which it propounded. "What animal walks on four legs in the morning, two at noon and three at night?" Oedipus, attracted by the promise of King Creon of his crown and his sister in marriage, came to Thebes and declared that man goes on all fours in infancy, erect on two legs when upgrown and supports the infirmities of age with a staff. On hearing this correct solution the sphinx dashed her head against a wall, and the land had rest.

Snake's Eyes. Snakes may almost be said to have glass eyes, inasmuch as their eyes never close. They are without lids and each is covered with a transparent scale much resembling glass. When the reptile casts its out skin the eye scales come off with the rest of the transparent envelope out of which the snake slips. This glassy eye scale is so tough that it effectually protects the true eye from the twigs, sharp grass and other obstructions which the snake encounters in its travels, yet it is transparent enough to allow the most perfect vision. Thus, if the snake has not a glass eye it may, at any rate, be said to wear eye-

The Largest Kitchen. The largest kitchen in the world is part of a Paris department store. In this kitchen is prepared the food for the 4,000 employes of the establishment. The smallest kettle holds 75 quarts, the largest 375 quarts. There are fifty frying pans, each of which is capable of holding 300 cutlets at a time or of frying 220 pounds of pota-When there are omel to for breakfast 7,800 eggs are used. The coffee machine makes 750 quarts of coffee daily. There are regularly emoved sixty cooks and a hundred kit-

Not a Distinction. The detective was trying to get a few pointers from the man who had employed him to hunt for a runaway

Has he any distinguishing marks "Yes," said the father, frowring "The distinguishing impatiently. mark about him, sir, is that he looks like me." "H'm!" mused the detective. "I should hardly call that a distinction.

That's a handicap."

Olfactory Nerves. The olfactory nerves are rendered useless for an hour by simply rinsing with cold water, and other fluids may destroy their efficiency far more. The anatomist Hyrtl, who drew an infusion of tea into his nose with the idea of curing a cold, suffered loss of the power of smell for six months and throughout his life never completely recovered it.

Expecting Too Much.

Your Days

Every day that is born into the world comes like a burst of music and rings itself all the day through, and thou shalt make it a dance, a dirge or a life march, as thou wilt,
